SHOT BROTHER, KILLING HIM

Basil Powell Is Slain by Albert at Their Morningside Home.

RESULT OF QUARREL

Witnesses Dumbfounded While Murderer Coolly Looked at Corpse and Then Fled.

POLICE ARE HUNTING HIM

Basil Powell, colored, was shot and instantly killed at 11 o'clock last night by his brother, Albert Powell, at their home in Adelphia street, Morningside. After the shooting Powell escaped, and although the police are thoroughly scouring the entire district he has not yet been captured.

The shooting grew out of a drunken brawl in which the one brother shot down the other in cold blood.

The house is located near the outskirts of the city, and it was several hours after the shooting before the police were notified of the affray. In the house at the time the quarrel arose were also Moses Powell, a brother, and a young colored boy, a neighbor. All four had been drinking, it is alleged, and Alfred and Basil quarreled over some trivial matter. Alfred started to leave the house, and when at the door turned back and said: "Come outside and I'll blow your — head off." Basil started after him, and just as he stepped outside his brother pulled a revolver and fired, the bullet striking him in the left arm and passed through and into his heart.

Basil dropped in his tracks without a word, and his companions, stunned by the suddenness of the affair, stood helpless in the doorway, where they had followed the brothers.

After the shooting Albert stood for a moment and coolly surveyed his victim and then turned and ran away.

It was after 1 o'clock this morning before the report of the shooting reached the police.

Inspector Robert Gray and Capt. Robert Ford with all the officers they could collect went at once to the scene of the murder and started the search for the murderer. Inspector Gray is of the opinion that Albert is hiding in the woods near the place, and his men made a fruitless search of the vicinity.

It is probable that with the start he had he is miles away, for it would be an easy matter to get away on the many trains on the Allegheny Valley, which runs nearby, or to cross the river into Sharpsburg and strike the West Penn or the B. & O. railroad.

HANNA WOULD LIKE TO JOIN SALVATION ARMY

With Gen. S. M. B. Young and Myron T. Herrick, He Speaks at Citadel Dedication.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, June 28.—Senator Hanna today declared in an address to the Salvation Army:

"If I had the power to touch men's hearts I would resign from the United States senate and join the Salvation Army."

A fine new citadel, to be used as headquarters for the Salvation Army in this city and vicinity was dedicated today. Senator Hanna was chairman of the occasion and made an address of half an hour's duration. He spoke almost entirely of the work done by the army and praised it.

Commander Booth Tucker in introducing Senator Hanna, said that he was a man who was well known and respected in this country and in England. Col. Myron T. Herrick spoke briefly in praise of the army's work.

Among other visitors of special prominence at the dedication was General S. M. B. Young of the United States army, who is a guest of Col. Herrick. Commander Booth Tucker said that the citadel in this city will be an inspiration to the army in other cities to erect a similar structure. The property is worth $100,000.

Judge Stevenson Burke and C. A. Grazelli each gave $250 toward liquidating the indebtedness on the building, and both Senator Hanna and Col. Herrick made promises of further contributions to the fund, Senator Hanna already having given $3,500 and Col. Herrick having been one of the Army's best friends in several ways.

ENEMIES OF CASSINI AT WORK FOR HIS REMOVAL

Russian Ambassador to Washington Said to Be Persona Non Grata to Officials.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Enemies of Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, are losing no opportunity to make him feel that his days of usefulness in Washington are ended so far as his government is concerned, in the hope that when he returns to Europe next week he will not return.

All sorts of charges are circulated reflecting on the official character of the ambassador and both the President and Secretary Hay are represented as strongly desiring his transfer to another post. It is said that the president took exception to the semi-official announcement of the Russian government that it could receive no representations from the United States regarding the Kishineff incident.

Hotel Clerk Tired of Life.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Oscar Smith, clerk at the Windsor hotel here, drank laudanum tonight with suicidal intent, but was roused from stupor and his life saved. He said he was tired of life and wanted to find out what death was like.

CHURCH VICTIM OF LIGHTNING

Janitor Is Instantly Killed While Standing in Rear Pew.

LITTLE GIRL HURT

One Man Has His Clothing and Shoes Torn from His Body.

JUST BEFORE SERVICES

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New Concord, O., June 28.—During a severe electrical and rainstorm here at 7 o'clock this evening lightning struck the Presbyterian church building, demolishing the spire.

Hanson Alexander, aged 28 years, the janitor of the church, who was sitting in a rear pew, was instantly killed.

His 10-year-old daughter Mary was with him and she was stunned and remained unconscious for two hours, but it is thought she will recover.

Clovis Allison had his clothes and shoes torn off, and he was severely but not fatally burned.

Miss Jose Padden, the organist, was in the front part of the church, but was not injured. Several little girls coming to prayer meeting became frightened at the lightning and ran from the church to a nearby house only a moment before the lightning struck, or the loss of life would undoubtedly have been greater.

Alexander was a brother of ex-Sheriff J. B. Alexander, and leaves a widow and five children.

The church was badly damaged. The storm was one of the most severe for years and was accompanied by continual lightning and thunder. Many trees and outbuildings were struck.

KING PETER AT CHURCH.

Official Account of Belgrade Murders Being Prepared by Assassins for the Public.

BELGRADE, SERVIA, June 28.—King Peter attended the service at the cathedral today without any escort. The official account of the recent assassination, based on an investigation made by the war minister, is expected to be published shortly. It is understood that it will say that the conspirators did not intend to kill their majesties, but only to deport them; but they were incited to the murder by the attack of Lieut. Petrovics, the king's secretary, who fired the first shot.

It appears that it was the king of Greece and not the king of Italy who sent his congratulations to King Peter on Saturday.

Unknown Man Killed at Akron.

AKRON, O., June 28.—(Special.)—An unknown man, about 45 years old, was struck and instantly killed this afternoon by an Erie passenger train. There was nothing about the man to identify him. His body was badly mangled.

BARRINGTON PUTS FINGER IN WOUNDS OF SLAIN FRIEND

Amazing Coolness Exhibited by Bogus Lord Accused of the Murder of His Benefactor at St. Louis—Says It Is Not McCann's Body.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, June 28.—"Lord" Frederick Seymour Barrington bent over the body of murdered James P. McCann this afternoon without a trace of emotion visible in his face or manner.

"I don't believe that is the body of Jim McCann," he said. He repeated the statement a half dozen times, more emphatically with each reiteration. He seemed half serious, half surprised, but in his manner there was no trace of guilt or remorse for a bloody deed or fear of punishment for foul crime.

The coolest of the 150 persons who surrounded the remains of the murdered man, Barrington impressed me as being either an innocent man or one of the nerviest assassins ever placed in jeopardy of his neck.

Barrington had seen Mrs. Jessie McCann, widow of the murdered man, stoop over the decomposed body of her late husband and exclaim: "That is the sweetest man that ever lived," then fall back weeping and hysterical into the arms of friends. He had heard others testify that the poor mutilated corpse was that of the late horse owner and trainer. In every face he read dark suspicion against himself, firm conviction that the corpse was sufficiently identified. Yet, as he stepped up to look at the remains, found late yesterday afternoon in an abandoned St. Louis county quarry he was perfectly calm and self-possessed.

Barrington scanned what remained of the face and form of the dead man. Then deliberately and impressively he expressed his conviction that the body was not that of Jim McCann, whom he stands accused of murdering.

"Are those bullet holes?" he inquired, pointing to two openings in the forehead and cheek. "Let the doctor examine them. I should not say they were bullet holes."

On being told they were beyond doubt the holes made by bullets, he started to insert his finger in the opening. The flesh was rotten and disgusting to the sight, but Barrington seemed to have no feeling of repugnance. He was prevented from putting his finger in the aperture only by the officers. One physician present afterward said that Barrington's action amazed him more than anything he had ever witnessed in many years' practice.

"I have handled many corpses and performed many surgical operations," said this physician, "and I have been forced to put my hands on grewsome wounds and insert my fingers in bloody flesh and all that, but I would not have put my finger in the decomposed flesh of that dead man's face for any price, and I don't believe any man of normal mind and instincts would. Yet this man Barrington, coolly and deliberately, without any occasion arising for such action, offered to do this thing. I cannot conceive of such a man. He must be abnormal in some way."

Despite Barrington's assertions that the body was not that of McCann, he was locked up on a formal warrant charging him with murder in the first degree. The mystery surrounding the case is as deep as ever. The evidence against Barrington so far is wholly circumstantial.

ANOTHER RUMOR ABOUT POPE LEO UNFOUNDED

Spanish Embassy at Rome Allays Anxiety Caused at Castilian Capital.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO "THE GAZETTE."]

ROME, June 28.—The Spanish embassy to the Vatican has received telegrams from Madrid anxiously inquiring about the health of the pope, saying that from a reliable source it was learned that his holiness was seriously ill.

The rumor soon spread here, producing the usual sensation. On going to the Vatican, however, it was found that it was only another false alarm. The pope is in his usual health and received today in private audience the Bishop Teague Columbis. The pontiff conversed with him on the conditions prevailing in the South American republics and the necessity of raising the standard of the clergy so that they might contribute to the intellectual progress and moral progress of the people.

TRAIN LEAPS OFF HIGH BRIDGE; 90 KILLED AND 100 BADLY HURT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MADRID, June 28.—Fourteen bodies and fifty injured persons have been extricated from the wreck of a Bilboa train which overturned at Nejerilla river last night. Ninety persons were killed and 100 seriously injured. Many of the latter will die. Of the three hundred passengers only six escaped unhurt.

The train, which was composed of two engines and sixteen coaches, was crossing the bridge when the couplings between the engines broke. The second engine left the track and fell, followed by the entire train into the bed of the river. The nearest medical attendance was a mile and a half distant and those passengers who were least injured aided the others until the arrival of nurses, doctors and soldiers from Bilboa.

CONGREGATION BACKS PASTOR

In Entire Accord With Minister's Expressed Views on Lynching.

SCENE OF TRAGEDY

Thousands of People Visit Wilmington on Sunday, but Town Remains Quiet.

RELIC HUNTERS AT LARGE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wilmington, Del., June 28.—Thousands of persons today visited the scene where George F. White, the negro, was burned to death last Monday night by a mob for the murder of Miss Helen Bishop. Thousands came from all the small towns in this vicinity and hundreds came from Chester, Pa., and Philadelphia. A trolley line runs to about three-quarters of a mile from the scene, and bus drivers and others owning vehicles did a thriving business in carrying passengers to the place and explaining to them the events of the last two weeks.

The burning took place in a freshly ploughed field, about 150 feet from the roadway, which is hidden by high bushes. The field has been tramped almost as smooth and hard as asphalt by the thousands of persons that have visited the farm. The only evidence that remains of the work of the mob are three cobblestones, on one of which this inscription has been placed in indelible ink:

"Here is all that remains of White."

The bushes behind which the assault and murder occurred have been cut down for a distance of several yards, and carried away by relic hunters. Many of those who visited the scene today, among them a large number of women, carried away a sprig or branch of the bushes.

Discussion of the events of the last week is rapidly ending, although the affair was the text of some of the clergymen today. The preachers without exception condemned the lynching, notwithstanding the fact that public sentiment is overwhelmingly on the side of the lynchers. The Rev. Robert A. Elwood, the Presbyterian minister, who came in for much criticism for his sermon of last Sunday night, in which he suggested lynching in case the negro escaped speedy punishment at the hands of the law, did not refer to the lynching or to the criticisms today. These criticisms were answered by his congregation today when the following resolutions were read during the services:

"We, the officers and members of the Olivet Presbyterian church, Wilmington, Del., realizing the unjust criticism being made upon our beloved pastor, the Rev. Robert A. Elwood, by a large proportion of the public press, do rise and put ourselves on record in the following resolutions:

"First—We express our firm belief in

KAISER'S SCRUTINY OF OUR FLAGSHIP WAS IMPERTINENT

Washington Naval Officers Attach Significance to the Incident—They Believe Emperor's Object Was to Gain Information.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.

Kaiser Wilhelm's minute inspection of Rear Admiral Cotton's flagship Kearsarge at Kiel has caused almost enough comment to develop into another German-American incident hardly in keeping with the laudatory utterances expressed by the German monarch at Kiel, of friendship and amity.

The sentiment is freely expressed in navy circles here that the kaiser invited himself in order to make a thorough inspection of the Kearsarge. Although it is admitted that it is not unusual in naval etiquette to allow officers of another government or foreign battleships to visit on board an American man-of-war, it is almost without precedent that a foreign monarch has been allowed to investigate the detailed construction and mechanical features of American warships.

According to the dispatches from Kiel, the kaiser is quoted as saying to Rear Admiral Cotton, immediately after boarding the Kearsarge, "Now, will you kindly let me see your ship?" Under the circumstances no alternative was left Rear Admiral Cotton and he could not have refused the request in the opinion of naval authorities, without appearing to be discourteous. But a less important personage would have been politely informed that it was not customary to allow inspection by foreign officials.

From information received at the navy department it is known that Kaiser Wilhelm was exceedingly anxious to get a close range view of an American battleship, and that the invitation to President Roosevelt to permit the American squadron to visit Kiel had this in view. It is also known that Kaiser Wilhelm has informed himself thoroughly of all the data of American warship construction and keeps pace with the new devices and appliances to improve their efficiency.

There is a strong conviction in navy circles here that Kaiser Wilhelm is straining all the resources of his empire and his shipyards to build a navy which shall outstrip the American rather than serve as a means of home defense or to prevent its colonies from being held as hostages in the event of hostilities. Unbiased observers who have minuted with German naval officers admit that the prospect of an encounter with the American navy is regarded as one of the possible exigencies of the not distant future, owing to the nicelies of the international disputes growing out of South American tangles and the prospect of clashing commercial interests between Germany and the United States.

"If President Roosevelt or Admiral Dewey should take advantage of a mere formal visit upon a German battleship to inspect its guns and mechanism, what would the German navy and newspapers have to say?" was one of the pertinent queries heard in the navy department, where the kaiser's visits to the Kearsarge forms the chief topic of discussion these days. Although the navy officials here are highly pleased by the kaiser's approval of the Kearsarge, they nevertheless regard the royal inspection as a step beyond the limits usually observed in the exchange of naval etiquette.

AMERICAN SAILORMEN WELL LIKED

Shopkeepers at Kiel Profit by Their Liberal Custom.

KAISER IS COURTEOUS

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Kiel, Prussia, June 28.—American sailors are having a great time ashore here. They are greeted with the utmost cordiality everywhere. Their characteristic open-handedness is heartily appreciated by the German shopkeepers, who are not accustomed to the free-and-easy generosity of the Yankees in business matters.

There has been nothing whatever to complain of in their conduct when ashore on liberty. The shops and restaurants are engaging interpreters for their convenience. Signs are displayed everywhere, "Americans are welcome to Kiel." The American tars cause considerable wonderment to the Germans by driving around in carriages and cabs. At least half of Kiel's limited supply of these vehicles is thus nightly employed. These pastimes are much too expensive for the German sailormen, whose pay suffers considerable by comparison with that of the Americans.

Reception on the Kearsarge.

The officers of the Kearsarge will give a reception on Monday afternoon, to which the emperor and empress, Prince and Princess Henry and all the notabilities at Kiel have accepted invitations. A reception will be given aboard the Kearsarge probably next Tuesday, for the crews of the German fleet. The German sailors will be able to see the inside of the ship and will be entertained by the crew.

The emperor's yacht Meteor crossed the line first in today's race for cruising schooners, class A, and kept the lead all the way over the 30-mile course, beating the Hamburg in a 10-knot breeze, by 1½ minutes. The empress' yacht Iduna was again 20 minutes behind.

Emperor William had as his guests on board the Meteor during the race United States Ambassador Tower, Prince Henry of Prussia, Prince Adelbert, the emperor's son; Count Tiele-Wenckler, Count Redern and United States Naval Attache Potts.

The emperor was quite a different man aboard the yacht than when aboard the battleship, talking about yachting and sporting matters the whole time.

Emperor Plays Waiter.

When lunch time came his majesty helped each member of the party himself from the large cold dishes provided and Prince Adelbert photographed the group. Though the Hamburg was a close second during the whole of the race, she lost a minute by her stubborn sail going by the board. R. W. Goelet's Sybil, in the race for yachts of her class, finished 3½ minutes ahead of Gustav Stinne's Glueckauf, but had to take second place under the handicap which gave the latter 4½ minutes time allowance. The Belly VI. was third.

In the entire yawl race the Navahoe easily disposed of her only competitor, the Comet. The Therese unexpectedly beat the Commodore, and the big Fischer schooner Cicely turned the tables on Herr Guillemme's Clara, which won on Friday. The Cicely finished three minutes ahead, but the Clara protested owing to the Cicely carrying only one anchor, whereas under German rule, two are necessary.

In the handicap match for cutters the Orion, giving the Navahoe 4 minutes and a half and the Comet 14 minutes time allowance, won by two minutes from the Navahoe. The Comet was nowhere.

ROBBER GOT $900 FROM A CONVENT

Jimmied Open Mother Superior's Desk at the Webster Ave. Home.

NO CLUE TO THE THIEF

Mingling with workmen, a robber entered the Sisters of Mercy convent, at Webster avenue and Tunnel street, Saturday afternoon, "jimmied" open a desk, stole $900 and made his escape. Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe and his officers have been making a search for the thief, but at a late hour last night they had been unsuccessful in their attempt to find him. The money was taken from the office of the mother superior while she was in the dining room at noon, and she is unable to give any description of the man.

The convent is undergoing a general repair, and there were a number of carpenters at work in the hallways and rooms on the first floor. The mother superior was called into the dining room at noon, and left her desk locked. The carpenters also stopped work, and they noticed a stranger enter the office of the mother superior, with his coat on his arm. They thought he was a workman also, and no attention was given him. A few minutes later he came out of the office and quietly walked out of the building.

The robbery was discovered a half hour later when the mother superior went into her office and found the desk had been forced open and the money gone. Word was sent to the police department, and an investigation was begun. The police are of the opinion that the robber is some person who lives in the vicinity of the convent.

As far as the mother superior knows she was the only person who knew the money was there. By the description of the robber given by the workmen he is an American, and was dressed as a mechanic when he left the convent.

The convent is used as a home for working girls, and at the present time there is a large number of them boarded there. The money was to be used to defray current expenses of the convent.

TWO BROTHERS ROBBED BY GANG OF MASKED MEN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BRADFORD, PA., June 28.—Last night at 11:30 o'clock James and Patrick Quinlan, brothers, who live alone on a farm about two miles beyond Limestone, N. Y., on the road toward Cuba, were robbed of $4,000 by four unknown masked men.

The robbers in commencing operations started a blaze outside the house and yelled "Fire." Patrick Quinlan arose from his bed, and while he was putting on his clothes the robbers burst open the door, seized him and bound and gagged him. One of the gang struck James Quinlan with a pick on the head, inflicting serious injuries. They, he, too, was soundly gagged.

The robbers ransacked the house, securing $400 in cash, which has been secreted in a bureau drawer, one gold piece which had been marked was tossed aside.

The brothers remained bound and helpless until 6 o'clock this morning, when Patrick Quinlan finally succeeded in becoming freed from his fastenings, and liberated his brother. Two of the robbers were recognized as men who had visited the brothers a couple of weeks ago and had shared their hospitality.

15,000 PERSONS ATTEND SERVICES

Christian Science Disciples Throng Mechanics Hall, Boston, for Communion.

CHURCH FILLED THREE TIMES

Enormous Crowds Were Handled Without Haste or Confusion—Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy Invites Visitors to Meet Her at Her Home Today.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]
BOSTON, June 28.—That Christian Scientists believe in doing things in an orderly and systematic manner is evidenced by the way in which the committee on arrangements has provided for and taken care of the immense crowd of Scientists which is now in the city, and approval of that committee's work is heard on every side. No better proof of its competence could be had than in the splendid handling of the congregation which filled Mechanics hall at the three communion services today.

The first service was held at 9 a. m. and at the time for the service to begin the auditorium had been comfortably filled without the least confusion. After this service the people present passed quietly out of the hall and away from the building.

Then another 5,000 took their places for the second service, which began at 11:30 a. m. The third service at 2 p. m. was a repetition of the first two and it is estimated that there was a total attendance at the three services of 15,000 people. The order of services was as follows:

An Exodus to Concord.

1—Hymn 163, "Over Waiting Harpstrings of the Mind," written by the Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy.
2—Scripture reading by the first reader, 11th chapter of St. John.
3—Silent prayer. The Lord's Prayer, with its spiritual interpretation.
4—Hymn 168.
5—Reading notices.
6—Collection.
7—Reading church sonnets.
8—Solo, communion hymn, written by the Rev. Mary Baker G. Eddy.
9—Lesson sermon (subject) "Loving One Another."
10—Communion (silent prayer and self-examination).
11—Communion doxology.
12—Reading scientific statement of correlative passages of scripture.
Benediction.

This order of service was observed except that at the time of reading notices, a message of loving esteem from the church to Mrs. Eddy was read by Mr. Kimball of Chicago and by unanimous vote of the congregation it was approved and ordered sent to her at her home in Concord, N. H.

Just before the benediction, the first reader, Prof. Herman S. Hering, read a greeting of love from Mrs. Eddy to the church, which included an invitation from her to the members and members-elect to visit her home, "Pleasant View," Concord, Monday afternoon. The services were conducted in a most simple and dignified manner and the genuine pleasure experienced by the members in the services and in the loving word and gracious invitation received by them from their leader was apparent in their happy faces as they left the great auditorium after each service.

Program of the Service.

Tomorrow morning there will be a general exodus of Scientists from Boston in response to Mrs. Eddy's invitation, and in addition to the regular trains on the Boston & Maine railroad, enough extra trains will be run to comfortably convey the crowds to Concord and return.

Notwithstanding the fact Mrs. Eddy's invitation was only received today it was announced at the 2 o'clock service that arrangements had been already made with the railroad company to have special return trip tickets on sale by the committee of arrangements at Mechanics hall tonight and tomorrow morning. Most of the Scientists will return from Concord tomorrow afternoon and evening in order to be present at the annual business meeting on Tuesday.

Mrs. Eddy's letter was as follows:

My Beloved Brethren—I have a secret to tell thee and a question to ask. Do you know how much I love you, and the nature of this love? No? Then my sacred secret is tenderness and sympathy. Yet, dear ones, and this inmost something becomes articulate, and my book is not all you know of me—but your knowledge with its magnitude of meaning inspires by life and your heart has discovered it.

Battle Against the World.

The spiritual bespeaks our temporal history. Difficulty, abnegation, constant battle against the world, the flesh and self, tell my love-lent secret—evidence a heart wholly in protest and unquenchable in love.

The unprecedented progress of Christian Science is proverbial and we cannot be too grateful nor too humble for this. Inasmuch as daily lives serve to enhance or to stain its glory. To triumph in truth, to keep the faith individually and collectively, conflicting elements must be mastered. Defeat need not follow victory. Joy over good achievements and work well done should not be eclipsed by some lost opportunity, some imperative demand not yet met. Truth, life and love will never lose their claim on me. And here let me add:

Truth dignifies life in hamlet or town;
Life lessens all pride—its pomp and its frown—
Love comes to our tears like soft summer showers
To beautify, bless and inspire man's powers.

Signed with reverence and love,
MARY BAKER G. EDDY.

The following message, prepared by Edward A. Kimball of Chicago, and unanimously adopted by each service, was sent in response to Mrs. Eddy:

Message to Mrs. Eddy.

Availing ourselves of our sacred Christian privilege, thousands of Christian Scientists are again assembled to celebrate the holy communion ordained by our Master and lovingly observed by our church.

With all the generations of earth, we are a people who, in times past, were in bondage to sin, disease and every disease. Many, thus have been redeemed from the most obdurate sin. Others who once were dying have been restored to health and useful living.

Coming thus, as a peculiar people, to bow in mute gratitude before our God, we give thanks to Him for the Christian salvation which continually heals the sick as well as the sinful.

BODY OF INFANT THROWN INTO RIVER

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., June 28.—(Special.)—Basil Watson, colored, has been arrested at Harrisburg, Pa., and lodged in jail at Charleston, W. Va., charged with bearing the grave of an infant at Shepherdstown and throwing it into the Potomac river. The chief witness against him is the colored woman on whose statements Prof. Godwyn brought charges against Miss Wingate, a music teacher at Shepherd college, which caused such a sensation there. His hearing will be held tomorrow.

Teachers' Salaries Advanced.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the local school board last night the question of teachers' salaries was decided by the adoption of a schedule providing for advances at regular periods until the maximum sum has been reached for that grade. Nine grades were formed. The highest grade is $57 minimum and $62 maximum; the average salary is $42 per month.

GIRL'S TONGUE CAUSES ANOTHER FEUD MURDER

Carries Tales from One Faction to Another, and Fatal Engagement Results.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]
JACKSON, KY., June 28.—Information reached here today of a tragedy on the Breathitt-Magoffin county line which is the result of the Hargis-Cardwell feud.

Hiram Barnett was killed, shot through the head, by one of the Hacker boys, and Joe and John Barnett were wounded. Several other young men participated in the battle, which was caused by one of the young men telling Miss Lelia Burns, the sweetheart of Hiram Hacker, that he had circulated stories regarding her uncle, Burns Fitzpatrick, bringing back to Magoffin county with him a brand new Winchester rifle after he had caused the mistrial of Curtis Jett and Tom White here.

The girl told Barnett about it and he accused the Hacker boys of starting the story, since an uncle of theirs was also a member of the jury and had voted with the other 10 for the death sentence for Jett. The fight occurred at the home of Miss Burns, which is near Daisy Dell. The young men all reside in Magoffin county, while Miss Burns lives in Breathitt.

BOSTON BURGLAR WAS STUDENT OF THEOLOGY

Self-Confessed Hotel Thief Formerly Attended College at Greenville, O.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]
BOSTON, June 28.—It now transpires that E. A. Sweetser, the self-confessed fire escape burglar caught ransacking rooms at the Parker house Friday night, is a student at the Gordon Theological training school on Montgomery street, and was formerly at Dennison university, Greenville, O.

Sweetser is a clever appearing chap, but has been at times supposed to be afflicted with kleptomania. He served time at Concord reformatory two years ago for stealing 1,000 gross of shoestrings from Lucma Beebe, who had been his friend and gave him sparetimes employment. Sweetser is 24 and athletic.

FELL INTO FISH OIL.

Eckert Caused Great Suffering to Sensitive Nostrils at Police Station.

People entering police station No. 3 yesterday sniffed and smelled and made grimaces on account of the strange aroma pervading the place. It was all due to Tim Eckert, living on Penn avenue, near Thirty-ninth street, who either fell or jumped into a tank filled with fish oil at the Shoenberger plant in Sixteenth street, at an early hour in the morning.

Eckert climbed to the top of the tank and was seen to disappear in its depths by two men, who rushed to his rescue, and securing hooks managed with great difficulty to pull him out. The watchman telephoned for a patrol wagon, and into it the man, almost strangled and unable to walk on account of the weight of his clothes, was placed. Wagon man John B. Pegg refused to allow Eckert to sit down, and he was forced to lie on the floor.

At the station house Sergeant McClintock borrowed a pair of overalls from a railroad man living in Spring alley and gingerly set to work to search the man, who was afterward placed in a cell charged with drunkenness. He remained there until morning to the great discomfort of the station house attaches. Eckert was released with a fine of $1 and costs.

BROKE DOWN IN DESERT

Two Automobilists Have Thirsty Experience 22 Miles from Railroad Station.

SALT LAKE, UTAH, June 28.—(Special.)—Alone on the desert, water 10 miles away, food and lodging 15 miles, nearest railroad station 22 miles, means of locomotion in automobile with the gasoline all gone. These were the conditions which confronted Henry M. Crowther, a Salt Lake mining engineer, and Guy C. Van Alstyne of New York.

Crowther and Van Alstyne started out to make a trip of 275 miles. In a strip of desert the machine began to cough more and more weakly and finally died. The result was that Mr. Van Alstyne walked 22 miles in the hot sun, hungry and thirsty, to the nearest railroad station. He sent a team and wagon with a fresh supply of gasoline to Mr. Crowther, who had been forced to keep a hungry, thirsty, heated vigil with his machine.

COLOR LINE DRAWN.

Negroes Attending Convention of American Institutions Must Live by Themselves.

BOSTON, June 28.—President Eliot is the target for the colored brethren because he has announced that all colored teachers attending the monster convention of American institutions in July must be quartered with negroes, and he has appointed the widow of Judge Ruffin, colored, as a committee of one to provide quarters for the colored visitors.

The colored newspaper, the Guardian, criticises Eliot severely for introducing Jim Crow methods when they were uncalled for. The colored sentiment is that Eliot erred in saying anything. The colored people were going to take care of their own. As the colored editor says, Eliot showed poor tact, but Eliot says he meant what he said and said what he meant.

ROOSEVELT PRAISED

Austrian Newspaper Says Action in Kishineff Matter Will Bring Undying Fame.

VIENNA, June 28.—The action of the American government concerning the petition to the czar regarding the Kishineff massacre is watched with the closest attention here on account of its possible effect on eastern affairs. The Neue Fricie Presse says:

"President Roosevelt's use of American influence with Russia will redound to his undying fame. The Russian autocracy cannot remain unmoved by the fact that the president as an advocate of humanity reminds it in the face of the whole world of the duties it owes to humanity and justice."

MINING COMPANY TO OPERATE IN SIBERIA

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., June 28. (Special.)—The Siberian Mining Company has been organized to conduct extensive operations in Siberia. Negotiations began some time ago by Willis McCormick have resulted in the purchase of 2,000 acres of mineral-bearing territory 50 miles above the placer fields. The cost is $600,000, of which the first payment of $50,000 has been made.

GIRLS WALTZING IN DEAD ROOM SHOCK COMMISSIONER MERCER.

Girls waltzing in the dead room of the morgue last night shocked Commissioner Carson Mercer, and he immediately took charge of the place and drove the dancers from the building. He also assumed the role of watchman and refused to permit anyone to enter the building unless they had business there.

While the deputy coroners are at work preparing bodies for inspection in the front of the building is unprotected. On Sundays many visitors frequent the place. Coroner Jesse M. McCleary has been annoyed by a number of young girls going there to look at the faces of the dead.

Warnings have been useless, and these girls persist in frequenting the place. While the deputy coroners were busy in the embalming room last night six girls, all but 15 years old, turned the dead house into a dancing hall. Commissioner Mercer entered the building at this time, drove the girls out and stood watch at the door.

All visitors were cross-examined by him before they were permitted to enter the place. If they had no business there they were refused admittance.

"This place should be respected as a church, not as a playhouse," said Commissioner Mercer last night. "The idea of girls of that age hanging about this place. It's awful."

Heretofore there has been only a watchman on duty at the morgue during the day. After this a night watchman will be on duty.

BOHEMIANS HELD BLESSING CEREMONY

Street Parade Participated in by Prominent Men of the Fraternal Order.

The Pittsburgh residents of Pittsburgh and vicinity held a celebration yesterday for the blessing of the guns and equipment of the St. George Cadets of the Central Catholic union, a Bohemian fraternal order. The ceremony was held in St. Wenceslaus Bohemian Roman Catholic church, Main street, Allegheny, by the Rev. F. Sedlak, the rector, and was attended by many prominent in the order from all parts of the country. After the ceremony addresses were made in the hall adjoining the church, which were followed by a big parade through Allegheny and the downtown section of Pittsburgh.

The parade was under the direction of Col. J. Vorazka of Cleveland and Capt. Joseph Sedy of Pittsburgh, and was formed as follows:

Columbia Military Band.
Catholic Knights of St. Vaclav, 50 Men.
St. George's Cadets, Allegheny, 50 Men.
Cleveland Cadet Brigade and Band of Cleveland, 250 Men.
St. Joseph's Society of Catholic Workmen, 25 Men.
St. John's Society of the First Catholic Union, 75 Men.
St. Aloysius Literary Society, 35 Men.
Three Carriages Carrying the Supreme Officers of the Union.

Among the visitors and officials present were Supreme President Vaclav Jirousek, Supreme Recorder John A. Stukbauer of Cleveland, Supreme Secretary Caspar Wolf of St. Louis, Supreme Treasurer John Bozousky of Chicago, Supreme Medical Examiner Dr. A. J. Boucek of Allegheny, Supreme Delegates Frank Sindelar, John Turek and Frank Marek. A reception and dance will be given the visitors in Harl-Gari hall, Allegheny, tonight.

TWENTY-FOUR DEAD.

Fifty Others Are Injured as Result of Mine Explosion in Mexico.

BARRATOERAN, COAHUILA, MEXICO, June 28.—Twenty-four miners were killed and about 50 others seriously injured in an explosion of gas, which occurred Thursday night, in Luis Esperanza's coal mines, the property of the Mexican Coal and Coke company.

The disaster was caused by the ignition of gas from the flame of a defective lamp. Probably 100 men were in the mine at the time of the explosion. After the explosion those who were able to move rushed for the exists, but the falling earth and debris brought death to many.

Fully 50 miners escaped with broken limbs and scorched flesh.

At last reports, the dead bodies of 24 men had been brought to light. Others may die from their injuries.

WAGES ARE REDUCED.

Cut in Price of Pig Iron Makes Trouble for Reading Company.

READING, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Iron workers employed at the Macungie furnace of the Empire Iron & Steel Company have agreed to accept a slight reduction in wages in order to avert a shut-down, which the company had decided upon owing to the drop in the price of pig iron.

In January the employes of the concern were given a 5 per cent advance in wages. It is the intention of the company to keep its stacks going as long as possible, but as the market is uncertain, it is impossible to make any prediction as to the future.

It is claimed the "good times" have advanced the cost of producing a ton of pig iron to $18 and $16, as compared with $10 and $12 five years ago. Should present conditions prevail for any length of time the furnace owners say the only way to meet them will be to reduce expenses.

LITTLE SLAV BOY LOST TICKET AND ADDRESS

John Vaiko, a Slav 10 years old, was turned over to the matron at Central police station Saturday night by an officer at the Union depot. The boy expected to meet his father, Michael Vaiko, there, but after caring for him all day and the father not appearing, the officers sent him to the police station. He will likely be sent to the City home or Marshalsea today, as it is impossible, even through an interpreter, to learn where the boy's father is. He had a slip of paper with his father's address on it, which was given as Mecriden and the railroad people say there is no such place in this vicinity. The boy says his railroad ticket was stolen from him and it is believed he was expected to go to some other town. Passengers about the Union depot, learning his story, gave him $8.10.

BEAVER DAILY X-RAY STARTS CO-OPERATION

BEAVER FALLS, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The Daily X-Ray, an evening Republican paper published at Beaver, will appear tomorrow as a morning paper and hereafter will be run by the printers employed in the establishment, on the co-operative plan. Frank Parker of this place will have the management of the publication. No salaries will be paid and the men's compensation for their work will be a division of the weekly profits on a basis of what each man was receiving per week previous to the new plan.

NEW YORK WORKMEN DECLINE ARBITRATION

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Special.)—Seventy men, representing 18 strong unions in the building trades, met in Turn hall today and decided they would not discuss arbitration until the lockout was lifted, and that they would soon reveal the true cause of all the trouble. It was announced that arrangements had been made for a huge mass meeting, when the labor men will give the public the truth about the employers from their standpoint.

Kills Wife With Stove Lifter.

LAFANEE, ONT., June 28.—Gideon Burts, in Anglesia township, near Cloyne, killed his wife today by battering her head with a stove lifter. He was insane. After committing the crime Burts hunted up a constable and invited him to see what he had done.

ARMY WORMS INVADE STATE OF WASHINGTON

Column 150 Yards Wide and Three Miles Long Sweeps All Before It.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]
TACOMA, WASH., June 28.—Mighty hosts of army worms in a solid column 150 yards wide and nearly three miles long are marching through Walla Walla county. This morning Oliver Dewitt, a Dry Creek rancher, met the army emerging from Joe Harbert's wheat field, about five miles out. He tried to turn some of the leaders with a stick, but failed. His horses and team crushed thousands, but had no effect on the remainder.

The worms are from one and a half to two inches long and are brown and fuzzy, with green stripes in some cases, and are like caterpillars. The ranchers are alarmed for their garden truck and wheat.

SEEK VITRIOL THROWER

Reward of $500 Offered by People of Ada, O., for Assailant of Fred C. Lawhead.

ADA, O., June 28.—(Special.)—The citizens of Ada are determined to locate the person who threw vitriol into the face of Fred C. Lawhead, a student of Ohio Normal university, June 22, and disfigured him for life. The following notice was sent broadcast today:

"The council of Ada, the citizens and the Normal university of Ada, O., offer a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the person who threw vitriol in the face of Fred C. Lawhead as he was walking on South Main street Monday evening, June 22, at 10:30."

The crime has aroused the citizens of Ada to an unusual pitch. So strong has been the pressure since Lawhead met with the misfortune that postal cards have been sent to all the local towns of the state, upon which is printed the offer of the reward.

The belief exists in Ada that the $500 ledged can be duplicated, and, in any event, a considerable amount more of money may be earned by the person who is shrewd enough to locate the guilty person.

APPEALS FOR FUNDS.

Earl of Rosebery Seeks to Establish Technical School in England.

LONDON, June 28.—The earl of Rosebery has written to the chairman of the London county council, submitting a plan for the establishment of a great institution for advanced scientific and technological education at a cost of $1,500,000, towards which sum Wernher, Beit & Co., the well-known diamond firm, and others offer large contributions. A site for the institution has also practically been secured. Lord Rosebery asks the council for an annual grant of $150,000 for the maintenance of the institution, upon securing which the whole scheme depends. In his letter submitting the proposal, Lord Rosebery says:

"It is short of scandalous that our ambitious youths should be obliged to resort to the United States and Germany for technical training." He points out that English industries are suffering in consequence of the neglect of this important branch of education in the United Kingdom.

SHIPS IN COLLISION.

British Steamer Gloucester Reaches Falmouth, Eng., in a Crippled Condition.

FALMOUTH, ENGLAND, June 28.—The British steamer City of Gloucester, Capt. Milburn, arrived here with her starboard bow cut down from the topgallant forecastle to the water's edge, her plates badly indented below and her forepeak full of water, the result of a collision in the fog off Bishops Rock with the British bark Eudora, Capt. Fulton, Vancouver, B. C., January 28, for Plymouth. The Eudora, it is reported, is being towed to Plymouth.

The City of Gloucester was last reported at Hamburg, June 8, from Savannah, Ga.

FATAL ILLNESS CAUSED BY DEATH OF A DOG

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., June 28.—(Special.)—The death of his pet dog is given as the cause of Master Fred Bard's illness. He is dying at Mercy hospital. The little boy, who is of a very sensitive and affectionate nature, was greatly shocked when his pet, a shepherd dog, was run over and killed by a street car.

Ask Aid from Carnegie.

POTTSVILLE, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The Pottsville high school alumni, numbering about 100 members, have started a movement which they hope will provide Pottsville with a handsome new public library. They already have more than 800 volumes and have asked Andrew Carnegie for an endowment.

Sharon Negro to Go to Workhouse.

James A. Pryor, a negro, 25 years old, was put in jail last night by a court officer from South Sharon, who will today take Pryor to the workhouse to stay 90 days for drunkenness and vagrancy, which the commitment says is his fourth offense.

PAYNE VERY SENSITIVE TO UNJUST CRITICISM

Senator Hanna Says President Will Stand by the Postmaster General.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]
CLEVELAND, June 28.—Senator Hanna is back from Washington, where he conferred with treasury officials regarding the kind of stone to be used for building Cleveland's new federal building.

"I went to Washington to get some information and secured it. My endeavor is and always has been to do the best I can for Cleveland. I hope to do so in this matter," said the senator today.

While in Washington the senator breakfasted with Postmaster General Payne and later dined with President Roosevelt. The senator would not discuss the postoffice scandals, but stated emphatically that the postmaster general would not tender his resignation.

"Gen. Payne," said the senator, "is an intimate friend of mine, and I know positively that he will not resign. He is a very sensitive man and the criticism that has been hurled at him has hurt him very much. Gen. Payne is not to blame for what occurred there. President Roosevelt has the greatest confidence in his integrity and I'll venture to say he will stand back to back with him in this matter."

YOUNG MAN KILLED.

Three Men Are Held on Suspicion by the Police at Bradford.

BRADFORD, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—This morning between 2 and 3, Charles Wagoner of Washington street extension was fatally shot. He was with a party of young men living on the point of an unopened house and were listening to a disturbance which was in progress across the street. There was a sound of falling glass across the way, and soon after the report of a rifle was heard.

Young Wagoner was struck by a bullet from the weapon, the 44-caliber ball entering his left thigh, passing up through the abdomen and reaching a point under the skin near the eleventh rib on the left side.

Wagoner was taken to the Bradford hospital and given surgical attention, but died this evening. The police arrested Isaac Martin, Elmer Graham and Jere Ryan on suspicion.

WAR IS IMMINENT.

Bulgaria and Turkey on Verge of Hostilities in Vicinity of Adrianople.

LONDON, June 29.—A dispatch from Vienna to the Morning Leader says the situation in the vilayet of Adrianople is very grave.

There are many indications that Bulgaria and Turkey regard an outbreak of war as a probable contingency. It is reliably stated that the Turkish authorities are organizing a regular persecution of the Bulgarian inhabitants, their villages being razed to the ground and many notable Bulgarians being imprisoned on slight pretext. The Turkish troops in the vilayet number 150,000.

Vanderbilt System Promotions.

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Special.)—Promotions have come to four officials of the Vanderbilt system of railroads. A. H. Smith, now general superintendent of the New York Central, becomes general manager, and J. F. Bradfield now his assistant, becomes general superintendent. On the Lake Shore, W. H. Marshall, now general superintendent, becomes general manager, and his present assistant, E. H. Storrs, succeeds him. The promotions are made to relieve W. C. Brown, third vice president of the two lines, of some of his work.

Returned Missionary Speaks.

CUMBERLAND, MD., June 28.—The Rev. J. McLane Brown of Fawn Grove, Pa., who 13 years ago was general secretary of the Cumberland Y. M. C. A., spoke today at the regular Sunday afternoon service of the Y. M. C. A., and preached at the Bedford Street Methodist Presbyterian church; the Rev. W. A. Melvin at the morning service. The Rev. Mr. Brown after leaving here saw several years' service as a missionary in Japan, later returning to this country and settling in Pennsylvania.

Remodeled Church Dedicated.

EVERETT, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The Trinity Reformed church, after undergoing remodeling and being almost entirely rebuilt, was today rededicated, the dedication ceremony being performed by the Rev. John C. Bowman, D. D., professor of New Testament Exegesis in the Reformed Theological seminary at Lancaster, Pa., assisted by the Rev. William Mann Irvine, Ph. D., president of Mercersburg academy, and other ministers from this vicinity.

ITALY TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT ST. LOUIS EXPOSITION

ROME, June 28.—Owing to the ministerial crisis it has been impossible for the chamber to discuss before its adjournment tonight the appropriation for Italy's participation in the St. Louis fair. The cabinet has, therefore, decided to devote the necessary funds to this end from other sources, and to submit their action for parliamentary approval at the autumn session.

Tucson Hotel Burns.

TUCSON, ARIZ., June 28.—More than $50,000 loss was caused by fire here today. The principal loss is on the San Xavier hotel, which caught fire from the kitchen and in less than 30 minutes was in ruins. The hotel was owned by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. The guests escaped.

House Struck By Lightning.

During the thunderstorm yesterday afternoon the residence of Frank Arnold of Oakmont, Allegheny Valley railway, was struck by lightning. The inmates were stunned, but none was seriously injured. The house is situated on a hill, and was slightly damaged by the bolt.

Condition Was Unchanged.

There was no change last night in the condition of A. E. W. Painter, who is seriously ill at his home, No. 815 Irwin avenue, Allegheny. At his house it was said that Mr. Painter had rested comfortably during the day. On account of his age his friends fear that his condition is dangerous.

Fined for Drawing Revolver.

Tony Mali, an Italian, paid $25 and costs before Magistrate E. C. Negley yesterday morning for drawing a revolver on a fellow-countryman in Frankstown avenue, Saturday night. They had a dispute about some money.

Italian Card Players Captured.

Policeman J. A. Noon raided a card game played by a crowd of Italians in Center avenue, near Neville street, yesterday. He succeeded in capturing three of the players.

The Rev. Nathan G. Parke Is Dead.

The Rev. Nathan G. Parke, who died Sunday morning at Glen Dermott, Wis., was one of the leading Presbyterian clergymen in Pennsylvania, having been pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Pittston since 1848. He was born in York county, December 16, 1820, and was educated at Washington and Jefferson college and graduated from Princeton in the class of 1844. He was assigned to the Pittston mission, established the church there and later took a call to become pastor. All his life he was active in the work of the presbytery.

LYNCHING FROM ANOTHER VIEW

Chicago Minister Declares Terrible Crime of Victim Seems Lost Sight of.

NATION IS MADE SICK

Declares It Useless to Try Men Who Are Goaded by Assault Into Taking Law Into Their Own Hands—Differs from His Brothers.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]
CHICAGO, June 28.—"I am no advocate of lynching or of mob law, but I would rather see a community wrought to the highest pitch over crimes that would seem impossible this side of hell than to remain apathetic," was the declaration of the Rev. Dr. W. A. Bartlett, at the First Congregational church today, in a prelude on "Lynching from another point of view. Dr. Bartlett said among other things:

"I have seen so many sermons, editorials and resolutions denouncing lynching and mob law that one gets the impression that the citizens who hang or burn the destroyer of life, home and all that is held sacred by womanhood, are the race offenders, rather than the monster whom they destroy.

"We seem to be so absorbed with the malady of this vague term law that the notion appears to prevail that the real criminals are those who do not wait for legal processes, and the violator of womanhood is the abused party.

"We shudder at the torture of the criminal who is burned, but apparently forget to shudder for the innocent girl, whose mental and spiritual agony is tenfold greater than that of the fire. This is not a race problem, except so far as members of one race are the offenders. The white man who commits the same crime is just as guilty.

"I say that when you look at a lynching from another view point it is simply the hunting forth of an indignation and loathing that will not be checked. In the Old Testament days they made short work of such an offender.

"Lynching is certainly a bad method and forms the habit of disorder and makes men bloodthirsty. But if it is to be avoided more certainly is called for a more sure and speedy trial of those wretches, who often brazenly deny crime amid red tape of legal processes, but confess sobriety when confronted with determined men. It is useless to bring to trial good men who rise up to protect their firesides. The community will not bear it. If men object to being burned, let them cease from crimes which make a nation sick."

THE CONGREGATION BACKS ITS PASTOR

our pastor's honesty, integrity and Christian character; our appreciation of his ministerial labors in our congregation and our admiration of his manly Christian courage as expressed by his pulpit messages and his life in our midst.

"Second—We record our belief that his message of last Sunday evening was both timely and true, sensible and scriptural, and in no wise can the actions of the citizens on Monday night be chargeable to that sermon.

"Third—We order a copy of these resolutions placed upon the sessional records, read in the church services of the coming Lord's day, and given to the press for publication."

Wilmington remains quiet. The police department, however, has not relaxed its vigilance, and is prepared to meet any emergency. It is not believed that any further trouble will be started by either the whites or the blacks.

The Rev. Montrose W. Thornton, colored, pastor of the First African Methodist Episcopal church of this city, preached a sensational sermon to his congregation tonight. The church was crowded in expectation that Mr. Thornton would have something to say on the events of the past week. He said in part:

"The white man, in the face of his boasted civilization, stands before my eyes tonight the demon of the world's racial monster incarnate; and in so far as the negro race is concerned, seems to give no quarter. The white is a heathen, a fiend, a monstrosity before God, and is equal to any act in the category of crime. I would sooner trust myself in a den of a hyena than to his arms. With a court law and officers of law in his hands, the despised negro can expect no mercy, justice or protection. The negro is unsafe anywhere in this country. He is the open prey at all times of barbarians, who know no restraint and will not be restrained.

"There is but one part left for the persecuted negro when charged with crime and when innocent. Be a law unto yourself. You are taught by this lesson of outrage to save yourself from torture at the hands of the blood-seeking public. Save your race from insult and shame. Be your own sheriff, court and jury, as was the outlaw Tracy. Die in your tracks, perhaps drinking the blood of your persecutors. Booker T. Washington's charity, humanity, advice of forbearance, love, fortitude and so on, will never be reciprocated by white men."

OHIO TOWNS FLOODED

All Roads Leading to Two Villages in Southeast Are Under Water.

WHEELING, W. VA., June 28.—(Special.)—A cloudburst, the worst in the history of this section, visited Ohio, east of this city tonight and did immense damage to crops and property. The storm was most severe along Peters run and Chapline run, tributaries of Wheeling creek. The former enters at Elm Grove, the latter at Tridelphia, both fashionable suburban villages.

In each village the water from the streams covered first floors and the fences and outbuildings carried down by the water-damaged property. A sharp flash of lightning struck the Vance Memorial church at Allenheim, and tore a hole through the roof of the magnificent structure.

Three feet of water covers all the roads leading to Peters run and it is no longer possible to reach that locality by telephone.

Boy Charged With Forgery.

GREENSBURG, PA., June 28.—Joseph Storey, an 18-year-old boy of Jeanette, was brought to jail this morning on a charge of forgery, made by Lieutenant A. B. Miller. Storey was a former employe of Miller, who alleges that he forged his name to six checks, ranging in amount from $15 to $20. The forgeries, it is stated, have been going on for almost a month.

Preached to Jail Prisoners.

The Rev. E. E. Donehoo of the Eighth Presbyterian church, South Main street, conducted the religious services at the county jail yesterday, assisted by the choir of the North Avenue M. E. church.

Negro Killed by Train.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—(Special.)—Robert Forrest, an aged negro, was struck and instantly killed last night by an Erie train. He had lived in the city for about a year.

MUCH SMOKE, LITTLE FIRE.

Half Barrel of Gasoline Explodes in New Hotel Under Construction.

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—(Special.)—A half-barrel of gasoline stored in the sub-cellar of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, now under construction at Broad and Walnut streets, exploded this afternoon, causing great excitement, but little damage.

For half an hour there was about the place enough smoke and enough police and fire apparatus for a $1,000,000 conflagration, and the trolley cars on Walnut street were at a standstill.

The barrel containing the gasoline leaked. The vapor from the dripping fluid came in contact with a smouldering blacksmith's forge, causing the explosion.

There was a roar, a cloud of smoke and a fire alarm. Every piece of apparatus in the fire district responded, but there was no fire. Only smoke and an immense crowd of curious persons and policemen.

CHURCH IS RESUMED.

People of Jackson, Ky., Again Feel Secure in Going Out After Nightfall.

JACKSON, KY., June 28.—For the first time in many months evening church services were held tonight. Prior to this time the citizens were afraid to leave their homes after dark.

Tom Sharp, who introduced the usual Saturday night shooting carnival yesterday, was arrested by provost guards after a two-mile chase over the mountains. This incident had a quieting effect last night and today.

The feeling of security is returning to the citizens and every day strengthens their assurance. Joe Crawford and Ed Tharp, accused of burning Ewen's hotel, were released on $1,000 bail each and will return to work for Judge James Hargis. Jack and Leland Howard and Jeff Tharp are their surety. Their cases will be taken up by the special grand jury July 20.

WEDDING PARTY RAIDED.

Fight Was Going On, Knives Being Flourished — Forty Guests Fined.

Inspector P. F. Kelly and Lieut. Thomas J. Morley made a raid on a Polish wedding at the home of Joe Mackshea, No. 2022 Harcums alley, South Side, yesterday morning at 2 o'clock and captured 40 persons. A fight was in progress when the police arrived, and knives were being freely flourished. One woman was thrown down a flight of stairs but was not seriously hurt.

One of the men, who was seen with a knife, escaped by jumping from a window. The women were not arrested. Each of the 40 men was fined $5 and costs, and all paid.

DEMENTED WOMAN STRUCK BY A TRAIN

Mrs. Bridget Lacey, 63 years old, of No. 3257 Second avenue, was struck by a shifting engine on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, near Burlington street early yesterday morning, and probably fatally injured. Mrs. Lacey is slightly demented, and wandered to the railroad tracks in the rear of her house. She was walking along the track when the engine struck her and hurled her a considerable distance. She sustained a broken leg, and was injured internally. But slight hopes are entertained for her recovery.

PASTOR'S SON STARTS FOR THE METROPOLIS

Russell Hill, the 12-year-old son of the Rev. J. J. Hill of No. 733 Broad street, Sewickley, left home on Saturday night and some time later a note he wrote was found in which she boy said he meant to take a trip to New York. The police here were asked to intercept him, but too late and a search failed to locate him. It was learned he had gone to the Union station and asked for a ticket to New York, but as he had only $2 he was not accommodated. He is a stout boy, weighing about 110 pounds and has curly hair. He wore a dark suit or knee pants, a pink waist and light cloth cap.

BOOTBLACKS ROBBED HIM AS HE GOT A SHINE

Thomas Doyle of West Liberty borough, was having his shoes shined by a small boy at Fifth avenue and Grant street yesterday morning. A dozen other bootblacks and nearboys gathered about and began to have fun with Doyle. After the work was done, and he had walked away he discovered that he had lost $45. He went to police headquarters where he made complaint. Inspector McStay believes he knows the boy who took the money, but was unable to find him.

ENDEAVORERS WILL MEET IN BIG TENT

DENVER, June 28.—Arrangements are complete for the meeting in this city of the twenty-first international biennial convention of the Society of Christian Endeavor next month. The sessions will be held in Tent Endeavor, which will be pitched in a convenient place near City park, and will have a seating capacity of 10,000. Overflow meetings will be held in several of the larger churches.

Had Both of His Feet Cut Off.

David Weldon, 30 years old, of Bellaire, O., had both his feet cut off by a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad shifting engine at the foot of South Eighth street early yesterday morning. Weldon was crossing the tracks and did not notice the approach of the engine, which struck him and knocked him down, running over his feet. He was taken to the South Side hospital, where his condition is said to be critical.

Russian Soldiers in Korea.

YOKOHAMA, June 28.—A dispatch from Seoul, capital of Korea, reports that a Korean military officer who has reached the Yalu river states that 150 Russian soldiers have crossed the river and are now stationed at two points on the Korean side.

Hit With a Handy Billy.

John Fenik of No. 22 Bedford avenue was hit with a handy billy at Fifth avenue and Grant street about midnight Saturday. He was sent to the Homeopathic hospital in an unconscious condition and an hour later was able to go home. His scalp was cut. His assailant was unknown.

Veterans to Parade on the Fourth.

A special meeting of the McKees Rocks Civil War Veterans' association was held yesterday afternoon, at which it was voted to take part in the parade to be held on the Rocks on the Fourth.

WILL DISCUSS SOME KNOTTY POINTS IN THEOLOGY

TO REVIVE OLD PRECEPTS

Series of Meetings Will Be Held in Allegheny Carnegie Hall Next October — Radical Doctrines Arouse Interest.

C. T. Russell.

The Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton.

A unique debate on the Holy Scriptures has been arranged between the Rev. Dr. E. L. Eaton, pastor of the North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, and Charles T. Russell of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society to be held in the Allegheny Carnegie hall next October. The discussions will revive interest in some radical theological precepts and will be watched with interest by both ministers and laymen of all Christian faiths.

In a duplicate letter written yesterday the schedule for the meetings and the subjects were arranged by the two ministers. The following propositions were arranged for discussion:

Proposition I.—The Scriptures clearly teach that divine grace and power, full and free, have been constantly exercised toward mankind since the fall, to the intent that all, if they would, might be saved, hence there will be no probation after death, nor need of any. Dr. Eaton to affirm, Mr. Russell to deny.

Proposition II.—The Scriptures clearly teach that the souls of the dead are unconscious while their bodies are in the grave. Mr. Russell will affirm, Dr. Eaton will deny.

Proposition III.—The Scriptures clearly teach that all of the saved will become spirit beings, and after the general judgment will enter heaven. Dr. Eaton will affirm; Mr. Russell will deny.

Proposition IV.—The Scriptures clearly teach that only the "saints" of this gospel age will share in the first resurrection, but that vast multitudes will be saved in and by the subsequent resurrection. Mr. Russell will affirm; Dr. Eaton will deny.

Proposition V.—The Scriptures clearly teach that the second coming of Christ will precede the millenium, and that the object of both—the second coming and the millenium—is the blessing of all the families of the earth. Mr. Russell will affirm; Dr. Eaton will deny.

Proposition VI.—The Scriptures clearly teach that the divine penalty for sin—actual transgression of God's Holy law—eventually to be inflicted upon the incorrigible, will consist of inconceivably great sufferings, eternal in duration. Dr. Eaton will affirm; Mr. Russell will deny.

In the debates each speaker will have 50 minutes in his first address and 10 minutes to close. The following dates have been agreed upon: Sunday afternoon, October 18, and at 8 o'clock on the evenings of October 20, 22, 27, 29 and on Sunday afternoon, November 1.

INSTRUCTIONS NOT BINDING

Democrats Won't Force Fusion Conferees to Demand District Attorney Nomination.

WILL LEAVE A LOOPHOLE

Committee Is to Be Named by Either the Chairman of the Convention or County Committee — Fetterman's Friends Are Fighting.

Democratic managers are considering the advisability of having the county convention give the fusion committee instructions. The men who are to confer with the Citizens may be told to endeavor to secure the district attorney nomination, but the instructions will not be binding.

The Democratic combine took stock yesterday and found that it would be able to completely control the county convention to be held Thursday. It will also elect all the state delegates to be chosen at the district conventions on Tuesday. These delegates will follow the leadership of Col. J. M. Guffey in the state convention at Harrisburg in September.

The Democratic managers have found that the Democrats generally favor the nomination of one of their party for district attorney. There is a disposition to insist that the committee that will meet with the Citizens to select the fusion ticket shall be instructed to insist that the district attorney nominee be a Democrat. The leaders do not want binding instructions, and if any are given there will be a loop hole.

To Announce Fusion Committee.

It has been decided that the fusion committee will be appointed. The convention will adopt a resolution empowering either the chairman of the convention or the county chairman to name the conferees. The men will be named at once and negotiations opened with the Citizens.

While the Democrats are insisting that they have the district attorney nomination, the Citizens leaders are confident of their ability to keep this place on the ticket away from the Democrats. T. S. Bigelow would like to have the Democrats take the prothonotaryship, and Charles B. Payne of Duquesne is put forth as the man for the place.

In the distribution of county offices last fall the Citizens of the Sixth district did not get representation on the ticket. A couple of weeks ago they indorsed Charles Fetterman for prothonotary and a fight is being made for him by the Campbell faction. Notice has been served on Bigelow that the friends of Fetterman will not stand for the nomination of Payne or any other Sixth district Democrat for any of the offices. If Fetterman cannot be named for prothonotary and the ticket-makers give the place to Payne, there will be a revolt in the district. Just now the Citizens over there are fighting among themselves. The followers of Major Nesbit are demanding that John Campbell be removed as district chairman, and they are also opposed to the nomination of Fetterman.

Democratic Legislative Conventions.

Democratic County Chairman Thomas B. Alcorn yesterday sent out a call for the eight legislative district conventions to be held tomorrow. These meetings will elect state delegates and the delegates to the county convention. The place, time and chairmen of each convention follows:

First, council chamber, Allegheny, 7:30 p. m., Robert Beck; Second, select council chamber, Allegheny, 7:30 p. m., Henry Meyer; Third, select council chamber, Pittsburgh, 7:30 p. m., Dennis J. Boyle; Fourth, Ralston school, 7:30 p. m., George S. Fleming; Fifth, common council chamber, Pittsburgh, 7:30 p. m., W. J. Brennen; Sixth, common council chamber, Pittsburgh, 11 a. m., Charles B. Payne; Seventh, common council chamber, Allegheny, 11 a. m., Seward H. Thompson; Eighth, council chamber, McKeesport, 11 a. m., James E. O'Donnell.

Capt. John Harvey of the Eleventh ward may be a candidate for the Republican nomination for jury commissioner. He is an old soldier, having lost a leg in the service.

MAYOR WILL GET HIS WAY TONIGHT

Duquesne Way Ordinance Will Be Referred to Special Committee and City Solicitor.

BIGELOW GIVES CONSENT

Stevenson Faction Will Make Fight Later for Compensation, but All Amendments Will Be Postponed—S. C. Crawford to Appoint the Committee.

Friends of Mayor William B. Hays in common council asserted yesterday that Director E. M. Bigelow had consented to allow the mayor to have his way tonight and raise no opposition to a motion to refer the Duquesne way elevated railroad ordinance to a special committee of five and the city solicitor. This plan is to be carried out without any amendments being offered to the bill.

Mayor Hays' reasons for having the ordinance referred to the city solicitor were fully explained in yesterday's Gazette. The mayor believes that the bill ought to be carefully scrutinized by the law department before any further action on it is taken by councils, to search for weak points not yet discovered and to frame such amendments that will fully protect the city and bear any test that they might be subjected to in court.

The right of the company to build on the wharf is one of the points raised by the mayor and his advisers which the city solicitor will be called upon to settle. It is also pointed out that the company ought to be restricted in the location of its masonry and steel supports for the overhead structure, as the terms of the present ordinance admit of a solid wall of masonry or bridge-work being constructed along the wharf.

The mayor and the director have agreed upon a damage clause, the striking out of the provision for the regrading of Penn avenue between Fourth and Water streets and the fixing of a definite time for the removal of the tracks from Liberty avenue.

Mayor Wants More Changes.

The mayor wants a clause inserted which will give other companies the right to cross over or under the elevated line, and the Citizens administration leaders are expected to agree upon this proposition also.

The mayor will not demand any cash compensation for the franchise, but will allow that matter to be fought out on the floor of councils. He is not likely to take a hand unless Director Bigelow opposes some of the other amendments the mayor wants. In that event he might aid Councilman Stevenson and his colleagues in their contention for a $50,000 yearly rental.

Mayor Hays may send to councils tonight a communication asking that the ordinance be referred to a committee and the city solicitor in accordance with the original program agreed upon by the Citizens party leaders. Director Bigelow's excuse for endeavoring to put the ordinance through common council without amendments last Monday night is that it would have saved time to send it to select council at once and amend it there if changes were considered necessary.

The director declined to discuss the ordinance yesterday, referring all inquiries to Mayor Hays. He was asked if he would reply to the statement made by A. Leo Weil, attorney for the Voters' Civic league, at the Fourteenth ward meeting Saturday night. He said:

"I might say something pretty sharp about Mr. Weil, but I do not think it is worth while. I will say this, however—I am still the director."

No Compensation Considered.

Councilman Stevenson and his followers will be disappointed if they expect the special committee to recommend a compensation in its report to councils. Charles S. Crawford, who was given a vacation two weeks ago to go to Idaho, has postponed his trip and will preside tonight. The committee of five which he will appoint is expected to ignore the cash compensation idea.

The Stevenson faction, as expressed in the resolutions adopted at the Fourteenth ward meeting, has fixed upon the $50,000 yearly rental proposition as the terms they will demand of the Pennsylvania Company in lieu of the franchise. The $1,000,000 cash bonus proposition was never seriously considered, the yearly rental idea being favored because of the fact that it is in line with the policy of the city with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company in giving the Monongahela wharf grant.

Arbitrators for Labor Dispute.

The following have been chosen to represent the bricklayers on the arbitration board to pass a decision on the dispute between the bricklayers and stonemasons: Frank Buchanan, president of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' National union; James Duncan, secretary of the Granite Cutters' National organization, and Herman Lillian, president of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' National organization. The stonemasons will name their arbitrators today.

CITIZENS WORKERS CAUGHT IN THE RAID

Descent of Police Upon the Quay Club Causes Some Unpleasant Feeling.

The members of the Quay Republican club, who were arrested in the raid on that place early yesterday morning, were arraigned for a hearing at 10 o'clock before Police Magistrate T. D. Stewart, fined and released. John McGuire, the alleged proprietor of the place, was fined $50 and costs and the visitors $5 and costs. McGuire's fine was afterward reduced to $10 and costs and the visitors' to $1 and costs.

The members of the club were made up of Citizens party workers. In fact, of the men arrested in the raid, several were the most active workers in the February campaign. As one of the members put it yesterday:

"I wore my shoes out in the snow and rain last winter trying to elect the Citizens party candidates, and to be handcuffed, put in a patrol and taken to a station house as a common gambler is hardly the fair thing. I was eating a lunch when the officers came in the house, and I never gambled in my life."

Councilman Harry Lamb of the Eleventh ward, treasurer of the club, was at the hearing yesterday and complained to Superintendent McTighe about the officers raiding the club. Lamb and McTighe had some words about the matter and walked away from each other.

Superintendent McTighe said last night that in his opinion the club was a "mutual benefit concern" and others than members were permitted to gamble in the club rooms.

CAPTURED THE GAMBLERS.

Visitors to Allegheny House Each Fined $3, but Proprietors Were Held.

Twenty-four men were gathered in by Special Officer Frank Lee and J. La Belle, clerk to Superintendent Campbell, as the result of a raid of a gambling house at No. 15 East Robinson street, Allegheny, early yesterday morning.

The place, which is known as the Favorite club, is alleged to have been conducted by Andy Huseline and George Vogel. Fou. poker tables, a quantity of cards and chips and a number of cases of beer were confiscated. All of the men except Huseline and Vogel were released upon payment of $3 and costs, but the alleged proprietors were held for a later hearing.

Raided a Benefit Club.

Rosel Cunningham, colored, alleged to be the proprietor of the "Young Men's Benefit club" at No. 6020 Penn avenue, which was raided by Police Captain Thomas N. Boyle early yesterday morning, was fined $25 and costs yesterday by Magistrate E. C. Negley. Six visitors captured in the raid paid $1 and costs each.

Raided Two Disorderly Houses.

Magistrate J. J. Kirby fined Mrs. Mary Ryan $100 and costs for keeping a disorderly house at No. 2311 Penn avenue. Four visitors were fined $10 and costs. Maud Claxton was fined $100 and costs for keeping a disorderly house at No. 62 Thirteenth street, and May Wilson, a visitor, was fined $10 and costs.

POLISH CHRISTENING WITH USUAL RESULT

Three Poles engaged in an exciting running fight in Kiser's row, McKees Rocks, last night, startling the neighborhood with a fusillade of pistol shots. Policeman Davis and an assistant attempted to arrest the excited men, who then let their own quarrel drop and turned on the officers together. After a desperate fight the men were landed in jail. It is said they had been attending a Polish christening, at which the fight began.

HUNDRED PRIESTS ATTEND DEDICATION

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—(Special)—The dedication of the new St. Columba's church took place today and was one of the most imposing ceremonies that has been witnessed in this city. Fifteen hundred people were at the morning mass and nearly 1,000 were turned away. The church was formally dedicated by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Horstman of this diocese. The sermon was preached by the Rev. John T. O'Connell of Toledo. At vespers Bishop Horstman preached. More than 100 priests from all over this part of the state and Western Pennsylvania were in attendance and took part in the ceremony.

Molders Will Hold a Meeting.

On account of the arbitration board being unable to adjust the scale disputes of the iron molders, the original scale drawn up by the molders remains as it was previous to the conference. A meeting will be held Wednesday evening in Arnfeld's hall, No. 1119 Penn avenue, when the scale will be taken up for final consideration. It is thought that several changes will be made, so that the manufacturers will sign it. Should they refuse a strike will be declared.

Sent Up for Stealing.

Mat Burns was sent to the work house for six months in default of a fine of $50 and costs yesterday. It was alleged he stole a pair of shoes at No. 551 Sixth avenue and was never known to work. R. J. O'Brien was sentenced to 90 days in default of a fine of $25 and costs. He was charged with robbing a man of some small change in Old avenue.

DRY AS BALED HAY IN WILKINSBURG

The druggists of Wilkinsburg will today begin a canvass of the residents of the borough, and they expect to show a big majority favoring Sunday soda water. Yesterday was dryer than baled hay in Wilkinsburg. In pursuance of a recent order to shut off the soda fountains on Sunday, every druggist in the borough hushed his fizz valves for the day. Newsboys and cabmen did not cry their services aloud, as formerly, and the only noise rising above the disgruntled thirsty ones was the clang of trolley bells.

BIGELOW TO PUT LARKIN ON RACK

He Promises to Send Communication to Councils Tonight Defending the Blanket.

THE CONTROLLER IS CENSURED

Fiscal Officer and the Finance Committee is Blamed for Large Deficiencies in the Public Works and Other Departments—Amount to Over $750,000.

Director E. M. Bigelow promises to send a communication to common council tonight putting Controller John B. Larkin and the finance committee on the rack for creating deficiencies which the director claims existed in every bureau of his department when he went into office.

Director Bigelow's statement that Controller Larkin and the finance committee blundered in making up the appropriations for this year was published in The Gazette last Monday. The director intended to follow this interview up with a statement to councils on last Monday night, but the fight over the Duquesne way railroad ordinance came up and the consideration of the blanket ordinance was delayed for the time.

It was the blanket ordinance that brought forth the caustic criticism from Controller Larkin and the equally hot reply from the director. The controller has accused Director Bigelow of attempting to violate the pledges of the Citizens party and the director intends to show that the controller's ideas of economy have seriously embarrassed the administration and forced him to ask for just such a provision as contained in the blanket ordinance.

The director has prepared statistics showing the alleged deficiencies in the bureaus of his department when he went into office, or just before that time when the annual appropriations were fixed. These deficiencies, he asserts, amount to about $825,000. It is also asserted that the unpaid deficiencies in the public safety department at the beginning of the year, resulting from the reappropriation of balances from last year, without any provision for the payment of last year's bills, amount to over $100,000, and in the charities department to over $80,000, aggregating in the three departments over $750,000.

The blanket ordinance will come up tonight as unfinished business and the bail is expected to open when the attack is made on the measure. Councilman Stevenson, as chairman of the finance committee, is included in Director Bigelow's censure. He declares that he is ready to meet any of the assertions of the head of the public works department and to show that the deficiencies could not be avoided.

Controller Larkin has refused to make any comment since Director Bigelow replied to his attack, but he is expected to make another statement in answer to the communication of the director to councils.

MANY CHANGES MADE IN THE CONSTITUTION

United Labor League Members Held an Important Meeting Last Night.

The United Labor league met last night in its headquarters No. 535 Smithfield street. The principal business under consideration was the changing of the constitution. In some places the wording did not convey the meaning intended. At the last meeting of the league the committee on the constitution and by-laws reported the changes necessary, but action was deferred until last night for final action. The changes as recommended by the committee were adopted.

Philip J. Byrne, representing the Boot and Shoe union of Boston addressed the league in behalf of his union. He aroused the members to a sense of unionism, and gave them information which was difficult to accept. His object was to hit the salespeople of this city.

It appears that the shoemakers and the shoe cutters both belonged to the American Federation of Labor, and the cutters belonged to the Knights of Labor. The cutters had trouble with the B. & S. union and withdrew from the A. F. of L. This led the manufacturers to turn out shoes with the K. of L. stamp on it, yet they are not full-fledged union shoes. The footwear must have stamped on the soles the union label if made by the B. & S. U. shops, otherwise they are made by non-union men.

Mr. Byrne argued last night that the salespeople of this city handle shoes with K. of L. labels, which are made by non-union men, and pay no attention to the fact that the label of a union made shoe must be stamped on the soles. Mr. Byrne will visit all labor unions in the city, advising them to buy only shoes made by union men and stamped by the union label.

MRS. PATTERSON AND DAUGHTERS IN RUNAWAY

Wife of Prominent Allegheny Coal Man Was Badly Cut by Being Thrown from Carriage.

A horse driven by Mrs. A. S. Patterson, wife of the president of the Patterson Coal and Supply Company of No. 1222 Grant avenue, Allegheny, took fright yesterday and ran away, upsetting the carriage and throwing out Mrs. Patterson and her two daughters, injuring all three slightly.

The party were on their way home from a drive at about 6 o'clock in the evening and were going at a fair speed along Perrysville avenue, near the North End boulevard, when the accident occurred which precipitated the runaway. In crossing the car track at too narrow an angle one of the wheels became caught and "dished," breaking the axle and letting down one corner of the vehicle to the pavement. The horse became unmanageable, and despite all efforts to stop him broke into a run.

Several rods were covered at a fast pace, when the broken carriage rocked and upset. Mrs. Patterson was thrown on her head and was picked up in a stunned condition. She was found to have sustained a severe cut on her head and to be scratched and bruised. Her two daughters, Anna and Mary, escaped with a few scratches. All three were taken into the house of a nearby physician, and after having their injuries dressed were sent to their home, No. 933 North avenue west, Allegheny.

After the carriage had been overturned the horse's progress was interfered with somewhat and he was caught before he had run far.

At the Patterson residence last night it was said that Mrs. Patterson's injuries, although painful, were not dangerous.

MORE FEATURES FOR THE ORPHANS' PICNIC

Lot and a Diamond to Be Given to Lucky Guests of the Children.

The managers of St. Paul's orphan asylum picnic had an enthusiastic meeting at the Catholic lyceum last night. Chairman T. C. Reilly reported that a real estate company had donated a lot, the location and value of which he would announce later. It was decided to use this donation to encourage attendance. For each ticket of admission presented at the gate of the park a ticket will be given entitling the holder to take part in a drawing at which the lot will be the prize.

Another valuable donation reported was a diamond ring worth $250. J. M. McSlamphy of the Carnegie Company, Martin Dowling of the Jones & Laughlins Company, and T. A. Dunn of the Consolidated Ice Company, were appointed a committee to devise a plan for disposing of it to the best advantage. A first-class Liverpool and Queenstown ticket was also donated; details concerning it will be fixed next week.

Edward Friel, who is chairman of the goat racing committee, announced that he had two prizes to offer, a set of goat harness and a goat wagon. He wants plenty of entries. They can be left at the stables of the bureau of highways and sewers on Magel street.

Chairman F. J. Brady of the committee on music and dancing reported that he had secured Brady's orchestra and three bands for both days. Chairman Reilly said the number of prize doves had been increased from 600 to 1,000. The reports from the parishes showed greater interest in the picnic than in any previous year, and the outlook for reaching the $20,000 mark set in the beginning, is considered very good.

Pavers and Rammers Elected Officers.

Local No. 6206 Pavers and Rammers met last night in their hall at No. 533 Smithfield street, and elected the following officers: Master workman, John Cooney; recording secretary, Michael Muldowney; financial secretary, John P. Griffiths; treasurer, Joseph McDonaugh, and delegate to the United Labor league and to district No. 2, A. J. Hurney. A lengthy discussion arose over the delay of the city authorities in not making the appropriations for the street repairs. They claim the delay is throwing many of the local's members idle and unless the city hastens the appropriations they will have to leave the city.

The Greatest of Flags and the Fourth.

To not display Old Glory from some prominent point of your dwelling on the Fourth of July is to be very careless of the anniversary of the greatest day in the history of America. No cottage, be it ever so humble, no mansion, be it ever so stately, but what should have a good sized American flag for the Fourth.

In Silk Flags, we carry all sizes, and in Wool Bunting Flags, same material as used by the Government in its flags, all the sizes are also carried.

Silk Flags, as to sizes, begin at 2x3 inches and run along gradually to 32x48 inches; as to prices, 3c each, 35c a dozen, and up to $1.10 each and $12 a dozen.

U. S. Wool Bunting Flags, size range 2½x4 feet to 24x40 feet, the price range 95c each and up to $55.

We have Printed Muslin Flags on sticks, largely used for patriotic decorations, 8x14 inches, 15c a dozen, $1.50 a gross; 11x18 inches, 25c a dozen, $2.50 a gross.

Flag Holders, something quite useful where large bunting flags are used, $1.00 and $1.50 each.

All on sale, fifth floor.

Choice from striped and barred Dimities, figured chevlot, dotted Swiss and plain Lawn.

The Matter of Awnings.

If the weather has made you careless about getting them, we can help you out this week. Still have a fairly good supply, notwithstanding the big business so far.

Vudor Awnings, something akin to bamboo, but much better, two colors, one mottled and a lemon shade, the other a solid dark green, at these prices: 4 feet wide, 8 feet long, $1.75 each; 6 feet wide, 8 feet long, $2.50 each; 8 feet long and 8 feet wide, $3 each; 10 feet long, 8 feet wide, $5.

A few sizes in bamboo awnings left, 8 feet wide, 8 feet long, $1.10 instead of $1.35; 10 feet wide, 8 feet long, $1.20 instead of $1.60.

Baltimore Awnings, made like Venetian Blinds, used outside of windows, and for porches, made in colors to match woodwork of house, 30c a square foot. Any size under 20 square feet is charged at $5. A small charge is made for fitting.

Cloth Awnings—to order delivered in three days' time: one day to measure, one day to make, one day to put up. Material for coverings is now sold at reduced prices, so your cloth awnings will not cost you as much as formerly. Estimates furnished.

25c Stockings, 18c pr.

Neat stockings to wear with oxfords—sizes for women, sizes for children.

Best of German lisle thread and Egyptian cotton used. Women's all black, in such effects as open-work and drop stitch. Some of the children's black, some white, only open-work designs. All have double heels, soles and toes.

Take three pairs for 50c.

Fine Handkerchiefs—a Hint.

This to women: Where'er you go on the Fourth it is proper to have a dainty handkerchief. The Handkerchief Department is just in receipt of a new line of daintiest patterns, both hemstitched and embroidered. Prices are 25c, 50c and up to $1.

Young Ladies' Colored Border and Initialed Handkerchiefs today 8c each, reduced from 10c.

An excursion train goes out over the P. R. R. next Thursday to all seaside resorts, and this notice is simply to put excursionists in mind that we have everything to make the dip in the ocean pleasant—Bathing Suits for women and girls, Caps and Stockings and Slippers, Bathing Suits for men and boys—all of the best materials, all made in up-to-date ideas, and all sold for extremely low prices.

And it's more than likely you'll want to do business with our Trunk Department — Trunks of all kinds, a new lot just in Saturday, Suit Cases for men and women, Satchels, Telescopes, and all the little things required for lugging. Prices that are lower than such good goods usually sell for.

Monday, June 29, 1903.

Citizens have some rights that are respected in police court. The gentleman arrested on Saturday for endeavoring to stop unrelled for punishment of a dumb brute was not only discharged with honor, but the arresting officer was suspended and summoned for trial before the police board. The matter indicates a purpose to protect citizens in their rights, but with due credit to that purpose it reflects upon the policy of making wholesale changes in the public service without taking time to investigate the qualifications of applicants for the jobs.

About every third day there is mention of some statesman said to be the choice of President Roosevelt, or of one of the recognized leaders of the party, for the nomination for vice president. This is harmless amusement a year before the convention and serves to bring many deserving patriots to public attention. But it may be taken for granted that President Roosevelt has no thought of choosing his running mate and that the task has not been delegated to any one else. The people will have something to say. Once when the attention of Dean Richmond was called to a blank on his slate, he said: "We'll leave this nomination for the convention to make." The application to the present situation is a plain suggestion.

Some data has been compiled by the treasury bureau of statistics that gives an idea of the tremendous increase in the consuming power of this nation. It is most strongly illustrated by the enlarged importation of materials for manufactures, without corresponding increase in exports of manufactured products, though, of course, the import of materials is a mere bagatelle compared with the larger home production of raw materials. The figures, published on another page, are interesting. This consuming power of a people is the measure of their prosperity, and it is by that standard that the United States appears as the most prosperous nation in the world. Australia has at times exceeded the United States in consuming power per capita, but does not at the present time.

Whatever doubts may have existed as to Postmaster General Payne's intention to stick are banished by Senator Hanna's declarations in Washington the other day and at Cleveland yesterday. Postmaster General Payne will not resign, says Senator Hanna. Having taken luncheon with Mr. Payne and having dined with President Roosevelt, Senator Hanna knows what he is talking about. The investigation will go on to the bitter end, and the president and the postmaster general are in harmonious accord. That is the substance of Senator Hanna's opinion. It is authoritative opinion, for the Ohio senator is on the best of terms with both the gentlemen named and is not under suspicion of trying to save some guilty official in the postal service.

The American man-of-wars' men are the wonder of Kiel, mayhap of all Germany, for intelligence spreads rapidly in these modern days of quick communication. Those on shore leave have conducted themselves with such propriety that no complaint has been heard, and they have gone in for expensive amusement astonishing to the Germans. The American sailorman is the best fed in the world, and, in addition to his feeding, he is the best paid. That is why the American merchant marine, unsubsidized, languishes. But our German friends will be apt to note it as one reason why the men of the American navy can be depended upon to do their best, which is a little better than those of any other navy. That is about what Dewey meant when he gave way to the talking habit some time ago and aroused the German wrath. In that case the prowess of the American sailorman was hearsay. Actual observation may have a different effect, for seeing is believing.

When Buford's cavalry rode through Gettysburg 40 years ago the hearts of the men were cheered by the singing of war songs by the young ladies of the town. We are unable to say whether that event contributed materially to the turning of the high tide of rebellion at that historic spot a few days later, but the patriotic fervor of the young women of Gettysburg we are sure, did no harm. Now the survivors among those soldiers, about 25 in number, are to sing those songs again on Wednesday, the fortieth anniversary of the original rendition, as a feature of the reunion of blue and gray on the old battlefield. The women who are to sing again the old songs are not as young as they were and possibly not as charming. But they are just as patriotic. Their voices will not be as round and full as they were 40 years ago, but the gray hairs and wrinkles and the quavering tones will lend an added pathos to the words. The brave boys to whom they sang are not young any more, but they are none the less heroes. This fortieth anniversary and reunion reminds us that the bitterness of the war is fading away, but it recalls again the heroic efforts on the field and the equally heroic endurance of those left at home. May Old Glory never again witness such trying times.

Some Liberty Avenue History.

It is now more than 35 years since J. Edgar Thomson, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, declared that the right of that company to use the tracks in Liberty avenue would never be surrendered—that the western terminus of that road was at the exact head of the Ohio river and there it would remain forever. In 1868-70 the ordinance providing for the abolition of grade crossings and the building of overhead bridges in the East Liberty valley was held up for two years while vain efforts were made to secure the removal of the Liberty avenue tracks in exchange for the vacation of Grant and Washington streets. Mr. Thomson's successors, Presidents Scott and Roberts, continued the set and determined policy which he had laid down and refused to grant the relief which Pittsburgh asked for. About 20 years ago C. L. Magee headed a committee which visited Philadelphia and proposed to the company to abandon the tracks and build an elevated railway along Duquesne way, one-third of the cost to be borne by the company, one-third by the city and the remaining third by private subscription. The answer was No—that no proposition would be considered which would involve the payment of one dollar by the railroad company. Fifteen years ago another attempt was made. Options were secured on rolling mill and other property on the Allegheny river above Eleventh street, and the railroad company was asked to exchange the Duquesne depot site for this property, erect its freight depot on the new site and abandon the tracks in Liberty avenue. This also was refused, with the statement that every official, from the first president down to the present time, had held that the Point was the proper place for a freight depot and that the right to run trains in Liberty avenue would never be surrendered.

Then a fund was raised and two of the ablest lawyers in the state were retained to find, if possible, some legal means to abate the shameful nuisance, but without avail. A careful watch of nearly a year failed to discover a fault in the railroad's operations. The terms of the contract were strictly complied with. Coke was burned in the locomotives and the long trains crept at a snail's pace, easily within the time limit, this care really intensifying the disgust of the throng detained at the crossings.

And now, in this good year 1903, comes Alexander J. Cassatt, the only president of the Pennsylvania railroad, with the possible exception of Thomas A. Scott, to appreciate the importance of Pittsburgh and its future. He takes options on land to treble the capacity of the Duquesne depot, offers to remove the hated tracks from Liberty avenue and asks in exchange for the right to build an elevated road along Duquesne way to connect with his enlarged freight terminal. He gives up land worth $100 a square foot, which the public needs, for land worth $20 a square foot, which is rarely used. Councilmen and all citizens who oppose this ordinance should first view the land—that is, if they succeed in safely crossing Liberty avenue. They should walk the wharf from Eleventh street to Third street, and then say if there should be a moment's delay in making the exchange. While the emancipation of Liberty avenue will open up a new retail district, which the city needs, the building of the road on Duquesne way will provide a new wholesale district, with direct railway connections, and the property along that thoroughfare will be greatly enhanced in value.

This is not a proposition for a new franchise. If it were, we would insist on the city receiving compensation for it, as we have done in all like cases. It is a proposition for an exchange of franchises, in which the city gets decidedly the best of the bargain.

Gentlemen of councils, we bespeak you, be fair and be quick. Amend this ordinance so as to protect the city from all damage claims, insert a time limit, so as to insure the removal of the tracks from Liberty avenue within two years at the outside, and pass it as quickly as possible. Your predecessors in office made a great mistake in granting this right 50 years ago. Correct this error now while you have the chance. A change in the presidency of the Pennsylvania railroad, or any shifting of its plans, might delay this great improvement for a generation to come. Seize the opportunity while you can.

Our Friends in Germany.

Emperor William's cordial expressions for the United States are pleasing to the people of this country, but behind the kaiser is Germany. It would be ungracious to question the sincerity of the kaiser's compliments to America and Americans, and there is no disposition to do so. But, similarly, we do not question the sincerity of the expressions of German organs of public opinion. The recent elections for membership in the German reichstag are proof positive for any who may think otherwise that while the emperor is a German to the core, he is not Germany and does not in his own person represent German sentiment in its entirety. There is at the moment reason to question whether he represents even the majority sentiment of the fatherland. Therefore, when we find that a considerable number of German newspapers do not fully echo his cordiality toward Americans, but tone their comments in a critical key, we have at least as good reason for assuming that they speak for Germany as we have for believing that the kaiser speaks for it. The official organs, of course, devote themselves to felicitations over the "restored good feeling" that the kaiser's speeches indicate. The Berlin Tageblatt, nevertheless, reminds its readers of the Coghlan and Dewey incidents and some journals speak of American friendship for Germany as "a new thing," for which they give credit to President Roosevelt. These expressions indicate that Germany does not quite comprehend America. Perhaps the kaiser understands it better. As a matter of fact the United States has never been unfriendly to Germany, and particularly has never been unfriendly to Germans. What is misunderstood in Germany to be unfriendliness has never been more than a frank outspokenness to which Germans are themselves addicted.

We would rather have the friendship of the German people than of the German kaiser, and were the German people more in tune with the kaiser we would have greater hope that his cordiality might lead to a better understanding with the German people. It may do so in spite of the revelations of the German elections, for spectacular fraternizations when persisted in are not without their influence on the peoples whose representatives participate in them.

The large German element in the United States is the best sort of a reason why there should be good feeling between the United States and the German people in Germany. If there is not that good feeling, it is probably due to the cultivation in the past by official Germany of an adverse spirit. The kaiser is giving a different tone to official intercourse which Americans are glad to meet more than half way. Whether this will lead to greater appreciation of America and Americans by the mass of the German people remains to appear. Unless, however, it shall appear in the practical form of mitigation of prohibitions against American products merely because they are American we will have little reason to think that things are different.

First Test at Bogota.

In view of the nature of recent advices from Panama and Bogota we are not quite able to accept the first test vote in the Colombian congress on a question bearing on the Panama canal concession to the United States as conclusive evidence of a majority sentiment in favor of ratification of the treaty. Nevertheless, the circumstance is encouraging that the government, which negotiated and for that reason is committed to the treaty, was sustained in the lower house of congress by a majority of 33 in a vote of 43. The question at issue was the submission to congress of documents relating to the treaty, which the opposition demanded, but which the government said it was not ready to present. It may be presumed that the government's majority on this point includes votes of the more moderate members of the opposition, but it would seem unlikely that there are a sufficient number of these to transform the majority into a minority in a vote on the direct question. It is in the senate, however, if all reports be true, that the greatest opposition will be encountered, but the vote that was polled by the government in the lower house may be, after all, an indication that the anti-treaty forces are more noisy than numerous.

It is from Europe that the most disturbing reports come with regard to the opposition to the treaty. They are fathered by the Colombian consul general at London, and while he points to the ultimate victory of President Marroquin, who is pictured as ready to proceed to an extreme to gain his point, there are hints at a revolution in the event that the treaty is ratified either by constitutional or extra-constitutional means. There is an unpaid army, and a trump card in the hands of the president of Colombia is that the army sees a prospect of being paid its arrears if the existing Colombian government has the handling of the $10,000,000 to be received from the United States. These are questions for Colombia, however, rather than for the United States, and this country will be indifferent to the prospects of revolution or anything else in Colombia if the treaty is ratified. Once in legal possession of the canal concession there will be no disturbance of American seronity because of Colombian outbreaks. The United States will be able with little difficulty to keep the isthmian strip that will be policed by it in a tranquil state. This will be a good thing for Colombia and the prosperity that will come with tranquility will set a good example to the adjacent regions.

President Marroquin's message to the Colombian congress on the canal treaty and concession is notably lacking in firmness of tone and direct advocacy of the policy to which his government is committed, affording some reason to doubt his entire sincerity. The real situation will, however, soon develop if the first test vote has not developed it. After it has developed President Roosevelt will be in a position to make the next move.

Points Overlooked.

An "Old Allegheny River Man," who has replied to our other esteemed correspondent, "Bridge Whist," overlooked a few important points in the bridge raising question. We believe he is entirely accurate in saying the old aqueduct bridges of the canal were sources of profanity to the boatmen of earlier days. The boatmen of that time were not content and with reason. They were obliged to start on high, dangerous water or they could not reach their destination. Here is the first point overlooked. With slack water there would be no necessity for the hurry spoken of. The quick flood might pass and the boat would run the better for it.

Another point overlooked is the fact that there are no bridges now as low as the canal aqueducts—not by six or eight feet. In other words, the clearance above pool level is now equal to the former clearance above the low water. This makes a world of difference to navigation. The aqueduct bridges interfered with navigation only when the river was at flood stage. Under modern conditions of slack water navigation is possible at low water.

Speaking of "modern conditions" our correspondent avers that the "primitive navigation" of the pre-railroad period on the Allegheny river was different from modern navigation. This ought to be true. As a matter of fact the difference is not as great as it ought to be. The bridge raisers are demanding accommodations for the antique type of steamers and discussing the inconvenience of carrying the machinery of river, packets in the hold, unmindful that there are more modern types of steamboat and that the traffic that may grow on the Allegheny river will be principally in barges. All that is necessary is to apply modern devices to the problem and the Allegheny river may be navigated without detriment to the much larger traffic passing over the river.

American Pluck.

The farmers throughout the flooded valleys of the west are already hard at it planting 90-days' corn in the track of the receded waters. It requires more than one body blow to knock the pluck and energy out of the average American. It would not be at all surprising to find the farmers of Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas gathering a bumper crop next autumn and contributing as usual to the relief of famine sufferers in India or some other part of the world.—Indianapolis Journal.

Trying to "Get Together."

The real, effective Democratic leaders of today are working to unite those voters of the nation who at heart are Democrats, and so present to the nation a harmonious and triumphant party next year. We believe they will succeed, and that whoever tries to prevent that success will be made to walk the plank. He cannot claim any right as a mutineer on the Democratic ship.—Atlanta Constitution.

A BOY WE KNOW.

That summer day, from early dawn, his hours in play were spent;
The other fellows came at eight and all on fun were bent;
They dug a cave, they built a fort, went rafting on the creek,
Played "Indian" in the meadow lot, baseball, and hide-and-seek.
At noon they picnicked on the lawn, a luncheon fit for kings,
With chicken, berries, lemonade, and cake, and other things.
And after that they went to fish, and after that a swim.
Then dinner came, and all the boys were asked to dine with him.
And after that the fun went on; 'twas such a glorious day
It seemed as though they'd never get one-half enough of play.
At nine o'clock they called him; 'twas surely they said
For little boys as tired as he to tumble into bed;
And though he vowed he wasn't tired, and begged they'd let him stay
Outside for just an hour or so, to "finish up his play,"
They ordered him to bed at once, in firm but kindly tones,
Nor heeded that he filled the house with dismal howls and moans,
Nor that he shouted from the stairs, through all his tears and grime,
"I never have—Boo-hoo! Boo-hoo! one bit of a good time."

The Quiet Observer.

ERASMUS WILSON.

I do but sing because I must,
And pipe but as the linnets sing.
—Tennyson.

Do you know that most singers sing because they must?

Nor does this apply to vocalists alone, but to the entire gamut of humin activity. That which is done best is done because it must be done.

Emma Abbott was wont to say that she sang because she either had to sing or die. It wasn't merely for the money there was in it that she toured the country year after year, and endured the worries to which those who are interested in big opera companies are subjected.

The impulse to sing was from within, and it was so insistent, and so persistent that she just couldn't resist it.

There are those, however, who are able to repress their impulses to sing, or to write, or to do anything the public may want them to do. These can put a price on their wares and wait until the public comes to their terms, or until they fade and die for lack of the nourishment found only in appreciation by the public.

There is Patti, for instance, who never sings unless it is for money or for fame. And there are singers right here at home who can sing into your heart more deeply, and leave sweeter impressions than the world-famous artists.

The born singer must sing, and will sing, whether on the stage, in the choir loft or among the pots and pans. She may never become rich and famous, yet she may do as much good as the great one, because one sings to those who need the cheering, resting influence of a sweet song and sweet singing.

The great one has her mission, and she will have to work it out or throw up the sponge. She may demand a fortune as the price of a song, and get it, too, yet she sings not into the hearts of the people—the masses of God's people, but into the ears of the rich and the great.

The world needs a few of these star singers, and only a few, and that is why there are so few. They are the pacemakers for ambitious strugglers. They fix the standards, and fix them so high that even the most talented have to strain and tip-toe to ever approximate them.

The mission of the humble singer, poet or artist is not less noble or worthy, if only well wrought out.

* * * * *

Are you a singer, or a writer, or a talker? Or are you just a plain, everyday sort of worker?

What do you work at?

Of course you must do something to gain a livelihood, but that is merely on the side.

What are you working for the world, for the eternities, for yourself?

If you can sing there is a constant demand for your songs, for there are homes where no melody flows, where no song is ever heard, where no lullaby hushes the little ones to sleep.

Your own home is to be kept bright and cheery with song, so that the weary wayfarer will be drawn thither, his drooping spirits cheered and his fading hopes brightened. Your home must be a wayside inn where those who hunger for sweet melody, or heartsome song, or merry music, may drop in and be satisfied.

May be you are secretary, or amanuensis to the muses?

Then be about your business, for that is your mission. But don't forget that you must become familiar with the ways of the particular muse you serve, and by persistent practice learn to catch and to put into words its every suggestion. Muses, you know, do not address themselves to you in words but in feelings, and these you have to interpret and express in language that may be readily understood by others.

* * * * *

Here comes one who feels herself strongly, if not strangely drawn to the service of the muses. Her home, until quite recently, was Scottdale, Pa., and it was among the beautiful foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains that she first heard and answered the cheery hail of the muses. That she is learning to interpret well may be inferred from the lullaby which follows:

Come, mother's darling, you are weary of play,
Close to my side, I'll sing or I'll pray.
Let me tell you the story of "Little Boy Blue"
"With the sheep in the meadow"—and close your eyes, too.
"Bo Peep, Bo Peep," and the dear little sheep,
How they'll frisk and play—when baby's asleep.
Let me hold the dear hands, its your mother who sings—
To the heart's proudest treasure most fondly she clings.
She'll ever keep watch, and shield you from harm
And caress the bright curls while you rest on her arm.
Then bye-o bye baby, sink to sweet rest,
The sun has gone down in teh far-distant west.
One the round, dimpled cheek is a blush of the rose,
A vision of beauty thy form in repose.
Let your head nestle close, profound be the sleep,
Your mother is near you, her vigil to keep
Be still—little one—there's nothing to fear,
All is peaceful and quiet, and mother is here.
Like rays of the sun, when it glitters and flashes,
Like strands of pure gold, are the long silken lashes,
Like the clear running brook when it ripples and twirls,
Is the bonnie, bright head, with its clustering curls.
Hush-a-by-hush, let the lovely eyes close;
Let the lull thee to sleep—to blissful repose.
Fast asleep—pretty baby—on thy pillow of down,
Not a sign of a tear, nor a trace of a frown;
In peace you now slumber—yet still I must linger—
To lovingly kiss each round, dimpled finger.
Then 'Rock-a-by baby, on the tree top'—
One kiss o'er I leave—she stirs—I must stop.

Although much of that which happens or is revealed to us day by day appears to be purely accidental, or at best only incidental, one can hardly refrain from agreeing with the preacher who is recorded in the book of Ecclesiastes (1:9) as saying

"The thing that hath been, it is that which shall be, and that which is done is that which shall be done, and there is no new thing under the sun."

We flatter ourselves in these fast moving, high flying times that we are thinking new thoughts, saying new things, and doing things the likes of which were never done before.

But when we take up the book of Ecclesiastes and read the sayings of the preacher, or critically scan that still more wonderful book of Job, or seriously consider the book of Proverbs, we are simply amazed to find those far distant times—far beyond the dark ages, and centuries before the great revolutions and reformations to which we attribute so much of our newness, as it were—to find these were as familiar with the things we call new, as we are.

True we have developed new phases of these old things, and these we call new, and would, if we only could, substitute them for the old. But, as you know, every attempt to substitute new sculpture for that of the old masters has invariably proven a distinct failure. And so with poets and artists, and all others who devoted their might to the interpretation of truth as it is in nature.

Two men toiled side by side from sun to sun,
And both were poor;
Both sat with children when the day was done,
About the door.

One saw the beautiful in crimson cloud
And shining moon;
The other, with his head in sadness bowed,
Made night of noon.

One loved each tree and flower and singing bird
On mount or plain;
No music in the soul of one was stirred
By leaf or rain.

One saw the good in every fellow man,
And hoped the best;
The other marveled at his Master's plan,
And doubt confessed.

One having heaven above and heaven below,
Was satisfied;
The other discontented, lived in woe,
And hopeless died.

Talked of in New York

GEORGE C. JENKS.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 28.—Sunday is the day when New York as a community, takes a holiday. It goes to church in the morning generally, and afterward devotes itself to recreation. It was so today. There were many places invitingly to the weary worker, most of them at the seashore, and the excursionist had a wide range of choice. There was one particular place that was sought by many persons who would not have thought of going there last Sunday. This was Oyster Bay. President Roosevelt was not there last Sunday. This Sunday he is. Oyster Bay is not particularly accessible on a Sunday, because it is not looked on as a regular one-day place of pleasure. But there are trains and boat connecting it with Manhattan and hundreds of loyal New Yorkers went there today to show their regard for the chief executive even though they knew they could not hope to meet him. President Roosevelt, discouraging curiosity as to himself and family when he is at Oyster Bay and particularly on Sunday. He could not keep the crowds away today, however. They came, open mouthed, and enthusiastic, and as it gave them comfort even to breathe the same air as himself he could hardly object to their presence. All summer there will be a rush to Oyster Bay every Sunday unless the experience of last summer is not repeated.

Lacking in an Important Particular.

The "Knickerbocker Girl" closed at the Herald Square theater last night. The show was not bad, but it seemed not to be good enough to compete with other musical comedies along Broadway in which pretty girls are the main attraction. Alfred Aarons had a lot of pretty girls at the Herald Square, but they did not draw paying audiences, anywhere. It is said the entertainment will be taken to Atlantic City as soon as arrangements can be completed.

Comic Weeklies Lose Circulation.

A newsdealer uptown remarked to me yesterday, when I asked him for a copy of one of the two well-known comic weekly papers that he did not handle them. He explained that since the Sunday newspapers had taken to publishing pages of "comics" in colors there was no demand for the old-fashioned weekly papers with their carefully drawn and colored cartoons. He said the loss in circulation of these two papers in the last few years had been enormous. It is almost impossible to buy a copy of either of them in an ordinary news store in New York now, although the hotels usually keep them on hand. Along the "L" they are not to be found in the station news stands. It is not that the weeklies are less attractive than they ever were, explained the newsdealer, but that the people get all they want of funny stories illustrated by cleverly drawn and artistically colored pictures in their Sunday papers—not only in New York, but in Pittsburgh and every other important city in the United States.

Policeman's Honeymoon Spoiled.

Police Captain Lantry, whose brother used to be commissioner of corrections, had excitement enough last week to satiate any ordinary man. On Sunday he was married, after a seven years' courtship, and a day or two later he found charges preferred against him through the fault of his sergeant, who had been careless in making entries on the police station blotter. The charges are only technical and do not reflect on the captain's efficiency, but they are annoying to a man on his honeymoon, nevertheless.

Lantry Exploit Recalled.

Capt. Lantry, having come into the calcium light of publicity by reason of his wedding and a jar at headquarters, New Yorkers are talking again about his zealous proceedings in what he conceived to be the line of his duty last February. It was Capt. Lantry who directed his men to walk into the houses of wealthy people in Fifth avenue and other swell thoroughfares wherever they found no one to stop them. His detectives obeyed orders. They found that they could walk nearly all over the interiors of some aristocratic homes without the servants' knowledge and they did it. Instead of thanking the captain for giving them this object lesson, the wealthy owners of the houses abused him and even the commissioner mildly reproved him. And yet in the opinion of many unprejudiced citizens Lantry was right. The police had been abused for lack of vigilance every time there was a burglary and Lantry proved that the fault lay more with the house servants than the police.

To Treat Tuberculosis.

President Lederle of the board of health says New York city soon will have a sanitarium in which 500 tuberculosis patients can be treated at one time. Dr. Lederle is one of those who maintain that the disease can be cured easily if attacked in its earlier stages. Talking about the weather yesterday, he reiterated his previous expression that the coming of a warm spell would mean an appalling rise in the death rate in the city. He said that in the winter people can be kept warm and fed, but in the cruel hot days of July and August there is nothing that can be done to save the lives of hundreds who live in the noisome tenements of the lower East Side. The doctor declared that he would like to see the next three weeks more of cool weather, even with rain.

Busy Day in Police Court.

A curious state of things was seen at the Tombs police court yesterday when the 502 prisoners caught in the raids of supposed pool rooms were arraigned. There was not room for all the prisoners in court. The room is a capacious one and will hold as many people as some of the court rooms in Pittsburgh's court house, but the 502 suspects, with the officers, witnesses and newspaper men, could not possibly all squeeze in. Those that were crowded into the corridor loudly demanded their right to face the bar of justice and there was a disturbance which the officers found it impossible to quell. The magistrate was an Irishman, and he doubtless saw the humor of the situation. At all events, he discharged all of the prisoners except eight and quicker as he could, and told the officers to clear the court.

Undertakers Quarrel Over a Body.

One of those unseemly quarrels between undertakers at Bellevue hospital which caused a scandal about a year ago took place yesterday. Two funeral directors, both colored, claimed the body of a woman, and for a while it looked as if there might be more dead bodies in the morgue, where the dispute took place. At last one of the disputants gained his point and took the body away. The affair only amused to amuse the witnesses. Perhaps they thought that anything of a lighter nature was a pleasant relief in such a gruesome institution.

The Press and Public Order.

The newspaper press derives its liberty and its prosperity from a social organization based upon law. Commanding as it does the readiest means of securing publicity, and owing its very existence to popular confidence in its rectitude, it errs grievously and it errs dangerously when for any reason it fails to inculcate obedience to law and respect for the rights of others.—Chicago Chronicle.

With numerous picnics scheduled for this week, watch for J. Pluvius. He has symptoms of getting busy, and notwithstanding that we have made a change in our Washington Bureau, J. Pluvius is being aided and abetted at that quarter. Picnic parties should arrange for holding their little affairs close to shelter until further notice.

They do, Your Serenity.

Then let the command be Forward, I will add a few more miles of trouble to the White Man's Burden.

Stogies to Burn.

W. M. Marsh, the stogie man, came up from his home a few days ago to tell Pittsburghers about the Stogies that made Wheeling famous. A little talk soon convinced me that I never before knew anything about Stogie and his younger brother, Toby. They seem to belong to a large and growing family. Mr. Marsh admits that Wheeling sent 20,000,000 stogies to Pittsburgh last year, to say nothing of the things Wheeling did to other sections of the country. Added to those sent to Pittsburgh from Wheeling the several millions more manufactured here at home, and you will have some idea of why this is called the Smoky City. And with it all, one does still see an occasional cigarette or cigar being smoked by some one on the street who has not yet been properly educated to the virtues and friendliness of Stogie and Toby.

As Mr. Marsh's father was the originator of the stogie, and as the present Mr. Marsh has been in the business for about 50 years, he ought to know why this angular and knotty weed was christened Stogie, but he doesn't. It has often been said that it was so called because it was carried around by its rotaries in their boot tops, and in some parts of the country boots are called stogies. Mr. Marsh says this won't go down, and he thinks the fact that they were originally carried around the country in conestoga wagons gave them the name that will stick as long as they furnish solace to mankind.

Disciple of Hanna.

The old gentleman was leading his boy to the woodshed. A strap dangled in the hand of the old man, and a tear trickled down the face of the boy.

"This will be more painful to me than to you," said the unhappy father, with quivering lip.

"Then let's settle the matter without striking," suggested the boy. "I'm willing to arbitrate."

Whose Baby?

A Pittsburgher who recently returned from St. Louis tells of something unique in street car accommodation.

"On the front seat of the car sat a woman, and in the arms of the motorman was a little baby," he said. "The car was speeding along Oliver street, but neither the baby nor the sporting woman seemed concerned at the queer situation. The car was going too rapidly for me to learn whether it was the motorman's wife sitting in the front seat, or whether it was one of the regular duties of the motorman to quiet restless children by bonding them in his arms as the car sped along."

"Another thing I noticed about the St. Louis cars," continued the Pittsburgher, "is that they paint the railings along the side of the summer cars. Did you ever try to leave a car on a rainy day and seize hold of the brass railing? Well, watch how hard it is to get a strong hold. You will also notice that these railings are only clean about as far up as people usually take hold of them, and it's the slipping of the hands that keeps them clean. In St. Louis they paint these railings, and they are not only easier to get a grip on, but are much more sightly."

In a Poker Game.

Pittsburgher—Why is it, Colonel, that you never open a jack-pot on your own deal? Superstition?

Kentuckian—No, sah. See that scah? Ah opened a pot on my own deal once, sah, on four aces. The player who held but four kings refused to give up the pot without a struggle, sah.

Cleveland As a Harmonizer.

It is doubtful, however, if an announcement from Mr. Cleveland at this time would assist in bringing the two wings of the party together. On the contrary, the changes are it would help to keep them apart. As long as there is a possibility of the nomination of Mr. Cleveland the Bryanites will be more willing to accept a candidate that has the approval of what were termed Gold Democrats in the last presidential campaign. It may be a good thing for the party, therefore, for Mr. Cleveland to make no announcement as to whether he would accept the nomination of his party for president or not. As a matter of fact, he isn't called on to say whether or not he would accept it until questioned about it by some one having authority to do so.—Savannah News.

What Kentucky Needs.

The annual convention of the Kentucky Educational association opened with the several hundred delegates singing "My Old Kentucky Home," and the first business done was the introduction of a resolution showing that 16 per cent of the white voters in the state cannot read or write, and that in 28 counties the whole body of native white voters is related with from 20 to 56 per cent of illiteracy. "My Old Kentucky Home" seems to be in sad need of an educational housecleaning.—Indianapolis Journal.

Republican Unanimity.

There is absolute unanimity among the Republicans of the country on all the issues of any consequence which are now before the people in any shape. The Ohio platform and the spirit which characterized the members of the convention which framed it would serve as an excellent model for the national assemblage of the Republican party in 1904.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

PROF. PREVOST IS DISCHARGED

Policeman Who Arrested Him for an Act of Humanity Escapes Censure.

OFFICIALS TAKE NO ACTION

Superintendent McTighe Refuses to Interfere on the Ground That Stories Told by Officer and Prisoner Do Not Agree—Inspector McStay's Position.

Prof. Leon Prevost, who was arrested Saturday afternoon by Officer Andrew Adams for interceding in behalf of a poor, sore-ridden mute at Diamond alley and Market street, was arraigned for a hearing yesterday morning on a charge of disorderly conduct before Police Magistrate T. D. Stewart. After the magistrate listened to the evidence the musician was discharged.

Although Prof. Prevost received violent treatemnt at the hands of Officer Adams, who wrenched his wrist by twisting the nippers on it, the policeman was permitted to go out on his beat yesterday without a word of censure from his superior officers. In fact, Inspector Bernard McStay said that Prof. Prevost was at fault in the matter, as he had no business to interfere when the officer was doing his duty.

Prof. Prevost was walking in Market street and saw that the animal was being ill treated at the hands of the driver. He appealed to Officer Adams, who abused him for interfering. The musician insisted the officer should take some notice of his complaint, which resulted in his arrest.

Superintendent of Police John P. McTighe refused to talk about the matter last night. He said the stories of Prof. Prevost and Officer Adams differ, and he would take no action in the case as far as the officer was concerned.

A number of witnesses to the arrest were seen by The Gazette reporter last night, and they confirmed the story told by Prof. Prevost. They say the musician was roughly treated by Officer Adams, as it was unnecessary that nippers should have been placed on his wrist or that he should have been led through a crowded thoroughfare before a large crowd of people, many of whom were personally acquainted with him. They say the treatment Prof. Prevost received was outrageous and inhuman.

Prof. Prevost will place the matter in the hands of his attorney today.

POLICEMEN DROP INTO MANY SPEAKEASIES

Illicit Dealers in Intoxicants and Their Patrons Take Rides in the Patrol Wagon—Number of Houses Visited Yesterday.

Speakeasies are having troublous times in Pittsburgh now, and a number were raided yesterday. Police Lieutenant Charles Grimes was on the move from 9 o'clock in the morning until late in the afternoon in looking for them, and when he stopped Inspector McStay took up the work.

The former arrested Emma Baker of No. 315 Ross street in the early morning and sent her to central station on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. One man was found in her house, who was also locked up. He next went into the hill district, where he called at the house numbered 8 in McCullough's court off Stevenson street. There he found six men and sent them to No. 2 police station. He was told the woman who lives in the house had just stepped out. A mile away Grimes found Annie Brown at Green street and Wylie avenue. There was but one man in the house, and they were also sent to No. 2 station.

Returning downtown, Grimes arrested John Bruner and Mary Thomas, who live at No. 29 Third street. It was a question as to which was the proprietor of the place, and both were charged with keeping a disorderly house there. Seven men found in the place were locked up as visitors. At No. 424 Third avenue he arrested Sadie Grimes, another woman and two men.

Later in the day Inspector McStay arrested James Murphy at No. 44 Penn avenue on the same charge.

Inspector P. F. Kelly and Capt. J. N. Fredrick raided two alleged disorderly houses in the South Side district yesterday morning. The house of "Happy" Jack Moore, at the rear of No. 2304 Carson street, was visited at about 10 o'clock and Moore was captured, with three visitors. This house was raided about a month ago by these officers, but opened again early yesterday morning.

At 11:30 o'clock the house of William Feist at No. 155 South Twenty-fourth street, was raided and Feist, with 11 visitors, was captured. This house was dated up for the sole purpose of selling liquor. The police found 13 empty cases of beer, 181 full quarts and one gallon of whisky. One man escaped in this raid by jumping from the second-story window.

Several other places known to have been speakeasies were visited, but all were found closed.

A squad of Allegheny officers, headed by Thomas Johnson, raided the Keystone club, in East street, near Second street, late yesterday afternoon and 13 men were sent to the police station. Thomas Wolf of No. 808 Main street, the alleged proprietor, was held, but the others were released on $10 forfeits. The club, the officers say, was a speakeasy.

George Vogel and Frank Heuslen were given a hearing yesterday afternoon by Police Magistrate Samuel Abernathy of Allegheny on charges of conducting a gambling house and speakeasy at No. 15 East Robinson street, known as the Favorite club. Vogel, who cashed in the money when the gambling rooms were raided, was fined $50 and costs or 90 days to the work house. He was unable to pay. Heuslen, who was alleged to conduct the speakeasy, paid $10 and costs.

Critical Readers Cannot Be Without The Sunday Gazette

Pittsburgh people are noted all over the country as being well informed generally, with the desire always in evidence to keep posted on the happenings of the day. They are also noted as people who take vacations during the hot months. These characteristics have been well illustrated in the office of The Gazette the last few weeks by the large number of persons who have ordered The Daily and Sunday Gazette sent to them during their absence from the city. Especially do they insist on getting The Sunday Gazette. Their letters, telephone messages and personal calls ordering the paper tell why it is held in such high esteem.

The people want the news when it is news and want the facts presented just as the happenings took place. No garbled accounts are desired by the critical readers any more than they want long-padded statements of happenings that make the reading tedious.

Yesterday's Sunday Gazette was a gem in every way. All the news of all the world was put before its thousands of readers in the most attractive form. The magazine features, the colored sections, the comic parts, with the Coon Hollow bunch, the many departments and everything to make a bright, newsy, up-to-date paper were in its 50 broad pages and seven sections.

A few of the good things in addition to the news of all kinds were the following: The Fighting Bishop Will Not Down, New York Smart Set, Labor World, Labor Problem in Belgium, Life Story of James Whitcomb Riley, Books, Men's Fashions, Coon Hollow Folks, Children's Page, Ararat Kids and Brownies, Mother Goose Rhymes, Young Sculptor's Romance, Buster Brown, Independence Day, The Outing Girl, Everglades, Beautiful Women, How the World Will End, To Banish the Wrinkles, Across the Local Alps.

JOHNSON A CANDIDATE FOR AUDITOR OF STATE

Cleveland Mayor Said to Have Designs on Scalp of the Republican Candidate.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, June 28.—It was reported today that Mayor Tom L. Johnson would become a candidate for auditor of state on the Democratic ticket this fall. This report seems absurd on its face, but those in a position to know say that the question of taxation will be the issue in the state campaign this fall and that this is Johnson's stronghold. They say that as the nominee for state auditor Johnson's views on taxation would be taken seriously and Johnson would really stand a good chance of defeating State Auditor Guilbert, who is running for his fourth term now.

Guilbert's decisions on matters pertaining to the tax questions have not always been in the people's favor and the mayor would take advantage of this. Then again the mayor would appear in a new light. He would be sacrificing a big office and honor to serve the people by forcing the corporations to pay their just share of the taxes. This has been his hobby ever since he disposed of his interests in public corporations. Of course, whether he runs for state auditor or not the ticket nominated by the Democrats will be his selection.

It is not generally known that Johnson was seriously considering running for member of the board of public service at the last city election here. The only thing that kept him from doing so was the fact that he already was mayor.

PERSONALS

John S. Smith of Dayton, O., is registered at the Monongahela house. For the past 25 years he has been a frequent visitor to Pittsburgh, and also a stopper at the historic hostelry, but after July 16 he will be missed for several months. He is going on an extended trip to South Africa, where he will represent a Dayton firm manufacturing machines for making tile and brick. Several companies have recently been organized in South Africa to make brick, the stockholders being principally Americans. Much structural work will be done in South Africa, he says, on account of the devastation during the Boer war.

Congressman Henry S. Boutelle of Chicago passed through the city last night over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad on his way home from Washington, where he has been attending to congressional matters. He said he was preparing for the next session of congress to be held on November 9.

William C. Loree, general superintendent of the Baltimore & Ohio, left last night for Baltimore in his private car, No. 919.

POPULAR WORKMAN KILLED.

Charles A. Schueble of McKees Rocks Met Death from Falling Crane.

Charles Augustus Schueble, aged 28 years, a machinist, recently employed as foreman of one of the shops of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at McKees Rocks, was killed Saturday by the falling of a crane in the Youngstown (O.) Car Company's plant. He was one of the most popular men in the railroad's employ and upon leaving McKees Rocks, two months ago, was presented with a silver loving cup by the 60 workmen who had been in his charge. He was a member of the McKees Rocks Volunteer Firemen's association and was connected with several German benevolent societies. Arrangements have been made for these organizations to attend his funeral in a body.

Mrs. Schueble did not receive the news of her husband's death until yesterday, the telegram having been delayed. Besides his widow he leaves three small children and one sister, Mrs. Charles Olsch, of Island avenue, McKees Rocks.

PENNSYLVANIA MAKES NO ADVANCE IN RATES

PHILADELPHIA, June 28.—(Special.) Except for the advance in coal rates April 1, there has been no important freight rate advance made by the Pennsylvania railroad since January 1. Then rates were raised on an average of 6 per cent on some heavy commodities, such as stone and iron. From time to time there have been changes in the rate on some specific commodities such as are constantly occurring. But no notice of a general advance has been given nor is any contemplated. The Pennsylvania railroad officer who gave this information said that he was equally certain that no important advance is contemplated by any other railroad having a terminus here.

SENT UP TWO LOAFERS.

Allegheny Policeman Arrested a Pair of Drones Who Were Sentenced.

William Ruffner of 116 Carroll street and Fred Kalbfeld of McIntosh court were each sentenced to 20 days in the workhouse in default of a fine of $5 and costs in Allegheny, yesterday. They were picked up by Policeman Thomas Carroll in River avenue as suspicious persons. The officer testified that they loafed about the streets and did not work.

TIDES SUBMERGED RAILROAD TRACK

West Jersey and Seashore Suffers from Encroachment of the Ocean.

BULKHEAD SAVES ROADBED

Old Inlet Channel Is Being Rapidly Filled Up by the action of Ocean Currents—Water 12 Feet Less in Depth Than Last Year.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Young's Ocean Pier,
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 28.

Once more the tides have caused alarm to the West Jersey & Seashore railroad. Water for several days during high tide covered sections of its tracks in the inlet district and forced suspension of traffic to the inlet from New Hampshire avenue. A double row of stone bulkheads running along Maine avenue for a distance of a thousand feet or more saved the roadbed from being washed away. This bulkhead has done good service since it was constructed and protects not only the railroad bed but also the property in the locality. The jetties below the bulkhead also have been the means of saving the beach from the encroachment of the sea. The feature which is reassuring is the filling up of the old inlet channel. The new channel in the middle of the wide waterway is taking off the heaviest part of the tidal waters and the old channel is getting shallower. It is expected by the old surfmen who have discussed the tides that the old channel will be completely filled up during the summer and that next fall there will be a much wider stretch of beach along the inlet section than there has been in years.

The depth of the water in the old channel now is 12 feet less than it was a year ago. Then there was from 30 to 35 feet of water. Now there is not much over 20 feet. The yachts still use the old channel, but many of them take to the new channel, which takes them out to sea by a less crooked way than the old channel. It also gives patrons that sensation of being on the high sea which was lacking in the old channel, which was so close to the shore.

It is still an open question if the big jetty planned for erection on the middle ground bar will be built. There are many property owners who hesitate about removing this middle ground bar, which seems to be a natural protection to the beach and saves the beach from being washed by breakers. If the middle ground bar is moved there is a chance, say some of the opponents to the big jetty, that the breakers will roll in from the sea directly on the inlet shore, which would form a change that would injure the beach.

Entries for the Horse Show.

Over 500 entries are booked for competition in the horse show contest. The entries have come in astonishing numbers. I never knew of so many ribbon winners to be entered. Indeed next summer's show will be a rival in every feature to the Philadelphia show and in quality of animals if not in number of exhibits Atlantic City will top Philadelphia. Reginald Vanderbilt is to make his first entry in Atlantic City and he has booked a number of fine horses. Nearly every one of them has won blues in tan bark competition.

Bathhouse Men Lose Money.

The bath house men are losing $1,000 a day. That is equivalent to 4,000 bathers. There would easily be that number of visitors in the surf if the chill was out of it and the atmosphere would permit a plunge into the sea without too much discomfort. A disconsolate bath house man, who was watching the surf, made the statement.

Toby Claude Disillusioned.

Toby Claude got her little high up tonight and came near not opening with "The Chinese Honeymoon" for the summer engagement of this comedy at Hough's pier. The volatile little actress, who is now suing her husband, the baritone, W. T. Carlton, for divorce, and is also reported engaged to a Baltimore millionaire, arrived on her first trip to the city by the sea this morning in the afternoon she went up to have a look at the dressing room, which will shelter her little form from the sprays of the ocean during the week. As soon as she spied the openair-ium and realized that she had to give an open-air performance she went off into a fit of angst.

"Does the management expect me to be a mermaid or do they think I am a salt water actress because I came from over the ocean to play before the blasted Americans?" exclaimed the half-grown comedian with a theatrical frown and a shriek that could be heard to the steeplejack. "And my dressing room, look at it," she continued. "It is situated over an aquarium filled with halibut and blue fish."

Miss Claude arrived at the theater just as the contents of the afternoon net haul had been dumped into the inclosure on the pier. She immediately announced that she would not play and notified the management. A quick communication was opened with the Shubert offices in New York by wire and the case laid before Sam S. Shubert. This manager arrived at a speedy decision. He telegraphed his representatives that Miss Claude would have to appear or else consider her five-year contract annulled. As a part of this contract contains conditions of a starring tour in the future, the little comedian came to her senses after a good cry.

HOME MARKET IS VALUABLE ASSET

Consuming Power of the United States Has Nearly Doubled Since 1890.

TREASURY FIGURES PROVE IT

Importation of Manufacturers' Materials Has Increased $66,000,000 Over Same Period of 1902—Exportations of Manufacturers Show Little Increase.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 10, Postal Building.
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 28.

The growth in the consuming power of the United States in this period of business activity is illustrated by the figures of the treasury bureau of statistics, showing the importations by great groups during the 11 months ending with May, 1903. These figures show that while the exportation of manufactures has increased only $2,000,000 as compared with the corresponding months of last year, the importation of manufacturers' materials has increased $66,000,000 as compared with the same months of 1902, and $74,000,000 as compared with the corresponding months of 1901. As it can scarcely be presumed that the manufacturers of the country are importing in excess of their present or immediately prospective requirements, it would seem that the increase in manufactures which this growing importation of materials indicates is being consumed at home, since exportations of manufactures for the year show no material increase.

A rapid increase in the importation of manufacturers' materials has been the striking characteristic of the fiscal year about to end. For the 12 months the total value of manufacturers' materials imported amounted to $451,081,163, against $384,775,764 for the same months of last year, $319,524,957 for the corresponding months of 1901 and $363,457,072 for the same months of 1900.

Nearly Doubled Since 1890.

Prior to 1900 the imports of manufacturers' materials had never touched the $300,000,000 line, except in 1892, when they were $303,461,705. Comparing 1903 with 1890, the manufacturers' materials imported have nearly doubled in value, those of the 11 months of 1890 being $242,437,991.

Not only has the importation of manufacturers' materials increased, but the home production of the great articles used in manufacturing has also increased. The production of pig iron in the United States in 1902 amounted to 17,821,307 long tons, against 15,780,242 tons in 1900, an increase of over 4,000,000 tons, or nearly 30 per cent; while cotton production shows an increase of over 1,000,000 bales and wool a gain of 30,000,000 pounds, comparing 1902 figures with those of 1890.

The principal articles in which the increase in importations of manufacturers' materials occurs are raw silk, which shows an increase of 1,000,000 pounds, or 13 per cent, in the 10 months for which the detailed statements are at hand; india rubber, which shows an increase in quantity of 3,500,000 pounds in the 10 months over the same period of the preceding year; and manila hemp, which shows an increase of more than 10 per cent in quantity imported.

Fibers as a whole show an increase of 24,000,000, comparing the 11 months of this year with those of 1902. Iron in a partially manufactured state for use in manufacturing also shows a large increase.

The following table shows the value of manufacturers' materials imported in the 11 months ending with May, from 1890 to 1903:

Eleven months ending with May—	Manufacturers' Materials. Value.
1890	$242,437,991
1891	277,896,068
1892	261,187,881
1893	300,481,791
1894	187,504,311
1895	241,246,728
1896	286,290,715
1897	270,843,124
1898	251,002,953
1899	259,031,611
1900	303,455,972
1901	319,524,957
1902	384,775,764
1903	451,031,163

OLD QUARREL MADE UP THROUGH KIND ACTION

Alton Steadman Plays Good Samaritan to His Enemy and Feud Is Ended.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 28.—Alton Steadman and Peter Taylor, two aged men of Dennetts Mills, Pa., who have not spoken to each other since they quarreled at a dance years ago, and whose feud has divided the countryside into partisan camps, became reconciled last night. The healing of the old breach was the result of Alton saving the life of Peter, whom he found in a ditch, where he had fallen from a horse. Peter shed tears when he learned of the kindness his old enemy had shown.

TO COST $40,000.

Corner Stone of New Cumberland Presbyterian Church Is Laid at Punxsutawney.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The ceremonies attending the laying of the corner stone for the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, at the corner of Union and Findley streets, was witnessed here this afternoon by thousands of people. The Rev. Ira E. Landreth, Nashville, Tenn., delivered the address. The exercises, which were most elaborate, were conducted by the rector, E. L. Irving, assisted by all of the other resident ministers.

The church, which is being built of native stone, will be 50x100 feet, will cost about $40,000 and will have a seating capacity of 1,000. D. McKean Berlin is the contractor and Reiger & Currier, Pittsburgh, are the architects.

WAS IN TWO RUNAWAYS.

Christian Weaver of McKeesport Fatally Injured in the Second.

Christian Weaver, 28 years old, who lives in the old State road, two miles from McKeesport, was fatally injured by falling from his wagon at Fifth avenue and Hazel street, McKeesport, at 10 o'clock last night. Early in the evening Weaver drove into McKeesport behind a fractious horse owned by Oliver Eaton. The horse ran away in Jenny Lind street at 8, but Weaver got new harness at a nearby livery stable and started home. At Hazel street the horse ran off and threw Weaver into a street car, fracturing his skull. He was taken to the McKeesport hospital and submitted to a trephining operation, but will probably die.

Department Store Burns.

DECATUR, ILL., June 28.—Fire today destroyed Kern, Deeler & Co.'s department store. The loss was $85,000.

Ten dollars in coaches, or twelve dollars in Pullman cars, when accompanied by usual Pullman tickets. Tickets good 10 days. Through train of coaches and parlor cars leave Union station July 2 at 8:50 a. m. Evening trains leave at 4:50, 9 and 10.

JIM KEY, THE EDUCATED HORSE, IS NOT ON LIST

Will Not Be at Homewood Carnival—Buckskin Ben Is Billed to Appear.

It has been decided by the business men of Homewood that Jim Key, the celebrated educated horse, will not be at the carnival that will begin on the Fourth of July on the grounds in Hamilton avenue. Although it is acknowledged that Jim Key in some places is a good attraction, it was thought that he has been seen by too many persons of this vicinity to be an especially strong drawing card. Besides having been shown at the Pittsburgh exposition, Jim Key was at Atlantic City and several other places where Pittsburgh people had a chance to note his ability.

One good feature of the Homewood carnival will be Buckskin Ben, the frontiersman, whose ability with the rifle is acknowledged all over the country. The feat of perforating a tin can with bullets while the former is sailing through the air is one of the easiest he performs. Shooting the spots out of a playing card at 100 yards with such rapidity that the shots cannot be counted and cutting the heads of matches with bullets at 50 paces are tricks he is said to perform.

Besides his wonderful rifle shooting, Buckskin Ben is a marvelous rider. He rides a bucking broncho with ease, lassoes the wild Texas steer with dexterity, and demonstrates how the mail was carried years ago by riders on the frontier. Throughout the wild west show is a good exemplification of life in the far west, not exaggerated or distorted, but presented without trimmings or frills, just as it is.

DIRECTORS' ANSWER DOESN'T PLEASE M'NEAL

Denies That Resolutions Commending Cast Iron Pipe Management Were Unanimous.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BURLINGTON, N. J., June 28.—Andrew H. McNeal, the founder of the Burlington iron plant absorbed by the United States Cast Iron Pipe and Foundry Company, who recently brought suit against the company asking for a receiver, does not believe that the commendatory resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the stockholders in any way refuted his charges of mismanagement or exonerated the directors and men in power in the concern. Mr. McNeal said:

"I am averse to discussing in the newspapers matters of difference pending in the courts, but as the pipe company has rushed into print there is excuse for me replying briefly.

"It is true," he stated, "that I was present at the annual meeting of the stockholders on Wednesday last, but it is not true that the resolutions commending the management were passed unanimously. There were few stockholders present. Therefore, any such resolutions as were passed might be considered as evidences of self-esteem.

"It is not true that my last bill was inspired in malice, nor because I have not been successful in the suits already in court. There have been no terms of the courts in which these cases are to be tried, and it is, therefore, too early to judge whether or not I am to prevail in any of them."

WASTE OF WATER.

Duquesne Officials Surprised by Report of Operation of Meter System.

Duquesne borough has been wasting an enormous quantity of water. A report by the water committee on two months' operation of the meter system has been made, showing 350 meters installed.

The greatest waste of water has been found in the hotels. In two of these it was found that during the past two months 1,800,000 gallons of water had passed through the meters, in a third 250,000 gallons and in another 200,000 gallons. Others have shown less amounts, but comparatively few of them below 50,000 gallons per month. It is said that this is largely due to the fact that a stream of water is kept running constantly in the bars, but much of the loss is from leakage in plumbing somewhere. In many homes spigots have been allowed to run incessantly.

It was said yesterday by one councilman that enough water has been pumped by the Duquesne water works the past three or four years to supply a town four times the size.

BODY OF A BOY FOUND IN RIVER

FREEDOM, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The body of a 10-year-old boy was found on the wharf at the edge of the Ohio river here early this morning. It was badly decomposed, making it probable that the lad had been drowned in the recent rise of the river and his body not found until the water receded. He was four feet three inches high, weighed about 70 pounds, had light hair and wore a blue shirt and light trousers.

DAMAGE BY STORM IN WEST VIRGINIA

HUNTINGTON, W. VA., June 28.—Great damage is reported today from the storm over the southern portion of West Virginia. Wires are down and it is impossible to get details. A number of buildings were struck by lightning here, one being the city hall. The telephone service was damaged and the fire alarm system is down. An inch and a half of rain fell here in 1 hour and 10 minutes.

Rioting in Ireland.

LONDON, June 28.—During the unveiling at Arklow, Ireland, today of a monument to the rebels who fell in the battle of Arklow in 1798, at which ceremony 30,000 Nationalists were present, the latter collided with a band of street preachers, one of whom narrowly escaped death at the hands of the mob. The house in which he took refuge was wrecked.

Carnegie After a New Plant.

The George A. Hoag Iron and Steel Foundry Company may build its new plant at Carnegie if the people of that town will subscribe for stock. The Carnegie board of trade will meet tomorrow and try to come to terms with the foundry company. New Castle offers to buy up all the new stock, and as an additional incentive for the company to locate there, offers a free site.

Toledo Saloonist Killed.

TOLEDO, O., June 28.—Max Schleifstein was shot and instantly killed in his saloon at 1825 Canton street at 10 o'clock tonight by William Jones, colored. The latter and Al Wilford, the bartender, had a quarrel over a game of poker, and Jones pulled a revolver. Schleifstein jumped between the men.

Miner Killed By Friend.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 28.—(Special.)—Tony Pietro, an Italian miner in the little settlement of Klondike, was stabbed to death by John Dughi, a countryman, in a drunken quarrel this morning as they were returning from a wedding of relatives of both. Dughi has not yet been apprehended.

Wife Lives in Pittsburgh.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—(Special.)—Gustav Shubert, foreman of the American Bridge Company's plant here, was struck and instantly killed by a swinging beam Saturday afternoon. He was married and has a wife living in Pittsburgh.

CROWDS DID NOT FEAR THE CLOUDS

Many People Turned Out to Visit the Parks in Threatening Weather.

SCRAMBLE WHEN RAIN CAME

The First of the Sunday Concerts at Highland and the Season's Last Organ Recital Drew Lovers of Music in Large Numbers.

Cloudy skies and the distant rumble of thunder yesterday did not interfere with the attendance at the local parks. The first Sunday afternoon concert of the season in Highland park drew large crowds, and the closing organ recital of the summer in the Carnegie music hall attracted a good-sized audience. When the heavy shower swept over the city shortly after 5 o'clock 5,000 umbrellaless sightseers were caught in the storm and drenched by the pelting rain.

At Highland the roar of the approaching thunder storm mingled strangely with the deep notes of the bass instruments. Some of the people kept one eye over their shoulders, however, and escaped to the trolley cars before the rain began. Others were carried away in their enthusiasm for the music, and when the rain began there was a wild, undignified rush for shelter.

The majority of the unfortunate visitors were strangers in the city, having come to town yesterday from the country districts on local railroad excursions. They presented a sorry appearance as they gathered on the platforms to return to the country. Women who had come to town with gorgeous paper hats went home without any millinery adornment.

A fine program, including a number of popular selections, was given by Organist W. K. Steiner at Carnegie hall. The next recital will be given by Edwin H. Lemare on Saturday evening, October 3, at which time Mr. Lemare will have returned from his Australian trip. Mr. Steiner proved himself a popular substitute since Mr. Lemare's departure several weeks ago, and there was a reunion of his admirers yesterday. A number of encores were demanded and an enthusiastic demonstration followed the closing number.

The traction parks drew good crowds notwithstanding the threatening weather. There was a small attendance at the Carnegie Institute and on the boulevards automobiles were scarce.

NEW SOCIAL BUILDING FOR CUMBERLAND CHURCH

Will Have Auditorium With Fine Stage, Gymnasium and Other Attractions.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., June 28.—The corner stone of the new and imposing structure being erected by the congregation of St. Patrick's Catholic church to take the place of Carroll hall, was laid this afternoon with elaborate ceremonies. Bishop Curtis, of Baltimore, vicar general of the archbishop of Baltimore, officiating.

Prior to the corner stone laying a procession was formed in Baltimore street, composed of the Catholic Knights of America, Knights of Columbus, Sts. Peter and Paul society, Ancient Order of Hibernians, St. Joseph's Singing society and Cumberland council No. 185, Catholic Benevolent legion and, headed by the South Cumberland band, moved to the scene of the corner stone laying, where the symbolical and ritualistic ceremony of the church was performed, the bishop being assisted by a large number of the clergy from Cumberland and vicinity, and by the Rev. Father Whalen, pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, Baltimore.

Immediately after the corner stone laying Father Thomas J. Stanton of Lonaconing delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion. The music was in charge of the choir of St. Patrick's church, assisted by the choir of Sts. Peter and Paul's church. In the morning at St. Patrick's church a high mass was celebrated with Father Francis Laing as celebrant. Bishop Curtis delivered a sermon.

The new building when completed will cost about $50,000, and is being erected for the benefit of the social side of church work. The building will be 64x112 feet, with a 20-foot lobby addition, and will have a basement and two stories. In the building will be a large auditorium, with a fine stage, a gymnasium, with all the latest apparatus, parlors, reading rooms, club rooms, etc. The main entrance will face on the lawn in front of St. Patrick's church.

DROWNED AT CAPE MAY.

Prominent Washington Man Ventures Too Far Out Into Ocean.

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 28.—Clyde Walker Dawson, assistant agent of the board of children's guardians of the District of Columbia, was drowned at noon today. He had ventured well out where a strong ebb tide was running. He tried to get ashore, but became exhausted just within the edge of the breakers. He lived at Linden, Md.

Commissioner MacFarland of the District of Columbia, who was here on a visit, took charge of the body. It was recovered about two hours after the drowning. Dawson leaves a family.

NO TRUST COMPANY IN SECRET SOCIETIES

Project to Handle Funds of Such Organizations Will Not Be Countenanced.

An "official" trust company to handle the funds of secret organizations or to make a specialty of the business of individuals affiliated with several fraternal societies will not be countenanced among Pittsbugh business men. It has frequently been reported that a new trust company was about to be organized for the purpose of dealing with secret organizations and their members, and the story brings forth vigorous denials from officers of all fraternal bodies.

J. A. Langfitt, one of the most prominent members of secret and beneficial societies in Pittsburgh, yesterday stated that the Royal Arcanum nor any other reputable organization would lend its indorsement to any scheme calculated to drag its affairs into the business world. The men who had been instrumental in backing the scheme were comparatively obscure in the city's financial circles.

"The name of the Royal Arcanum or of any other society is used simply to gain prestige," declared Mr. Langfitt, "and it is in violation of the first principles of any fraternal organization to suggest the use of its name for any scheme for individual profit. A trust company organized for the purpose of handling exclusively the moneys of secret societies would not be a success, and it would be ridiculous to expect the members to patronize a financial institution which at best would simply be a namesake of the Royal Arcanum or a similar society."

MACHINISTS PREPARE ANOTHER AGREEMENT

They Will Ask for 10 Per Cent Increase and a Nine-Hour Day.

The mass meeting of the district members of the International Association of Machinists, held yesterday afternoon in old city hall, was attended by over 3,000. The proposition of the manufacturers and the agreement arranged by the machinists were considered. It resulted in another scale being drawn up, and if the manufacturers do not sign it a strike will be declared.

The clause reading that all employes in the shops shall be union men was stricken out, and that of the manufacturers' proposition submitted. The increase of wages was compromised. The machinists formerly demanded 15 per cent, and the manufacturers offered 5. The new scale calls for 10 per cent.

A committee, consisting of James Flanagan, chairman; Humphrey B. Campbell, E. H. Meade, John Groff and John Theis, will present the new scale to the association this morning. The committee will be accompanied by Stewart Simpson, business agent. Should the manufacturers refuse to sign the new scale, the men will stop working Tuesday night.

J. J. Schwan presided at the meeting. It required a three-fourths majority to strike, and was carried unanimously.

HAS DECOY LETTER.

Jacob Divine Arrested at Columbia Charged With Robbing Mail Boxes.

HARRISBURG, June 28.—Jacob Devine was arrested at Columbia last night charged with breaking open and pilfering several mail boxes.

The postal authorities have been working on this case for three months. Postoffice Inspector Malone says Devine was detected breaking open a box and the Columbia police notified.

When Devine was searched one of the numerous decoy letters sent through the mail by the inspector was found on him. Malone will go to Columbia tomorrow to take Devine to Lancaster for a hearing.

CROWD IS AT BAY IN OHIO SALOON

FINDLAY, O., June 28.—(Special.)—Fred Keiphen, a saloonist, whose place was raided here today on the charge that he was selling liquor on Sunday, fired at the police, and was arrested only after a resistance in which a dozen shots were fired. Men who had gathered in the saloon during the day refused to come out when Keiphen was caught, and are still holding the place against the police tonight. So far no one has been injured.

Mercer County Primaries.

SHARON, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The Democratic primaries were held in Mercer county last night and delegates were selected to attend the convention in Mercer Monday, when a ticket will be placed in nomination. There are five candidates for jury commissioner: Jerry Wilk of Greenville, S. C. Niece of Sandy Lake, J. T. Welker of Findley, F. H. Kearney of South Sharon and William Carlisle of Sharon. S. P. Barker will probably be re-elected as chairman of the Democratic party in this county.

Gambling House Raided.

Samuel Howestein was fined $50 yesterday on a charge of keeping a gambling house at No. 44 Vine street. Lieut. Kennelly said he found seven men in the house at 5 o'clock yesterday morning playing cards with money in sight. The visitors were fined $5 and costs each.

Two Drowned in Silver Lake.

RICHFORD, VT., June 28.—A skiff containing four men capsized on Silver lake, Franklin, during last night. Edward Conklin, aged 23, and William Dixon, aged 30, were drowned. A nearby boat rescued the other men.

NEW LEETSDALE CHURCH DEDICATED ON SUNDAY

John A. Trimble of Allegheny Delivers Opening Address to Sunday School.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LEETSDALE, PA., June 28.—The First United Presbyterian congregation of Leetsdale dedicated its new house of worship today with extensive ceremonies. For about two years the members of the congregation have worshipped in the halls of the town. The need of a church was evident and finally a lot was purchased and work started in December.

John H. Trimble of Allegheny delivered an opening address to the Sunday school at 10:30 this morning. This was followed by children's day services. In the afternoon at 3 the Rev. W. L. Wishart delivered the dedicatory sermon; in the evening at 7 John S. Lambie made the address for the Y. P. C. U. Following him came the pastor, the Rev. J. A. Gregg. He told of the upward course of the movement to build a church that the congregation might have a house of worship of its own, and of the consummation tonight of that effort.

Monday night the Rev. E. M. Milligan will speak and every night this week there will be addresses by the following ministers: Tuesday, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Parke; Wednesday, the Rev. Dr. W. S. Harper; Thursday, the Rev. W. W. Lawrence; Friday, the Rev. G. W. McDonald. Sunday, July 5, at 11 a. m., communion service by the pastor; 7:45 p. m., sermon by the pastor, subject, "America for Christ."

A prominent partaker in today's services was Miss Edith Peake of Iowa, a well-known evangelist.

The cost of the church is $6,000, and has a seating capacity of 240. The Rev. J. A. Gregg was graduated from the Allegheny Theological seminary in the class of 1902. For some years before his graduation he had served the church as supply. A committee from the Allegheny presbytery, with the Rev. W. L. Wishart as chairman, started the Leetsdale work and a self-supporting congregation has grown out of the mission. The members of the board of trustees of the church are Thomas Neely, chairman; C. M. Davis, Richard Smith, William Bauman and E. B. Hamilton.

CALLED BY ATHERTON.

Former State College Athlete Made Bowerman Show "Yellow" at Martinsburg.

GREENSBURG, PA., June 26.—The attack on Fred Clarke by Frank Bowerman in New York, recalls an incident in the career of the rowdy catcher. The other party to the incident was "Prex" Atherton, who has been prominent in both baseball and football in Western Pennsylvania. In 1896 Atherton was playing second base for Chambersburg of the Cumberland Valley league. Bowerman and Arlington Pond were with the champion Baltimore Orioles and had been loaned to Martinsburg, W. Va., for a number of the more important games near the end of the season.

In a closely contested game between the two nines at Martinsburg, Bowerman resorted to bulldozing tactics with the opposing batters. When Atherton came to bat Bowerman hurled a vile epithet at him and the State College athlete immediately showed fight. Although playing on grounds where the entire sympathy of the spectators was with Bowerman, Atherton begged the catcher to doff his mask and glove and have it out in hammer and tongs fashion. Seeing that his bluff was called Bowerman weakly pleaded for peace.

A fight was averted on the field but Bowerman was so completely unnerved by Atherton's willingness to mix it up that he played the yellowest kind of ball. Six pitched balls scared him and he threw second base twice. His errors lost the game for Martinsburg by a big score. That night Atherton called at Bowerman's hotel but the rowdy refused to see him.

TO DISCUSS DISPUTES.

Wyoming Valley Miners to Meet With Their Foremen and Superintendents.

WILKESBARRE, PA., June 28.—The miners, through their superintendents and foremen throughout the Wyoming Valley coal fields will this week make an effort to clean up the petty disputes and grievances which exist, so as not to burden the conciliation board with such matters.

The award of the coal commission says that the miners and superintendents should make an effort to end disputes among themselves by conferences, and this is now going to be done. Only grievances which cannot be settled in this way will be brought to the attention of the conciliators.

Sale Rumor Again Afloat.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28.—(Special.)—The rumor is again afloat that the Youngstown and Sharon Railway and Light Company has sold its Hubbard-New Castle line to the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad Company. Those connected with both roads deny all knowledge of the transaction.

GAMES TODAY.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,

NEW YORK, June 28.—A special meeting of the National league is to be called as soon as possible to consider the Davis controversy. Barney Dreyfuss, who arrived here this morning, consulted President Pulliam about the matter and if the president does not issue the call, then six of the clubs will ask for the meeting.

Barney Dreyfuss has taken a hand in the Bowerman assault and will have that player brought to his senses by reporting the attack on Clarke to the National officers.

Fred Clarke, Pittsburgh's captain, since his trouble with Bowerman at the Polo grounds Friday afternoon, has declared that he would let the matter rest where it is and not lodge a compaint against Bowerman. Dreyfuss does not take this view and will make an example of Bowerman. He said: "The nature of the attack is too serious to let it pass unnoticed. Had it been an ordinary fight in which both men came together on account of losing their temper I should not interfere, but it was far from such. If such methods are practiced there will be constant trouble and visiting teams will in some circumstances not be safe. It is my intention to make an example of Bowerman."

Dreyfuss exemplified his statement in regard to the nature of the fight. He considers that Clarke was attacked without cause. As to Clarke circulating rumors Dreyfuss was not prepared to make a positive statement, but it is his belief, and he has the word of Clarke, that Clarke did not try to make trouble between Warner and Bowerman. He is inclined to believe that Bowerman had it in for Clarke and wanted to keep him out of Friday's game.

It is said tonight that the meeting may be held this week or perhaps not until after the Fourth. Dreyfuss will be here until after Thursday. He wants a meeting at once, and the National may, therefore, get together this week. As to what action will be taken he refused to say. The Bowerman-Clarke affair will also be discussed at this meeting, with Mr. Dreyfuss as chief complainant.

Rumors from the west that Harry Pulliam would be forced to resign because of his attitude regarding George Davis were scoffed at by the National league men in this city, in fact, his course has received the indorsement of the Brooklyn, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and New York clubs, which constitute a majority of the organization.

MISS LYDIA CARPENTER CREATES HIGH JUMP RECORD FOR GIRLS

NEW YORK, June 28.—Miss Lydia Carpenter, aged 15 years, has broken another record. This time it is unofficial, but in her high jump she cleared the bar at 4 feet 4 inches. Miss Carpenter, who lives at Plattsburg, N. Y., is a remarkable and natural born athlete. She has taken the record of the girls' running high jump away from Vassar college, surpassing the jump of Miss Helen C. Wood of that college. Miss Wood carried the record with 4 feet 2½ inches, but Miss Carpenter has defeated her by a bound of 4 feet 3⅝ inches, and now has better of that record.

James E. Sullivan of New York city, secretary of the Amateur Athletic union, has set the stamp of approval on Miss Carpenter's high jump, which has now been accepted and stands as the American record for women.

AN EVEN BREAK.

White Sox and Invaders Each Take One Game.

CHICAGO, June 28.—New York won the first game today easily. The second was an entirely different proposition, being a pitchers' battle, in which the locals won after 11 innings of the hardest kind of playing. Tannehill's fielding and a great throw to the plate by Jones were the features. Attendance, 16,500. Score:

TIE IN LEAGUE.

Cornell and Columbia Even in Claim for the La Crosse Championship.

NEW YORK, June 28.—(Special.)—The championship of the Intercollegiate Lacrosse league has been declared a tie between Columbia and Cornell, owing to the former inability to meet Harvard. The Harvard-Columbia match was to have been played on June 2, but first one side and then the other asked to have the match postponed, and finally the college year on Morningside Heights ended before the game was played. So Columbia decided to default the game to Harvard. In previous matches Columbia had defeated both Cornell and Pennsylvania, the other two members of the league. The Blue and Yellow yesterday sent a protest to the Harvard game, therefore, ties the score with Cornell, who has defeated Harvard and Pennsylvania.

Although the championship is tied, the trophy will probably go to Morningside Heights, because of Columbia's defeat of Cornell. In the meantime several eligibility protests on the part of both parties have yet to be settled. By a curious coincidence the men protested on the two opposing teams are said to have played together on the same college team before going to Cornell and Columbia, respectively.

The final rating of the teams in the Intercollegiate lacrosse league is:

	W.	L.	P.Ct.
Columbia	2	1	.666
Cornell	1	1	.666
Pennsylvania	1	2	.333
Harvard	1	2	.333

RIDERS PREPARING FOR STRUGGLE ON STRETCH

New Men Doing Well and Winners May Be Sent to Compete in Australia.

Tonight and tomorrow night will wind up the big six-day bicycle meet at the Colosseum and a number of hotly-contested finishes should result. All the teams are a tie for first place, each having ridden 191 miles in the four nights past. The real struggle for position now commences and the riders will exert every effort to capture first prize. In order to appreciate the fast work they have done so far, it should be remembered that 44 miles is the average number ridden in a six-day meet, while the riders in the present tournament have covered 47, 49, 48 and 47 miles respectively, in the four nights passed. On Thursday they equaled the world's championship record, recently made at Atlanta.

Although McFarland, Kramer, Fenn and Lawson are considered the fastest quartet of short distance men in America, there are four others who have shown unexpected speed in the present carnival and who should be figured on in the final result. They are Eddie Root, Walter Bargett, George Schreiber and Floyd Krebs. These have captured a number of prize miles and have made the champions extend themselves. A number of the riders are anxious to visit Australia and take part in the Austrial stakes, for which a purse of $10,000 is offered. The outcome of the race at the Colosseum will have much to do in determining who is to make the trip, as the winners will have the preference.

BOWERMAN SPIKED.

Devlin of Newark Puts Steels in His Right Instep, Causing Bad Cut.

NEWARK, N. J., June 28.—The Newark Eastern league team shut out the New York Nationals in an exhibition game here today, 2 to 0. Bowerman, the New York catcher, was spiked by Devlin of the local team, during the first inning. The spike punctured Bowerman's right instep so badly that Manager McGraw says he will lose the backstop's services for several days. Attendance, 5,230. Score:

HOLCOMB WARD WINS.

Defeats Beals C. Wright in Singles at Bay Ridge.

NEW YORK, June 28.—Play in the special lawn tennis tournament on the courts of the Crescent Athletic club, at Bay Ridge, was completed today, after five days of contest in singles and doubles. Holcomb Ward, the Harvard veteran, won the singles, his final match being against Beals C. Wright of Boston, who was defeated 6-1, 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

In the final doubles Ward and Ware won the special trophy by defeating Larned and Whitman, 4-6, 7-5, 8-6, 6-4, 8-6.

RECORDS EXPECTED TO BE BROKEN AT SCHENLEY

Fast Time on Fine Track Looked for on the Fourth—Entries to Come in Today.

It is confidently predicted that some of the Western Pennsylvania records will be broken at the athletic events at Schenley park on the Fourth of July, in connection with the great celebration to be given under the auspices of the city of Pittsburgh. The employes at the park will devote their efforts this week to putting the track in shape, and if the weather is good bicycle riders and runners will have a surface on which to compete for prizes that they never had before. The cinder path inside of the big amphitheater will be considerably widened so as to prevent crowding and to reduce to as small number as possible the heats in the hurdle races and the short sprints. Considerable new cinder will be needed for the improvements on the track, and orders have been given for a large number of loads of the stuff to be hauled up the big hill to the track.

Today is expected to bring in the largest number of entries for the 12 events on the program, but it will be on Thursday good many come in tomorrow, the last day, as many athletes hold off until the last minute before sending in their names. Calling the attention of the boys and the Buddies to the fact that they were not getting their names in as early as was desired had a good effect, as there were a large number of inquiries yesterday about the events.

Mayor William B. Hays and Director Edward M. Bigelow yesterday sent out another warning in regard to choosing the officials. They insist that the timers, starters and judges shall be men well qualified to do the work and shall also be men of unquestioned integrity, as there will not be given anyone a chance to make a protest, nor will the spectators be given an opportunity to go home dissatisfied.

FANS USED SHOTGUNS

Umpire and Player Peppered from Bleachers Because Work Was Not Satisfactory.

QUITMAN, GA., June 28.—(Special.)—At a game of baseball played today, near here, by two nines composed of negroes two men were shot, in the second inning William Johnson tried to steal second when, some one with a shotgun in the bleachers filled him full of bird shot, and he was retired to the bench and a doctor called. Three innings later the umpire made a decision which offended the fans, and he got the same treatment. A doctor picked out the shot, but the game went on. There were no arrests made.

Their Actions Were Suspicious.

Policeman Robert Ritchards arrested Edward Collins of South Thirteenth street, Joseph Narro of New York and Peter McMullen of Allentown, Pa., at Penn and Highland avenues last night as suspicious persons. They were loitering about the streets and when questioned could not give a satisfactory account of themselves.

HARLEM JOCKEY CLUB HAS NINE ADDITIONAL STAKES

Secretary Nathanson Makes Announcement That Each Event Has $1,500 or $2,000 Added.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 28.—Nine additional stakes to be run during the summer and fall meetings of the Harlem Jockey club are announced by Secretary Nathanson. Entries will close on July 15. These stakes have $1,500 or $2,000 added to each. With seven of the earlier closing stakes to be decided, 16 of these fixtures will be decided during the 31 days of racing yet to come at Harlem park. The stakes now open are:

RUPTURE
Men, Woman and Children CURED IN 30 DAYS

WITHOUT CUTTING, PAIN OR DANGER.

I have cured with the aid of my Electro-Plastic Treatment the most difficult cases of Rupture, even cases others thought a cure impossible. This procedure (which is my own discovery and indorsed by some of the world's greatest physicians) does away completely with the surgeon's knife, which, although it may effect a cure in some cases when skillfully handled, is at best dangerous and painful. My treatment is painless, and does not disturb you.

X-RAY EXAMINATION FREE

PILES AND FISTULA CURED IN 10 TO 30 DAYS.

Dr. Brinton, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Sir—Since receiving your treatment I am pleased to state that there is no sign of the return of either piles or the fistula, and I am entirely well. This seems almost too good to be true, and I assure you that I feel very kindly toward your treatment for the quick relief it has given me. I tried all the patent pile cures I could find, and had been doctoring with local specialists nearly two years without getting any relief. Your infallible results when I began your treatment.

DICK TAYLOR SIGNS WITH DES MOINES

Pittsburgh Amateur Will Enter Western League—McCracken May Play With Washington.

"RED" CALHOUN HAS IDEAS

Richard Taylor, captain anad left fielder on the Pittsburgh Amateur team, will leave for Des Moines, Ia., this morning to join the Western league club representing that city. Des Moines has been dickering with Taylor for some time past and yesterday Manager Joe Quinn telegraphed an advanced offer which was accepted. Taylor will play the outfield. He commanded a big salary because of his ability to hit. He had many friends on the Des Moines team working for him in Josh Clarke and Bill Marshall, the former Homestead players. Leo Fohl and Pitcher Cushman, with whom he played on the Junctions, now the Amateurs.

Andy Glover, third baseman on the Amateurs, has also received offers from minor league managers, but it is not likely he will accept any of them.

Alex McCracken, third baseman on the East Liberty Academy team, who was Saturday chosen captain of the nine for next season, will go to Washington, Pa., this week to enter a summer school conducted by the Washington and Jefferson college. He will not enter W. and J. next fall, but will return to East Liberty. McCracken is playing third on the All-Interscholastic team and will likely play with the summer team at Washington, which is composed of W. and J. players.

The All-Interscholastic players will practice at Friendship park this afternoon. Ed Davis, second baseman on the Pittsburgh college team, is requested to report at the park. The nine will play Manager Noble Matthews' Pittsburgh Amateurs two games July 4, at Friendship park.

"Red" Calhoun, the Alleghenian who was with the St. Louis Nationals last year but now with Wilmerding, is of the opinion that an umpire should have one sleeve of his jacket made of red material and the other of blue, or any other colors easily seen by the spectators. If the catcher would wear shin guards while working behind the bat there would be fewer battered legs and broken shinbones caused by foul tips and thrown bats, he opines. "There are many persons who attend games that are unable to hear the umpire's decisions on balls and strikes, due to noise, deafness and occasionally, weakness of voice on the part of the umpire," said he at Homestead the other day. "By raising one arm for a ball and another for a foul the fan would know what went over on the pitcher without straining his ears to catch the umpire's yell." Just then Coursey, Homestead catcher, got an awful hit on the legs with a hard foul, and caused Calhoun to remark that backstops could use the shin guards to advantage.

Lew Wentz, one of the old-time managers of local baseball teams, last week took the Ford Athletic club nine to Waynesburg to play the college team there a series of two games. On this trip one of the players did a little heroic stunt that would get him "anything" in the section of Greene county where the act took place. The Fords won from the collegians Wednesday in 14 innings and, of course, did not go to bed early after winning, as defeat would have seen all in shortly after darkness. About 2 a. m. Chief of Police Ganier of Waynesburg hurried to the hotel where the players were quartered and meeting a crowd of the players in front of the house yelled out that a nearby town was threatened with destruction by fire and called for assistance to go to the scene. The Pittsburghers responded and were soon in a hay wagon traveling across country. They found a house on fire. Jimmy McClaren caught a bundle thrown from a second story window. He passed it to Infielder Martin and just as the latter was in the act of throwing it on a heap of furniture he heard a wail. An inspection showed an infant, which Wentz declares, was not over 3 weeks old. How the child got in the bundle it was not explained, but when the mother learned that her babe was safe, she showered blessings on Martin and the other ball players.

Will Give Entertainment.

The Wilmerding Athletic club of Wilmerding, connected with the Wilmerding Y. M. C. A., which was organized about ten days ago, will give an exhibition entertainment in the Wilmerding auditorium this evening at 8 o'clock. A special feature will be a wrestling match between "Bill" Sleese and "Bob" Marvin for the championship of Wilmerding.

FIRE AT RAVENNA, O., CAUSES $250,000 LOSS

Fiddle Coach and Hearse Co.'s Plant and Other Buildings Badly Damaged.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

RAVENNA, O., June 28.—Fire almost completely destroyed the plants of the Fiddle Coach and Hearse Company here early this morning, causing a loss of $250,000. Of this amount only $18,000 was covered by insurance.

It was the largest fire in the history of Portage county, and for a time it was feared that all the business places along Main street would be destroyed. The White hospital is only a few doors away and a panic started among the patients. Flying sparks and boards were carried two miles and a dozen smaller buildings were ignited.

This company manufactures expensive funeral cars, coaches and carriages. They made the car used to bear President McKinley's remains to Canton, which was valued at $3,500.

Several firemen were badly injured. Another fire alarm was turned in from another part of the town at the same time, but no assistance could be sent. Riddle block No. 4, occupied by a drygoods store, several families, and in which several valuable turnouts were stored, was nearly destroyed. One hundred and fifty skilled men are thrown out of work.

Other builders and contractors whose work is under way agreed at a mass meeting today to stop their work in order that the men thus employed can start at once to rebuild the Riddle plant.

UNITED BRETHREN OBSERVE CENTENNIAL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

MT. PLEASANT, PA., June 28.—The members of the United Brethren church finished the celebration of its one hundredth anniversary here this evening. The exercises began Friday evening.

This was the first place west of the Alleghany mountains where the United Brethren church became established and branched westward. The educational enterprises of the church began here and resulted in the founding of the university, now located at Westerville, O. The first general conference of the church convened at this place. Abraham Draksel was the first minister, and the Rev. Lawrence Keefer is the present pastor.

The membership of the church is now over 300, and the place of worship is on Central Main street. W. M. Mills, D. D., of Dayton, O., and J. S. Mills, Ph. D., of Annville, Pa., addressed the meetings here today.

LOVE OF GIRL CAUSES TRAGEDY AND DEATH

Coal Miner at Beaver Dam, O., Shoots His Rival and Makes His Escape.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CANAL DOVER, O., June 28.—Michael Farkas was shot and killed in a fight over a girl at the Beaver Dam coal mines, near here, Saturday night by George Novak.

Both men were coal miners employed at the Beaver Dam mines. They boarded at the home of John A. Lack, who has a prepossessing daughter of about 18 years old. Both men had been paying attention to the girl, but Farkas, who was 28, seemed more with more favor in her eyes than did Novak, who is about 35.

The boarders were playing cards near the house about 7 o'clock Saturday evening when the two men quarreled about the girl and Novak drew a revolver and shot five times at Warkas, the last shot striking him on the forehead. He lived about three hours.

Novak made his escape. Marshal Espich of New Philadelphia went to the scene of the murder Sunday morning and the police of surrounding towns have been notified.

Track No 2 Ready for Business.

IRWIN, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Track No. 2 on the new line of the R. R. R. between Larimer and Ardara will be put into commission Tuesday morning, and the old line will be abandoned. Work will then be started on track No. 3. This will be raised three feet to bring it up to the grade of the new line. Work to finish the entire four tracks on the line cut through the hills is being pushed and it is stated that after they are in service traffic will be extended from Pitcairn to Irwin and perhaps Greensburg.

WEST VIRGINIA SUFFERS FROM BLACK RAINFALL

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., June 28.—Barbour county had a black rain yesterday which ran streams so black that cattle refused to drink it, while horses and cattle in the fields appeared black after the storm. On Stewart's run the water was so black that many people thought the Berryburg coal mine had been opened through the hill and that the water was from it. The black rain extended all over the county, but was harder and blacker in some places than in others. The clouds were of inky blackness and columns of black smoke seemed to rise from them. There is much speculation as to the cause, and many people were terribly frightened by the phenomenon.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS TO LURE NEW HUSBAND

Bellefonte Widow Expects to Inherit $40,000 and Would Like to Marry.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BELLEFONTE, PA., June 28.—All the marriageable men in Center county, and especially widowers and old bachelors, have been stirred out of their apathy in regard to the fair sex. While the woman in the case is a Center countian, she is as yet surrounded in mystery, and is known only through the following:

"BELLEFONTE, PA.—Widow, 25 years old, five feet, five inches tall, weighs 132 pounds, brown curly hair, gray eyes, fair complexion, American Lutheran, sunny nature. Keep house and do fancy work; am a dressmaker and musician, will inherit $40,000. Answer to all who send stamps."

The above circular was secured by the police of Chicago in a raid made on the Star Matrimonial agency a few days ago, and will be used as evidence against the proprietor.

LOSS REACHES $25,000.

Shenango Tin Mill at New Castle Not Entirely Crippled by Disastrous Fire.

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Conservative estimates today place the actual loss sustained by the Shenango tin plant in the disastrous fire there last night at not less than $25,000, while the figures may go much higher.

The flames were not extinguished until 2 o'clock this morning. The No. 3 engine hose of the hot mills, where the fire originated, was the worst damaged, and the 10 hot mills, to which it furnished power, cannot operate for some time, although the other 20 hot mills will not be affected.

Last night it was thought that the entire plant would be thrown into idleness as a result of the fire and the probability that the greater majority of the 2,500 employes will be able to continue work gives much satisfaction here.

SHOWALTER WILL LIVE.

Wounded Bank Robber Is Now Said to Have Been Identified as Ex-Convict.

BELLEFONTE, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—It is probable that the wounded robber who gives the name of Showalter, in the hospital here, is the man who in 1897 was convicted of robbing the Barnesboro postoffice and sent to the penitentiary for a term of five years.

At that time he went under the name of James Lewis, and was noted as one of the most daring postoffice robbers in the state. Since at the Bellefonte hospital he has been recognized by a man who knew him very well while serving time in the penitentiary.

He is conceded to have been the leader of the gang arrested a week ago yesterday. At this time the man is not out of danger.

JUDGE GORDON WILL SUCCEED HIMSELF

CLEARFIELD, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The latest returns from the Republican primaries yesterday show that Judge Cyrus Gordon will be the nominee to succeed himself. He has 76 delegates with 18 to hear from. Mitchell has 45. Gordon got many of the districts that the Mitchell forces were counting upon. They admit their defeat. The contest for sheriff between J. P. Staver of Clearfield and Harry Carlisle of Brady is very close, depending upon the choice of Humphrey delegates. Humphrey is third man in the race.

New Teachers at Punxsutawney.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the Punxsutawney school board last night almost an entirely new set of teachers was elected and Lester Meyers was sworn in as a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Purgess Shields. Prof. C. B. Oberdorf, a graduate of Princeton and for 11 years principal of the Sunbury public schools, was elected superintendent. Miss Mary Wilson, who has taught in the primary grades for 51 years, was given the option of retiring on $25 a month or accepting her usual position. She informed the directors that she preferred to teach.

Unknown Killed By Train.

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—An unknown man was instantly killed on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at Carbon, six miles west of here, this afternoon. He was 25 years old, five feet six inches in height and weighed about 115 pounds.

Grief Is Cause of Death.

IRWIN, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Joseph Sistek died last night after three weeks' of grieving over the death of his favorite son, Fred. The elder Sistek was 50 years old, and came here from Pittsburgh.

WILL SING OLD SONGS THAT INSPIRED VICTORY

Music Buford's Cavalry Heard at Gettysburg to Be Repeated on July 1.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GETTYSBURG, PA., June 28.—On June 30, 40 years ago, as Buford's cavalry rode through town to face the southern foe on the hills beyond, and thus open what was to prove the greatest battle of modern times, the girls of the town assembled along the sidewalks and sang patriotic songs as the soldiers passed.

It was a dainty prelude to a bloody contest, and it is now proposed that the survivors, those of the girls of '63 who are still living, shall assemble again in the Center square on the evening of July 1, the anniversary of the first day's fight, and repeat once more the songs they sang for Buford's men, 40 years ago. They are wives and mothers now, some of them grandmothers, and many are dead and gone, but the old spirit is still alive among those who remain.

It will be a link that holds the past to the present, a symphony that stretches across the space that divides, blending the two in one common harmony and reviving more strongly than any words could do, however eloquent the orator, a memory of the eventful day when Buford's men passed through.

All town girls who participated in the singing in '63, when Buford's men passed through, are invited to take part. It is estimated that there are about 25 survivors still living in town.

Pittsburgh Man Dying.

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 28.—(Special.)—John Barry and James Jackson, who belong in the Fourteenth ward, Pittsburgh, crawled into the sand house at the LaBelle Iron works furnace to sleep last night. They were filled with gas and sulphur fumes during the night and both were hauled out unconscious this morning. Jackson is dying.

Johnstown Strike Settled.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The strike at Webster No. 10 mine, at Gallitzin, caused by the discharge of a driver because he refused to furnish cars to a miner who would not pay the district checkoff, has been settled by the reinstatement of the driver and an agreement on the miner's part to pay his allotment.

Borough Celebrates Anniversary.

NEW CASTLE, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—The people of the borough of South New Castle celebrated their second anniversary in a fitting manner Saturday. An elaborate open-air carnival and athletic sports took place during the day, and in the evening prominent men made addresses.

Money for Monessen Carnival.

MONESSEN, PA., June 28.—(Special.)—Over $5,000 has been subscribed toward the expense fund for the street carnival to be held here the first week in September.

The Three Rivers

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, June 28.—The stage of the river at 8 p. m. marked 16.3 feet and rising, making a rise of 2.8 feet during the past 24 hours. Weather cloudy and threatening. Very warm. The Iron Age, the flagship of the Pittsburgh No. 2 fleet, arrived at 6 a. m. today, followed closely by the Charley Brown, Ed. Roberts, John A. Wood, John Moren. The Charley Brown, Ed. Roberts and John A. Wood left for Louisville with their tows. All of the boats were assisted through the bridges by the Relief and the Adele. The Tom Dodsworth, James Moren, J. B. Williams, Pittsburg No. 2,

GREAT FUTURE IS AHEAD OF IRELAND

American Financier Predicts That Country Will Be Immense Distributing Point.

ITS LOCATION ADMIRABLE

Position Between Europe and America Will of Necessity Bring About This Condition Eventually — King Edward and His Advisers Realize This Truth.

(Special Correspondence to The Gazette.)

LONDON, June 28.—In the course of an interview given me today, C. C. Shayne, president of the merchants and manufacturers' board of trade, of New York, made some predictions regarding the future economic position of Ireland which, coming from a prominent American merchant, as well as a former member of the New York Commerce commission, should command widespread attention—especially as there have been recent indications that Mr. Shayne's views on this subject are shared by J. Pierpont Morgan.

Mr. Shayne not only declares that Ireland is, as he expresses it, "the future great commercial distributing ground of Europe," but maintains that English statesmen and capitalists, headed by King Edward himself, realize this fact, and that England's recent policy of reconciliation toward Ireland, the king's coming Irish visit, and his visit to the pope at Rome all have been the result of a far-sighted plan to insure for Great Britain every possible trade advantage in Ireland, once the expected elevation of that country to the position of clearing house for the commerce of Europe takes place.

Americans Should Join.

And this New York business man is of the opinion that American capitalists ought to join with those of Europe in doing everything possible to promote such a development of Ireland, which he declares "will be one of the stepping stones to mutual reciprocity."

Mr. Shayne contends that Ireland, by virtue of its position as the portion of Europe nearest to the United States, is the natural distributing ground of trade between the eastern and western continents, and will so do, especially when international trade attains the phenomenal proportions which he believes it is certain to assume during the next decade. He expects the Emerald Isle's advantage in this respect to become most marked when the tonnage and speed of Atlantic liners reach maximum.

"We are nearing the era of steamships with a tonnage of 40,000," Mr. Shayne said. "The new vessel of the Cunard line—to be the largest on the ocean—will have a length of 705 feet with a tonnage of 45,000. I predict that the ships which either the German or White Star lines may be expected to build to surpass them will reach the tonnage I have named.

Deep Water Harbor Needed.

"For such vessels to go to Liverpool will be impossible, both on account of their great draught and because of the many precautions that their vast size would make necessary during fogs and general bad weather, and for this reason we soon shall see some point in Ireland the great entry port and shipping port for freight to and from the United States. Queenstown is out of the question on account of the shallowness of its harbor, and I believe that some point will be chosen further to the northwestward, and consequently nearer to the United States for the great point of interchange of the future between Europe and America. Considering that the tendency of shipping circles is always toward greater speed, I predict that with this shortening of distance it will be possible to cross the Atlantic from New York to Liverpool in three and a half days, and that it will be practicable eventually to have a letter in New York on Saturday that is to have it delivered in London on the following Thursday.

"The transmission of freight naturally will be expedited to a corresponding extent, I believe, for instance, that it will be possible for a shipper in Scotland to forward goods to Ireland and to have them delivered in Omaha, Neb., in the time it takes at present to land them in New York.

Quick Delivery Essential.

"In the coming world's struggle for commercial supremacy the quick delivery of exports will be the essential thing, with the result, I believe, that the shippers of every part of Europe will dispatch their products to Ireland, there to be distributed for transmission to the United States in express ships.

"The shortening of the distance between Europe and America," continued Mr. Shayne, "will largely increase the travel in each direction, and I look to this and to the general spread of civilization to make the interchange of commodities greater between the two continents. And I have in mind a picture of Ireland as I believe it will be in that time. I see its coast, the barren coast past which we now sail for so many miles on our slow way to Liverpool, lined with great storage buildings, while trains rush in from the north and from the south dumping down the products of Great Britain and the continent to be shipped to America. It will be when this state of things comes to pass that Ireland will deserve the name of 'the clearing house of Europe.'

"And what I want to make especially emphatic," Mr. Shayne went on, "is that English statesmen and capitalists realize what is going to happen to Ireland and that they are preparing to profit by it. We are inclined to think of England as pretty slow, but its people are amazingly far-sighted, and one of the most far-seeing persons in this country at present is King Edward himself. He is shrewd and is surrounded by wise heads who have anticipated far ahead the coming development of Ireland.

Power Behind the Throne.

"Already the British government's policy of conciliation has done much to alter the Celtic feeling toward this country; while the king's coming visit will do much more. And meanwhile the king's call upon the pope and his considerate treatment of the aged pontiff have made a good impression on all the Roman Catholics of the world and especially Irish Catholics. And, in my opinion, one of the chief objects of this well considered course is the acquiring by British capital of land on the Irish coast for future commercial ends."

Perhaps the most apposite commentary on Mr. Shayne's remarks concerning the probable development of Ireland is the fact that, as I have already reported, up to the time of his hasty departure for New York, J. Pierpont Morgan intended to make a tour through the Emerald Isle, accompanied by several of his most intimate associates, especially for the purpose of examining for himself the possibilities of the country in a commercial way. He intended also to consider seriously the advantages of the town of Oban, on which several reports have been made to him by his engineers, as a port for the vessels of the shipping combine. Mr. Morgan's plan was to take his friends over to Ireland for the coming motor race and to make his tour of inspection through the country after that event.

ALLIANCE GOING AFTER BLUE LAWS

Pennsylvania German-Americans Will Take Up Repeal in Deadly Earnest.

POLITICIANS ARE DENOUNCED

Resolutions Declare Present Generation Is Placed in Position Similar to That of Signers of Declaration of Independence.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

JOHNSTOWN, PA., June 28.—Two features of more than ordinary importance marked the session of the German-American Alliance at the Turner Hall today. One was a declaration against bossism and jobbers in politics, a cutting arraignment of the methods employed by the political forces that control the country at the present time, and a declaration that in so far as the members of the German American Alliance are concerned, they will henceforth hold aloof from parties and from men upon whose methods rests the taint of illicit dealings.

The other declaration was a reaffirmation of the stand taken by the German-American alliance of the blue laws that still remain on the books of the state of Pennsylvania. For several years the alliance has quietly conducted a campaign calculated to secure an amendment of these statutes. Several times at their behest bills have been introduced into the legislature and each time were buried in the committee.

The Alliance has now determined to make an open fight on this question and its meeting pledged itself at the next session of the legislature to ask for a vote on the blue law question.

The resolutions deal with the present political situation and declare that the present generation is placed in a position similar to that of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. They combatted monarchial aggression, while the present generation is issuing emphatic protest against certain political conditions that have sprung up in the course of time and have undermined the rights of the citizens.

Machine politics, it is declared, has called into existence a class of men who sell all offices for money and for votes, and that the penalties for this class cannot be too severe for both purchaser and vender. A law making vote and influence buying punishable by long imprisonment is advocated in order to place the legislature on a more moral plane, and the German-American element is called upon to emancipate the country from the condition of affairs.

The session was opened by an address by the president, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, after which the reports dealing with the business of the year past were read and discussed. It was unanimously decided to retain the headquarters in Philadelphia. Lancaster was selected as the place for the next state convention.

During the session a long-standing precedent was broken, and a man not a German was admitted to membership. Henry Phipps of Pittsburgh was the man so honored. The immense amount of work that Mr. Phipps has done toward introducing physical culture in various educational institutions of the country and the fact that he contributed $100,000 to the widows and children of the Boers slain during the war in South Africa marked him for this distinction.

Among the things done was the appointment of a committee to draw up plans for the introduction of the German language in the public schools and the formulation of a scheme to raise the standard of the state normal school. The committee is as follows: Prof. Farren of Allegheny, Prof. Learned of the University of Pennsylvania, Prof. Harbaugh, of Pittsburgh and Adolph Timm of Lancaster.

During September the national convention of the Alliance will meet in Baltimore. The following state delegates were selected: Dr. C. J. Hexamer, Arno Leonardt, Adolph Timm and Herman Weber. The old officers were re-elected as follows: Dr. C. J. Hexamer, president; Arno Leonardt, first vice president; Henry Detreux, second vice president; Adolph Timm and Herman Weber, secretaries; Hans Weniger, treasurer, and John Weber, financial secretary.

RING WAS RECOVERED.

Allegheny Girl Confessed to Theft from Woman on Whom She Was Calling.

Threatened with being locked up and with exposure if she did not return a diamond ring, which she had been suspected of stealing, a young woman living in Allegheny broke down yesterday and confessed to the theft. On account of the fact that the principals in the affair are from well-known families the police refused to make public their names.

Assistant Superintendent John Glenn of the Allegheny police force was notified yesterday of the loss of the ring by a woman resident, who charged that it had been picked up by a younger woman who had been calling on her on Friday afternoon. There having been nobody else in the room previous to the disappearance of the ring, the elder woman was firm in the assertion of her suspicion.

The younger woman was very indignant when accused by Detective Einstein, who was sent to bring her to the police station, protesting her innocence during the walk thither. When threatened with being locked up, however, she confessed that she had taken the ring and that she had dropped it, tied up in her handkerchief, in a cellar grating in Federal street, on the way to the station house.

Glenn accompanied the girl to the spot and recovered the ring, which was a three-stone setting valued at $150. When it was returned to the owner she was so excited that she failed to thank the officers for their pains.

Eight Men Fined for Fighting.

A fight among some Poles was in progress at No. 8 Picnic street, South Side, early yesterday morning and Lieut. Morley arrested eight men; charging them with being suspicious persons. Andy Fishoski had a cut five inches long in his arm which had to be sewed up. All were fined $5 and costs.

MISS CAMPBELL REVIVES OLD STYLE AND GIVES LEWIS AN ADVERTISEMENT

Miss Campbell, With the Peggy O'Neal Headdress.

There has been a new fashion introduced this season at Newport by a number of leaders—that of wearing the hair loosely about the shoulders. It was started in revival of a style that was originally set during the presidential administration of Andrew Jackson by Peggy O'Neal, the famous historical beauty. The fashion of wearing the hair in ringlets about the shoulders is becoming known as the "Peggy O'Neal Revival," and is spreading from Newport to various other fashionable centers. With this quaint coiffure the early colonial mode of dressing has sprung into vogue. It is familiarized as the "Peggy O'Neal Fashion," and it includes the drooping shouldered waist and the three or four flounced skirt—such as our great-grandmothers used to wear. For the first time it is now publicly known that this style of coiffure and attire, supposed to have been revived solely by leaders at Newport, has in reality been revived by a famous western beauty. Miss Campbell, daughter of ex-Gov. James E. Campbell of Ohio. She posed for the miniature frontispiece of "Peggy O'Neal," by Alfred Henry Lewis' new patriotic novel of this title, and is seen in the frontispiece with her hair hanging in unconfined clusters about her shoulders.

Oyster Bay Pastor Eschewed Politics in Sermon That President Heard.

QUIET DAY AT SAGAMORE HILL

Chief Executive Will Receive No Callers Except Those Who Have Made Arrangements With His Secretary for an Interview—Townsend Triumphant.

(Special Telegram to The Gazette.)

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 28.—Pressing governmental business completely disposed of before he left Washington, President Roosevelt's chief desire and intention now is to enjoy himself. Sagamore Hill suits him admirably for the purpose and he does not particularly care for anyone outside of his family or an occasional personal friend to help him have a good time. Horseback riding, long woodland tramps, tennis, for which the president has a great liking, rowing on the bay, are all on the summer amusement list at Sagamore Hill. Incidentally, the vigorous exercise will tend to wear away the superfluous flesh which he took on during his recent western trip. Thus far no engagements have been made with public men to come to Oyster Bay with questions of politics or policy to engage the president's attention. President Roosevelt will have much to do and will be at all times in touch with all governmental business, especially the postal scandal, but the remoteness of Oyster Bay from the beaten paths of national travel will relieve him from the vast hordes of callers, many of them with only trivial business that besiege him in Washington.

With the exception of the president's attendance at the morning service in Christ Episcopal church today, Oyster Bay was a wonderful contrast with the cannon-booming, civil-reception, committee-maneuvering and rival-band-tooting of yesterday. In a three-seat open-top wagonette, in which were seated besides himself, Mrs. Roosevelt, Quentin, Archie and Ethel, he drove to worship, bowing right and leftsa, he passed acquaintances among the townspeople.

Interested in Sermon.

In another open vehicle came Theodore, Jr., with two or three boys of about his own age. All entered the church and occupied two pews mid-way toward the chancel rail. The president followed the sermon closely, although he is not a communicant of the Episcopal church. He attends it here, however, because there is no Dutch Reformed church congregation here. Mrs. Roosevelt is a communicant.

"Expansion" was the theme of the sermon by the Rev. Dr. Washburn, but it was expansion of religion and its effect on the progress of Christianity and not expansion of territory. Dr. Washburn said in part:

"The signs of the times indicate the time is approaching for the evangelization of the world. There is serious need of united effort. Christianity is divided into a hundred different bodies. The only way to reconcile them will be by mutual concessions. This expansion of religious thought is not already the belief expanding with regard to the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. The desire for union is broadening. Our own church contributed much to this end at a recent conference. But we have not gone as far as we can. No term of church policy is based on anything better than inference and expediency. Why may not all policy be modified to produce a common policy to which all may subscribe? Some politics are modified to a form to which all may subscribe; church dogmas are subject to the same test."

Townsend Gets the Glory.

As he left the church, President Roosevelt set the crown of victory squarely on the head of Mr. Maurice Townsend, whose independent reception committee and band beat the Oyster Bay board of trade's reception committee in the race they made to be first to welcome him home. As the president was driving away from the church he espied Mr. Townsend.

"Hullo, Townsend," he cried, extending his hand over the wheel. "I congratulate and thank you for the splendid celebration yesterday."

Mr. Townsend beamed triumphantly, but apparently all heartburning on the part of citizens over the reception program has faded away.

During the afternoon, which the president spent quietly, he read with interest the newspaper accounts of the rivalry attending his home-coming. He was also glad the Oyster Bay ball teams won both games.

The U. S. S. Sylph, Lieut. Preston commanding, is at anchor in Oyster Bay and will serve for excursions for the family and to take Mrs. Roosevelt to New York on shopping expeditions or other errands whenever she desires to go.

A middle-aged woman with a nimble and vigorous tongue is still nursing grievances over the relics of yesterday's celebration. She tried to crowd through the ropes to President Roosevelt as he arrived, but was prevented by secret service men. "Don't you stop me like that," she cried. "You secret service men do not need to think you can come up here and own Oyster Bay, anyway."

Another Man Disappointed.

"Black Diamond" Henry Johnson, who was also prevented from embracing the president yesterday, was around the streets today in the same enormous silk hat, crimson waistcoat with egg-sized buttons, striped trousers and loud cravat that he donned yesterday. Asked about the vigorous rebuff he got from the detectives, he swelled up and replied with dignity:

"Owing to the circumstances I had no opportunity to extend de president de welcome I wanted to, but that's plenty time left me boy, plenty time left. De president looks mighty fine and appears to be a mighty fine gentleman."

READY FOR CONVENTION.

Catholic Total Abstinence Union Has Secured Duquesne Theater for August 5, 6 and 7.

The Catholic Total Abstinence union of the diocese of Pittsburgh held its regular monthly meeting in Duquesne hall, No. 216 Penn avenue, yesterday. A. B. Flood of Irwin, the newly-elected vice president, acted as chairman. The reports of the delegates showed an increase in the strength of the local societies and the secretary and treasurer made a favorable financial report. Addresses on the work were made by the Rev. John G. Beane, P. W. Joyce, Charles D. McShane, P. McSteen and J. A. Weldon. An invitation to attend the carnival of Corpus Christi church at Kenwood Lawn, Lawrenceville, was accepted.

After the union adjourned the general convention committee met with the Rev. John G. Beane in the chair. The committee on hall reported that the Duquesne theater had been secured for August 5, 6 and 7, and that the sessions of the convention would be held there. The committee on hotels reported the receipt of several donations from leading houses. A list of the hotels with the rates charged will be sent to the societies that will attend the convention. The committee on finance presented a discouraging report. The donations are coming in very slowly and considerable more money is needed than has yet been contributed.

The general committee will meet hereafter each week until the date of the convention.

Says Five Poles Robbed Him.

Special Officer James Connor yesterday afternoon arrested Stanko Lovich, John Covitz and Lagus Kasis, Poles, at their home, No. 2626 Burgh street, as suspicious persons. Mitchell Carson of South Twenty-sixth street and Larkin alley reported that five Poles had entered his room in the morning and stolen his pocketbook, containing $100. He identified the three men under arrest as three of the five who had committed the robbery.

One Man Badly Hurt in the Fight.

John Mutchlick, Matt Moran, Mike Moran and Mike Bonsisk were arrested at No. 441 Windon street, South Side, early yesterday morning by Policemen Louis Apel and Daniel Walsh, and were given a hearing by Magistrate J. H. Vitchesham as suspicious persons. The men had been fighting at the house and Mutchlick was badly beaten about the head and face. He had a cut about seven inches long in his scalp and Dr. A. E. McCandless had to put 10 stitches in it. All were fined $5 and costs, which they paid.

Once Wealthy, Dies Pauper.

STAMFORD, CONN., June 28.—David L. Vanderheyden, 73 years of age, who claimed to have been a personal friend of Roscoe Conkling, died at the town farm today of heart disease. A number of years ago Vanderheyden was a prominent citizen of Utica, N. Y., and was considered quite wealthy. He came here 15 years ago and his fortune was disposed of so rapidly that he has been living on the town farm for some time.

Women's Corner

When will women get over the absurd idea that housework when done for others is menial and degrading. This fallacy is cherished by many who might otherwise earn a satisfactory wage as cook or waitress, and who are excellently fitted for the work. The position of a servant may be made very unpleasant, but when the mistress of the house remembers that she is simply in a business relation with her maid, that she must treat her with the same consideration, but also with the same strictness with which her husband treats the employes in his office, and when the servant may be made to understand and enter into the relation just described, the question of servility will be laid away forever. You would write another woman's letters for pay, then why not cook her breakfast? You may know much more about cooking than about writing letters, anyway, and be much more of a success at it. If your position is unpleasant, leave it and get another. There are plenty of women of sense in this world who appreciate trained service and will pay for it. The servant must have a dignity of her own. All this sounds very chimerical, but it would be a great solution of the servant problem which vexes so many hearts. But is it not a droll commentary on human nature that many a woman will take a position as "housekeeper," and cheerfully do all the cooking and marketing whereas any position as "cook" she would scorn?

'Twixt Mistress and Maid.

SALLIE CARROLL.

* * *

Two estimable antiquities of the genus "old maid" were recently looking over the heterogeneous mass of mail matter that is dumped at the door of a typical boarding house, says the New York Tribune. It goes without saying that being "guests" of the house they were more or less interested in their fellow boarders' postal affairs. After much sorting out, with a running commentary of criticism, one of them chanced upon a periodical addressed to "Mrs. Brown." "Arabella, will you look at this!" she exclaimed excitedly. "Mrs. Brown!" with a volume of emphasis on the title, "and she never had a husband in her born days! The idea of Sarah Brown passing herself off as a married woman! I suppose she gets no end of satisfaction out of fooling those magazine people," and they thereupon decided to snub the innocent spinster for her unwarranted assumptions when next they should encounter her in that common rendezvous, the dining room. It did not enter into their calculations that the relative value of the terms "Miss" and "Mrs" is not a matter of such vital importance with the overworked typesetter in the mailing department of a modern magazine as in the small world of their side street boarding house.

A Feminine View of It.

A water ice not too sweet, composed largely of fruit juices lightly mixed with delicately flavored preserved fruits, served with sponge cake, forms a delightful dessert; besides, it is one of the most acceptable refreshments to offer a guest or a chance caller who drops in upon you during the hot weather. The materials for one of these dainty and refreshing boxes may be prepared and kept on hand ready for use whenever required and with a patient manager it will take but a few minutes to have an ice ready to serve.

Ice of Preserved Fruit.

To preserve the fruits required, peel and cut a pineapple in very small pieces, stone and cut a quart of heart cherries in pieces quite small; then peel and cut in halves, lengthwise, six bananas, and slice them very thin. After the fruit is cut put it in alternate layers in an earthen dish big enough to hold it, and over each layer of fruit sprinkle a light layer of sugar. When all is in, cover the dish with a napkin and stand it in a cool place over night. Do not have the layers of fruit more than one inch deep before sprinkling over the sugar. In the morning drain the juice from the fruit into a saucepan, over the fire; add enough more sugar to make the juice quite sweet, and let it boil gently to a rather thick syrup, making it clear by removing the scum as it rises to the surface. When the syrup is clear and thick, drop the fruit in, and let it cook about 10 minutes; then put in a pint or small glasses with the syrup, and keep it in a cool place till ready for use.

Crystal, enamel and bronze, porcelain, ivory and silver! What a wonderful variety of materials and what a wealth of beautiful ornaments fashioned in them we have to choose from, if we have a mind, but at present most of us have them all by and floor our rooms with post-toy necessities. Gunmetal pigs and china slippers, velvet fruits and sealing-wax demons, fight for what space our photographs leave us, and the beautiful things, the sparkling crystals, the creamy ivories and exquisite bronzes are voted "old-fashioned" and left in cabinets and on shop shelves. This is a pity, as commonplace knick-knacks utterly spoil whatever they are meant to adorn. If we aim at distinction—that subtlest of all qualities—our ornaments must not only be fine in themselves, but they should be in harmony with their surroundings. So this subject comes to be one of the most difficult on which to generalize, as each room requires individual treatment.

Latter-Day Bric-a-Brac.

* * *

In a recent lecture F. Hopkinson Smith said that nature abhorred a straight line even more than the traditional vacuum. "To give a room the rare quality of what I may call an attractive personality, to render an apartment picturesque and thoroughly charming eliminate all straight lines except one or two that have the severest simplicity of comfort and stability. Restfulness. Nothing is so harrassing to the nerves as well as so thwarting to the multitude of angles and outlines that invade us upon every side in modern dwelling. Imagine a bare wall here and there a delicate coloring or a simply draped background where large, graceful folds suggest amplitude of environment, even in the most limited space, are infinitely more to be desired than the picture crowded, bric-a-brac smothered rooms where the broad laugh of comfort is forever and of a necessity unknown of the mediocre, who are minus individual taste in such matters or too timid to assert it."

An Artist's Idea of Good House Furnishing.

"It's a fortunate thing," observed Miss Churchmouse complacently, "that fate has not been unkind to me in the matter of brains as in the matter of money. By sartorial inspirations are my looks due to my home-made suit in yellow linen, and by means of them I sometimes manage to look almost as well as my cousin, Miss Crossus, at one-tenth the price.

Clever Economist.

"Observe this same white linen gown, which you have so kindly admired. I made it beautiful with mine own fingers. Those wheels I made with unbleached thread and a tatting needle. It did not take long when I gave their effort on the front of the dress. Since I made a row to go around the bottom of the skirt, above the rocks. Then I cut narrow linen strips, embroidered them with dots of the linen thread, and joined the wheels around the skirt with them.

"My parasol emerged from last season a faded, spotted unbeautiful thing. So I ripped the cover off, cut one over it out of white linen, made me some more thread wheels for its adornment, and had it mounted for a trifle at an umbrella repairing shop.

"My hat cost just $1.70, plain. The linen scarf around it I made myself, inserting the lace wheels on the ends and adding the white fringe.

"Oh no, I didn't make the gloves, 15c. But I paid only a dollar for them, and they will wash. Really, don't you think my efforts do me credit?"

And anyone looking at the trim, merry faced, dark haired girl would have willingly said "yes."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"King Edward," writes a Rome correspondent of the Westminster Gazette, "has come, and seen, and conquered with one exception—the Princess Yolanda. She, the eldest daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, had imagined that the king of England was coming especially for her benefit, so her disillusionment is easily imagined when not only did he prove to be old, but she was shut in the nursery and not allowed to 'one' our without special permission. The princess, however, decided not to endure any such injustice, but nurses were vigilant. However, one morning while papa and mamma were very much occupied she found the door open and slipped out quite unseen. But mamma's eyes were sharp, and she discovered her daughter hiding behind a huge chair. 'Yolanda, why did you run away?' asked the queen. 'I didn't,' she replied, 'I only wanted to see King Edward's crown, and Miss Dickens kept me in the nursery. And the nasty man hasn't got a crown after all!'"

The picked meat from a dozen boiled, hard-shelled crabs. Mix with it an equal quantity of fine bread crumbs; season to taste with salt, pepper and cayenne. Stir in two ounces of butter to a light cream and a teaspoonful of mustard powder; add a tablespoonful of cream and then, a little at a time, stir in the crab meat and crumbs. Fill the crab shells; sprinkle with bread crumbs, add bits of butter and bake in the oven until brown.

SITUATION RELIEVED BY FAVORABLE SIGNS

Heavy Payments on Pennsylvania Stock Subscriptions Did Not Develop Expected Flurry in the Money Market.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 28.—The developments of the week in the financial, commercial and agricultural world were not sharply enough defined to clearly foreshadow the future. Some features of a distinctly favorable character presented themselves for consideration. Chief among these was the highly satisfactory outcome of the Pennsylvania stock subscription. Despite the heavy payment involved the money market failed to develop its expected flurry and the banks at the week's end made a somewhat better showing than had been anticipated. Railroad traffic returns, while not uniform, showed up satisfactorily in the main, and a number of industrial corporations, despised and rejected as a class, showed in highly gratifying reports that discrimination might properly be permitted to have some play even in this quarter.

Uncertainty, however, is still the dominating influence in all markets. Crop and weather advices have been of a conflicting character, weighing rather more upon the unfavorable than the favorable side of the equation, which, together with technical conditions and speculative influences, resulted in sharp and disquieting advances in cereals. The labor situation, practically in New York, took a turn for the worse. Signs of business reaction multiplied, if not in the general industrial situation, at least pronouncedly in special lines, influenced directly by high cost of labor and material, strikes or speculative adventures in staple products. This is particularly true of the great textile industry and the innumerable trades directly or indirectly influenced by the building material strike and lockout.

The best thing which can be said of the security market is that it was normal to existing conditions. If it is permitted to pursue its natural course—and there is little doubt of that, for this is 1903, not 1902, and Wall street has learned some things of value by bitter experiences in the interval—it will continue the process for some indefinite period longer. Stocks will have their little upward or downward movements, as the case may be, due to purely professional manipulative operations. The great swing of the market, however, in either direction, will not be set in motion by any of the cheap thimble-rigging devices of the past.

What renders the successful outcome of the Pennsylvania stock subscription the matter of first importance among the developments of the week is the encouragement which it gives to financial interests that when properties are intrinsically sound and relatively cheap they do not lack for supporters. It is not to be inferred, however, that what is possible with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, assisted by a capable and powerful syndicate, is equally so with the general run of operations. One incident will suffice to illustrate the difference. On the same day that the announcement was made of the successful outcome of the Pennsylvania deal, a member of the banking firm of Drexel & Co. was explaining to the courts some features of the plan for the strengthening of that other important Philadelphia enterprise, the Cramp Shipbuilding Company. Never in his experience, said the banker, had he encountered such difficulty in inducing institutions and individuals to advance money as in the case in point. No private persons, banks or trust companies, either in New York or Philadelphia, desired to participate, and it was only on an appeal to the civic pride of Philadelphia and to avert a blow which threatened the industrial prosperity of the country that the necessary funds were secured.

In the Oil Fields

Lower southwest oil operators had more to interest them during last week than has occurred in the last six months. A large extension to a pool of some magnitude and the probable discovery of a new pool, separate and distinct from any other development, are more than has been their usual luck in a single week.

The first is located in advance of the Pine Grove extension in Wetzel county, West Virginia, and opens a large block of deep-sand territory that promises to be prolific in production. For some months the Pine Grove extension has been growing in interest and activity. It was thought, however, that the producing limits had been pretty clearly defined till the South Penn Oil Company drilled in a test on the Lida Lemasters farm two miles in advance to the west. This secured about three weeks ago and revived interest in that side of the field.

It was left for the same company to make the most important discovery of the year when it drilled in its test on the Thomas J. Showalter farm last Monday and secured a gusher in the Gordon sand with an initial production of 50 barrels an hour. This made it the largest producer that has been found since operations began last year looking toward connecting up the Pine Grove field with the old Rocky Run field in the north. Notwithstanding the Showalter well made a sensational start, there were some fears that it might prove a repetition of the fiasco on the Jesse Talkington farm into the east of the Folsom district. This well made quite a furry when first drilled in, but proved a quitter, and it was thought that the new gusher on the Showalter farm might prove as great a disappointment when put to the test.

Owing to lack of tankage and pipe line connection the production had to be restrained for two days, but when the well was opened up it placed more than 800 barrels to its credit the ensuing 24 hours and finished the week by producing more than 500 barrels the last day. This is a creditable performance and makes the outlook promising for those holding leases in that locality.

Operators are losing no time in starting new work, and the busy times witnessed on the west side in the vicinity of the Lemasters well will in a few weeks be duplicated on the northeast.

Down in the Fallen Timber Run district, in Wetzel county, A. W. Mellon & Co.'s Big Injun sand producer on the D. B. Ice farm started with a record of 300 barrels a day, giving the distinction of being the largest producer that has been found in this development. Its production began to fall off the latter part of the week and was down to 175 barrels a day. Operations in this district since the first well was drilled in last year on the Z. T. Francis farm have not been encouraging, but the Ice farm well enhances the value of the territory to the south of developments, and it is in this locality that the most new work is starting. It is more than probable that this development will be connected up with the old Smithfield district to the southeast, where the South Penn Oil Company has recently completed some good producers on the Peterson farm.

Southwest of the Fallen Timber Run development Treat & Crawford and the J. C. Trees Oil Company drilled in a test on the Jackson farm that failed to find any production in the Dunkard sand, and it is now drilling to the Big Injun. These companies had previously completed two good producers in this development. At the outset it was regarded as a freak discovery, so that the duster was not so much of a surprise. Looking for an extension to the Fallen Timber Run development was the incentive for starting the first well, but when paying producers were found in the shallow sand they did not go deeper, so that the last new drilling down on the Jackson farm will be watched with some interest when it nears the lower formations.

Fewer wells were completed in the Folsom district during the week than has been the rule. In point of location the test on the C. E. Robinson farm is the most important. The well is good for 30 barrels a day and is located a mile in advance of the test on the Jesse Talkington farm. It makes the outlook promising for connecting up the Folsom district with the Cooper-Wallace development. The best producer drilled in the Folsom district during the week was the same company's No. 5 on the P. Stookey farm. This well is producing 115 barrels a day and has not been completed. This is still a busy district, and it will be months before there is a cessation in operations.

It is certain that the deep-sand territory will furnish the most of the new production in the lower southwest during the current year.

Nearly all of the counties in West Virginia that produce oil show a revival in operations, and the month's report of field work will witness new operations in some of the old districts in which a well has not been drilled for several years. The discovery of new pools or extensions to former fields is the best incentive for this new effort. Ritchie county is still the most favored with work of that character. The Keener sand district in the vicinity of Borda creek has been the most active during the month, but the dusters outnumbered the producers. Along Indian creek in Murphy district, there are some wildcat operations looking for production in the salt sand.

Calhoun county is claiming a little attention, and it is possible that the Wirt county development will be extended. The northeast of the Yellow Creek pool may be connected with a line of producing wells.

The discovery of a new Keener sand pool is the probable result of operations in Southeastern Ohio last week. The Pittsburgh Oil and Gas Company is entitled to the credit of striking this discovery. The well is on the Sylvester Yoho farm about one mile northwest of Woodsfield, in Monroe county. It is purely a wildcat, being about two miles in advance of the nearest producer, the Keener being the old Moose Ridge field in the same county. At six feet in the Keener the well began to produce, and flowed 240 barrels the first 24 hours. It was expected to do much deeper Saturday, but nothing was heard from it, so that if it was improved by going deeper into the sand the result was not known at the office of the company.

In the past the Keener sand pools in the northwest part of the county have been small in area, and it would not be a surprise if this should prove the same in the end.

The territory to the northeast of Monroefield that was expected to furnish a new Big Lime pool is proving a disappointment. Four wells have been completed looking for an extension to the small Big Lime producer on the M. Burkett farm, but all have been dusters. In the Sycamore valley there is still marked activity, and some few of the new wells are creditable producers. All through the lower districts there will be activity, but the shallow sand districts in Washington and Morgan counties are completing a large number of wells, but the volume of new production is small.

In the local fields there is not much new work starting, and the only locality that is attracting any attention is south of the old McDonald field, where it is thought a little Gordon sand streak has been discovered.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF MARKET PRICES

Flour Quotations Continue to Advance — Berries, Currants and Cherries Lower.

While there has been no decline in the price of hay, the market for all grades being firm, there has been a setting down of conditions to a steadier basis than ruled a week ago, when the market was somewhat excited. Quotations are established on a slightly lower basis than ruled last Monday, but are steady and holding firmly to figures quoted. Straw has passed through the week without change and with little business done. Oats have been the feature of the last few days and the week closed with prices more than 2 cents a bushel higher than at the opening. Excellent demand, moderate receipts and stronger western markets have been the influencing factors in the situation. Corn has also been in much firmer position and prices are now higher than they did a week ago. Millfeed has had a quiet week, with little change of price.

Flour has been influenced by the much stronger conditions in wheat and several advances have occurred. Quotations for fancy spring patent flour, while higher than those of the opening of the week, are not yet up to the height the market justifies, jobbers preferring to act conservatively and not quickly follow the mill advances. The range of quotations is the lowest at which selling is done and there are buying orders coming in from receiving higher figures for the flour they sell. Coffee, while unchanged in the local market, has been stronger in the east, where considerable speculation has advanced prices of green about an eighth. No reason is assigned for the flurry in the situation, except that some speculators consider coffee a good purchase at present figures and have been making some investments, believing conditions must soon change for the better in the general situation. Sugar holds at the same figures as at the opening of the week. Navy beans are firm at prices about the same as those quoted a week ago. Cereals have been much stronger and some Pittsburgh jobbers have advanced prices, while others have only supplied, are holding at former selling figures.

There has been an enormous demand all week for canned goods, both spot and futures, and quotations have gone through with unchanged. Dried and evaporated fruits hold their own at former figures.

The potato market is stronger and higher. Advances have been made in old which put them to the highest point of the season, which is almost over, few old potatoes remaining unsold. New potatoes have been held back by poor growing weather and prices have advanced, dealers believing there may be further advances this week. Sweet potatoes are out of the market. Cucumbers have advanced. New cabbage is in better supply and prices went down at the close of the week. Celery is slow and lower. Fine stock. Egg plant from Florida is about done and supplies are now coming from New Orleans. String beans closed the week slow and the market was lower. Peas were easier on Saturday at declining figures. Florida tomatoes are about through with their season and supplies now come from Mississippi and Texas, stock from both of these states offering at lower figures. Tomatoes have had a week of great plenty and quotations went down with a crash. Home-grown produce continues scarce and high.

Strawberries are about over, but few are coming in now, and they are not of attractive quality. Raspberries are in fairly good supply and are easier. Blackberries are slow. Currants are more plentiful and lower.

Spring chickens are in better supply and prices declined at the close of the week. Butter, eggs and cheese all remain unchanged, with the market steady for butter, firm for cheese and easy for eggs.

NEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH FOR KNOXVILLE PLANNED

Pastor Dispensed With Sermon While Congregation Raised $700 in 20 Minutes.

TO BUILD BRICK STRUCTURE

History of the Church Which Has Made Wonderful Progress During the Pastorate of the Rev. Frederick M. Gordon.

The Rev. Fred M. Gordon

Another new church will be built in the borough of Knoxville. The Christian denomination in that place yesterday began a fund-raising campaign, and in 20 minutes over $700 was secured. This money will be used in clearing an obligation on three lots at Knox avenue and Charles street, and plans will be outlined immediately for the erection of a beautiful $18,000 brick and stone structure upon the site.

The Christians have the youngest, aggressive congregation in Knoxville. Yesterday morning the Presbyterians were dedicating a new house of worship and the event came as an added inspiration to the Christians, who have their church on the same street. The Rev. Fred M. Gordon, pastor of the Christian church, dispensed with the usual morning sermon, and the congregation discussed rather informally the matter of a more energetic undertaking in the Lord's work. The congregation has now grown too numerous for its little frame church, and with one accord the members declared the time had come for the building of more commodious quarters. Mr. Gordon and several laymen expressed their views, and a voluntary contribution for the purpose of paying off the $700 indebtedness on the property was taken.

It is intended to begin work on the new building about September 1. The property at Knox avenue and Charles street offers a most attractive building site, 75 by 100 feet. The present building will be sold, and the proceeds will go a long way to supply the building committee with funds for its undertaking.

The Knoxville Christian church was organized in December, 1899, with 18 charter members. Meetings were held in Logerman's hall in the Thirty-first ward, and for several years it was conducted by the Rev. W. F. Richardson, as the Allentown Christian mission. There was no regular pastor, but the pulpit was supplied by several ministers and laymen from the two cities, and the little flock grew rapidly. About eight years ago the Knoxville Presbyterian congregation decided to build a new brick church, and the little frame building they had occupied was purchased by the plucky communicants from the mission.

The frame structure was moved on skids 50 yards down Jucunda street, and since served as a convenient and cozy place of worship until the wonderful growth of the congregation necessitated more room. The Rev. W. C. Prewitt was its first pastor. He remained only a year, and was succeeded by the Rev. B. L. Kershner. The next pastor was the Rev. M. H. Wilson, who remained until May 13, 1900, when the Rev. Fred M. Gordon assumed the pastorate.

Mr. Gordon is a young man, a forcible preacher and organizer. When he was called to the charge the church had 84 members, but now has grown to 260. In the church are the grandchildren of some of the first followers of Alexander Campbell, and the history of the Knoxville congregation shows the spirit of inherited aggressiveness.

The officers of the church are: Elders, J. Edward Chesley and Mr. Gordon; trustees, George Brooks, Sr., J. McF. Easton and D. S. Kays; board of directors, J. McF. Easton, J. H. Lippincott, John A. Woods, R. E. Clifton, B. F. Armstrong, L. C. Eisengart, George Brooks, Robert S. Highcap, John H. Goff, T. F. Pendleberry.

AIMLESSNESS INVITES FAILURE, SAYS DR. REES

Methodist Minister Claims an Ideal Is Necessary to Success in Life.

"Don't Do That," was the topic of a sermon preached by the Rev. Dr. W. H. W. Rees in the Smithfield Street Methodist Episcopal church last night. His text was taken from First Timothy iv; 16, "Take heed unto thyself." Dr. Rees said in part:

To be aimless is to invite failure. One who means to succeed must have an ideal. He who builds a house must have a plan. He who lays out his life has much from his life work must follow a plan. I come out tonight and stand by the path over which you travel to warn you of some dangers.

Don't disregard God's book if you want to make much of life. David said: "Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee." Also: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." The book will give you food for thought, if will cultivate your spiritual nature. A man will not be strong physically who eats rotten but vigor. So a man will not be strong spiritually who does not feed on the word.

Don't imagine you can have a pure stream flow out of an impure fountain. The heart must be regenerated by the power of the Holy Ghost. No man can be good with a bad heart. The heart must not only be pure, but filled with love. I have often wondered where God's storehouse is, from which He supplies every vocal chord and out of which the spheres draw their music, but I know where His great storehouse of love is: it is the heart. Get thy heart right.

Don't think you can be a Christian and sinner at the same time. The Christian life admits of no compromise. The world is diametrically opposed to the church. The man who serves the world cannot serve God at the same time. The forces of light and darkness are not harnessed together. Where light comes darkness flees away. You cannot have darkness and light, day and night, at the same time and in the same place. No more can a man serve God and mammon at the same time. Religion is not two-faced. It is not a cloak to be worn Sunday and laid off on Monday.

Don't try to do battle for God outside His church. Join the army. Fight with the regulars. Don't be a guerrilla, fighting irregularly, but get in with the volunteers and march elbow to elbow with the people of God.

We owe it to the community in which we live; we owe it to ourselves; and we owe it to our Savior Who died for us, to identify ourselves with the church. Get in somewhere and let the world see your colors. Make it the habit of your soul to serve God.

INAUGURATED SERIES OF REVIVAL SERVICES

The Rev. Titus Lowe, pastor of the Fourth Street Methodist Episcopal church, North Braddock, last night began a series of revival services that are to continue for the next two weeks and probably longer. Mr. Lowe says midsummer revivals can be made to yield religious profits if they are conducted in the right manner. This week he will conduct the services himself. The following is the program: Tuesday, "The Doctrine of Deceit;" Wednesday, "The Delicious Gospel;" Thursday, "The Powers of the Present;" and Friday, "The Glory of Self-Satisfaction." Mr. Lowe leaves for India next October.

Cresson and Ebensburg Saturday Special for Season of 1903

will be placed in service Saturday, 27th inst., leaving Pittsburgh at 2:40 p. m. until further notice, stopping at principal stations to take on passengers for Cresson and Ebensburg, arriving at Cresson at 5:30 and at Ebensburg at 6 p. m. This special train will return Monday, 29th inst., leaving Ebensburg at 7 a. m. and Cresson at 7:45 a. m., arriving at Pittsburgh at 10:15 a. m.

SERVICES HELD IN MANY PARKS

Summer Open-Air Religious and Musical Meetings Attracted Good-Sized Crowds.

DR. PRUGH AT CALHOUN PARK

Reformed Minister Preached Sermon on "The Gospel" — Big Attendance at Southern, Oakwood, West, Schenley, Highland, Olymphia and Kennywood.

In many parks in Pittsburg and Allegheny religious and musical services were held yesterday afternoon and evening. This year's arrangements include all the large parks in this vicinity, and the musical services are more elaborate and the number of speakers more than last year. Great crowds attended the services yesterday.

In Calhoun park yesterday afternoon the principal address was made by the Rev. Dr. John Prugh, pastor of Grace Reformed church, East End. The music was furnished by the Braddock Library band, the precentor and soloist being E. D. Campney. After an hour's sacred concert, Dr. Prugh addressed the large concourse of people, his subject being "The Gospel." He said in part:

I come to you with a word of cheer and joy. The gospel is a message of glad tidings. On this beautiful day, under this beautiful blue sky out here in this beautiful bit of country park, our thoughts are of God. And the most glorious thing we have ever learned about God is that He is our Father. Man used to tremble at the thought of God and fled from Him. But the splendid revelation of Jesus Christ was to show us that God is our Father. And the grandest was to show us that life, possible is living in the companionship of God.

Suffered for Mankind.

We can every one of us come up to this privilege and high level through Jesus Christ. What does he, in those few short years from Bethlehem to Calvary, God always is. In the life and the sufferings and the death of Jesus Christ we have God living for and suffering for us, love suffering for the loved one's sake. We do not seek God because we fear Him. When we see how He suffers with us and for us, and how He touched with His life the poison of sin and died for us, that breaks the power of sin in us and constrains us to love Him who first loved us."

The gospel brings the inspiration of hope that even weak men will hold out to the end and "not be afraid." The great emphasis upon this glorious fact, "that God was in Christ," yea and "Christ in you the hope of Glory." God our Father loves every one of His children. He proves it by the life and death of Christ and He proves it, too, by the gift of His own Spirit, whereby every one of us can come off conqueror.

Last night the Rev. J. Ross Paden, D. D., pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church, Allegheny, preached the sermon at Calhoun park. The Braddock Library band furnished the music assisted by Prof. B. F. Butts and a chorus of 65 voices. Other park services held yesterday follows:

Religious Services in Parks.

Southern Park: 2:30 p. m., G. A. R. Band precentor and soloist, Luther Harper, speaker, the Rev. John Royal Harris, D. D., First Cumberland Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh.

Oakwood Park: 3:00 p. m., Bartley's Military band, precentor and soloist, Mr. G. Montgomery; speaker, Evangelist A. H. Kaylor, D. D. 7:30 p. m. Bartley's Military band, precentor and soloist, Thomas F. Smith; speaker, the Rev. Elijah R. Donohoue, West End Presbyterian church.

Schenley Park, Pittsburgh: 7:30 p. m., Fritsch Brass quartette, precentor and soloist, Luther Harper. Quo Vadis reproduced by stereopticon; speaker, Evangelist A. H. Kaylor.

Highland Park, Pittsburgh: 3:00 p. m., Fourteenth Regiment band, precentor, S. Richard Knotts; speaker, the Rev. John R. Russell, D. D., of the East End Christian church.

Olymphia Park: 2:30 p. m., Gernet orchestra, precentor and soloist, Benjamin Franklin Butts with chorus of 65 voices; speaker, the Rev. S. Edward Young. 7:30 p. m., Gernet orchestra, precentor and soloist, Edward B. Russell; speaker, the Rev. W. F. Althouse of First Reformed church, McKeesport.

Kennywood Park: 2:30 p. m., Rocereto's band, precentor and soloist, speaker, the Rev. P. L. Eaton, North Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny. 7:30 p. m., Rocereto's band, precentor and soloist, Samuel S. Amberson, Ben Hur reproduced by stereopticon; speaker, the Rev. S. Edward Young.

The sudden rain last night caused the abandonment of the services in Southern park and in West park, Allegheny. In the other parks the shelter that had been provided was used. At the close of the services the Rev. S. Edward Young, who had charge of them, met the choir leaders from each of the parks at his study in the Second Presbyterian church, Penn avenue, and received their reports. It was estimated that over 20,000 persons attended all the services yesterday.

UNIQUE SERMON THEME OF ALLEGHENY DIVINE

"In the Good Old Summertime" was the unique theme of a sermon preached by the Rev. John A. Jayne in the Observatory Hill Christian church, Allegheny, yesterday morning. He preached from the text, Psalms civth and 4, "I will sing praise unto the Lord, my meditation of Him shall be sweet," and called the psalm "The good old summertime psalm of David." Mr. Jayne stated that David was a true poet at heart, a poet among kings and a king among poets.

BIRTH OF WESLEY IS CELEBRATED

Founder of Methodism Was Born Two Hundred Years Ago Yesterday.

Two hundred years ago yesterday John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, was born. In all Methodist Episcopal churches throughout the entire world an observance of this anniversary took place. In churches of the denomination in Pittsburgh, Allegheny and vicinity many sermons were preached in commemoration of the event. A portion of a sermon preached by the Rev. W. B. Stutz, D. D., pastor of the Lincoln Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday morning follows:

There was a man sent from God whose name was John, that John the evangel speaks of the first great prophet of God before the Christ began His public ministry. But the expression is just as true when applied to John Wesley as when this writer speaks of the Baptizer. The two great leaders had much in common. A thorough vision of God, social ostracism, poverty, courage, persecution, a zeal following, a triumphant death, universally honored.

The man John Wesley was undersized, measuring but 5 feet 6 inches in height, and tipping the beam at 130 pounds. He carried not a pound of unnecessary flesh and was as muscular and active as an athlete. Tradition says that many a titled Englishman envied his splendid physique. He was a student from his early childhood. His intellect and reading would no doubt give him an hour of personal instruction every week for eight years—from four until he was 12—when he was sent to a boarding school.

During these eight years his mother taught him many lessons about his body, mind and heart. For this reason his character in after life showed more of the granite than of the clay. Mr. Wesley was not only an honor graduate of Oxford university, but was a renowned Greek scholar, a linguist, a scientist and a philosopher as his published volumes show, and as the most trustworthy historians acknowledge.

But man's usefulness to society is not measured by what he was in his attainments, but by what he did. Wesley's mission was not more than scholarship. Many of the most useless men in the present and past generations have been well equipped, but brought nothing of value to the world. John Wesley was a man of matchless energy. His only ambition was to do good. He used his great consecrated learning to bring hope and cheer to the neglected masses of England. He earnestly taught and exemplified the Christianity of Christ to the humblest toilers in the mines and factories by putting a first century interpretation upon the word of God.

While he was called a mystic by the people of his time, he was the messenger of good cheer to all. He could not be called "Mr. Cheer-up-to-dist," because every where he went the discouraged and hopeless crowded about him to hear the gracious words which proceeded out of His mouth.

The marvelous results which attended his ministry were only made possible because he was a true prophet of God and his zeal was recommendable with his ability. The author and compiler of 50 volumes preached 40,000 sermons, traveled without the aid of steam or electric cars nearly 300,000 miles, and left a parish of 100 members and 56 Methodists and adherents number 20,000,000. God buries his workmen but his work goes on.

BOROUGHS OBSERVED WESLEY'S BIRTHDAY

The Methodists of Braddock and vicinity yesterday celebrated the anniversary of the bi-centennial of the birth of John Wesley in a fitting manner. Today is the day set throughout Methodism for the observance of the founder's birth. At the First church the Rev. William Pitt Turner, D. D., the pastor, preached in the morning on "John Wesley" and the large choir sang hymns written by John Wesley. The First Swedish church held its special services in memory of the day in the morning, and the Rev. Titus Lowe pastor of the Fourth Street church, North Braddock, observed the bi-centennial of Methodism with his congregation, both morning and evening. The Rev. A. E. Husted of the McMasters church, Turtle Creek, held two special services in memory of the event. The Rev. N. B. Tannehill of the Wilmerding church spoke of what John Wesley had done for the world and the purity of religion, as well as of the consciousness of it.

The Rev. W. F. Silveus, D. D., pastor of the Second Cumberland Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, preached the dedicatory sermon at the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, Donora, Pa., yesterday morning. Dr. Silveus chose as his topic "The Church of Christ." "The work of the church of Christ," said Dr. Silveus, "is among young men and in their behalf. When our Lord was on the earth, He blessed the bodies as well as the souls of men. How often He found His way to the heart, through the administration to the body. Jesus has called His church to do a similar work. Soon after the beginning of the church, the inspired history informs us, it made liberal provision for the temporal wants of the people. We are taught: 'There was none among them that lacked. They had all things common.' 'As many as had houses and land sold them and gave the proceeds to the apostles, and distribution was made to every man as he had need.'"

The new Knoxville Presbyterian church was dedicated with impressive services yesterday. The dedicatory sermon was preached by the Rev. William McEwan at the morning service. Addresses were made in the afternoon by the Rev. Dr. Richard S. Holmes, the Rev. Dr. C. P. Cheeseman, James C. Gray and William C. Lilley. In the evening the sermon was preached by the Rev. W. S. Fulton, D. D. Meetings will be held at the church tonight and tomorrow night. The pastor of the church is the Rev. William A. Jones. The new church is built on the site of the former edifice which was blown down during a terrific storm on Easter Sunday, 1901, while the congregation was worshipping.

The dedicatory services of the new First United Presbyterian church of Leetsdale, Pa., were held yesterday. The morning sermon was delivered by the Rev. W. J. Wishart of Allegheny, and in the evening the pastor, the Rev. J. A. Gregg, occupied the pulpit. A series of special services will be held during the week, and will be conducted as follows: Today, the Rev. E. M. Milligan; Tuesday, the Rev. Thomas Park, D. D.; Wednesday, the Rev. W. Z. Harper, D. D.; Thursday, the Rev. W. W. Lawrence, and Friday, the Rev. G. W. MacDonald.

The new chapel of the Forty-sixth Street Baptist church in Lawrenceville, received its dedication yesterday. The Rev. J. S. Huston, pastor of the Beth-Eden church, Allegheny, preached in the morning, and the Rev. W. A. Stanton, pastor of the Shady Avenue church, in the evening. In the afternoon a platform meeting was held, presided over by J. Henry Stauff. Addresses were made by W. E. Lincoln and W. A. Melsaacs. The Rev. Warren G. Partridge, pastor of the Fourth Avenue church, will preach at a service tonight. The new chapel belongs to the Forty-sixth Street church, of which the Rev. T. Griffiths is pastor.

The Evangelical Church of the Redeemer in Brownsville avenue, South Side, was dedicated yesterday. This new congregation is a branch of Grace Lutheran church, South Side, and has for its pastor the Rev. D. L. Roth. The committee in charge of yesterday's dedicatory exercises was composed of J. Boyd Duff, William J. Clark and F. W. Drebert.

Consecration services in commemoration of the second anniversary of St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal church, Braddock, were held yesterday. This church was erected by Charles M. Schwab as a memorial to his wife's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Kinsey.

CROWDS GATHERED IN HIGHLAND PARK

The Rev. Dr. William J. Russell, pastor of the East End Christian church preached to a vast throng in Highland park yesterday afternoon. Prof. Richard S. Knotts, leader of the East End Christian church choir, had charge of the music. Dr. Russell took for his text John iii:16, "God so loved the world," etc. He said in part:

This text is one of the loveliest gems of gospel truth, called by Luther "the gospel in miniature." It contains more of the substance of the gospel than any other one verse of the Bible. It is so vast that it is almost impossible to do anything with it. There are some sentences that a man can walk around, and walk into and take possession of the truth. This is not such a sentence. There are some sentences whose preaching we may treasure, but this sentence is immeasurable, infinite. It is like the great vast ocean with fathomless depths.

CUSTOMS EMPLOYES HAVE TOO MANY JOBS

Treasury Official Investigates Cases of Allegheny Divided Interests at New York.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Assistant Secretary Armstrong of the treasury department has returned to the city from a brief business trip to New ork, during which he looked into the cases of Messrs. Samuel W. Thompson and Walter H. Eaton, employes of the custom house who are advertised as members of the board of directors of a mining company whose business has been under investigation by an official of the postoffice department.

Mr. Armstrong has requested a written report from these officials respecting their connection with the company and the alleged misrepresentations by the company in its advertisements of the positions held by them under the government, and says he expects these reports to be ready for Collector Stranahan tomorrow.

Mr. Armstrong tonight made it very plain that Messrs. Thompson and Eaton will be required to give up their connection with the company if they expect to remain in the customs service, and that, if their positions were misrepresented with their consent and approval, they will be liable to removal from office.

Treasury officials express decided objection to persons employed in the customs service engaging at the same time in some other business and intend to break up this practice as far as possible, holding that it is detrimental to the best interests of the service. There are many occasions, officials point out, where the government needs the service of an employe in the customs department outside of regular office hours, and if they happen to be engaged in business which interferes with this then the government is the sufferer. For this and other reasons officials believe the best interests of the public service will be conserved by employes not engaging in other business.

BASIS OF UNION TO BE DECIDED UPON HERE

The general committees on church union of the Methodist Protestant, United Brethren and Congregational churches will meet in Pittsburgh on Wednesday for the purpose of forming a basis of union. The place of meeting has not yet been settled, but it likely will be at the Young Men's Christian association building, where the first meeting was held last April. Last week the sub-committee appointed by the general committee held a meeting in Wilkinsburg, but their deliberations were kept a secret. That these churches will unite is practically agreed upon, but upon what basis is yet to be decided.

LEFT IT TO OFFICIAL BOARD AND THE PASTOR

The congregational vote taken last Wednesday by the members of the Second Presbyterian church, Pittsburgh, was announced from the pulpit by the Rev. S. Edward Young in the yesterday morning. The members voted on whether or not the official board and the pastor should have full charge of the disposition of the church property and by a large majority they voted to place the entire matter in their hands. Dr. Young stated last night that nothing definite regarding the sale of the property had been decided upon.

Norwegian Charged With Forgery.

NEW YORK, June 28.—When the Cunard liner Umbria docked today a United States marshal, at the request of the Norwegian consul, arrested Gustaf Erikson, who, it is said, is wanted by the authorities at Christiania, for forgery. No further particulars as to the charges against Erikson were mentioned in the cable advices to the consul.

The Common Sense of Dress

THE great London journalist, T. P. O'Connor, sums up the classes of people who hold clothes in contempt as follows:

FIRST—Those who cannot afford to dress well and who are ashamed of this inability.

SECOND—Those who are too mean, too idle or too careless to expend on the toilet the money, the brains and the trouble which a good toilet demands.

THIRD—Those who, having once been poor or careless, have developed into opulence and some of the conventionalities, but who are the victims of an incurable habit of dressing badly.

FOURTH—Those who are deficient in the perception of beauty and of that "fitness" from which beauty often springs.

FIFTH—Individuals of one idea—an idea which excludes all other ideas.

MEN who do not belong to any of the above classes will be deeply interested in special sales of the garments of their sex now going on here:
Men's Negligee Suits,
Men's Summer Shirts,
Men's Light Shoes.
Men's Summer Neckwear,
Men's Light Underwear,
Men's Hosiery.
Watch the afternoon papers this week for announcements that will make very profitable reading.

WOMEN who do not belong to any of the above classes will do well to acquaint themselves with what we are putting forth this week in the way of—
Ladies' Shirt Waists,
Ladies' Walking Skirts,
Ladies' Summer Suits.
Ladies' Neckwear,
Ladies' Undermuslins,
Ladies' Hosiery.
Keep a watchful eye on the papers this week for some announcements that will cause sensations.
